And Mildred, too, Mildred has been away at boarding school for several years, but is home this season, and their mother is going to Europe with them both this summer. I saw Edith the other day at one of the out-of-doors affairs, wearing a white silk skirt and shoes and a tan sweater over a sheer white waist. Her hat was a tan sailor and was trimmed with a ribbon scarf. Toinette Geyelin, who was with her, looked very well in a tan sweater and white skirt; sher hat was dark and very becoming. Those two girls are great friends and always together.

TAVE you heard about the concer-HAVE you heard about the concert with and dance which the Women Writers' Club of this city will hold at the Musical Arts Club on Friday evening of this week? Mr. Daniel Donovan is in charge of the concert program, and I understand there will be some very delightful music. Mr. Donovan will sing and Mr. Arthur E. I. Jackson among others. The committee in charge of the affair includes Miss Agnes Republic, 2d. who is chairman; Mrs. William McGill, Miss Eleanor Walker, Miss May Shull and Mrs. Clyde Hambright.

HAVE been hearing all kinds o wonderful things about the May Market which is to be held on the 28th out at Manheim—in other words, the Germantown Cricket Club. The Mor-Germantown Cricket Club. The Mor-ton Street Day Nursery and the Visit-ing Nurse Society of Germantown and Chestnut Hill will be the beneficiaries of the affair. During the last year 6340 children were cared for at the Day Nursery, and through the Germantown and Chestnut Hill visiting nurse agency and Chestnut Hill visiting nurse agency 1197 patients were given scientific care. That's a work that is worthy of help. I'll say, for I'know what those visiting nurses do, and it's marvelous what comfort they bring to the sick and suffering and at little or no cost. Where a patient is unable to pay just as much care is taken, and if spid patients prefer to be independent anything they can efford to give is accepted and given be fer to be independent anything they can afford to give is accepted and given to the upkeep of the society.

Mrs. Alexis du Pont Smith is general chairman of the market. The other chairmen include Mrs. S. E. Denniston. Mrs. Harold Lewis. Mrs. Frederick Clark. Mrs. Henry Stokes. Mrs. William Percival MacKenzie. Mrs. Edward P. Goodell. Mrs. Pyam I., Gilkey. Mrs. Albert Bacon, Mrs. Henry Carlisle. Mrs. William Cadbury, Mrs. Frederick Thomas. Mrs. Robert N. Downs, Jr., Mrs. Louis C. Madeira, Mrs. William G. Warden, Mrs. Frederick Strawbridge Mrs. Elwood F. Reeves and Mrs. Francis Stokes.

After the market the play "Nicholas"

After the market the play "Nicholas Sickleby" will be given in the ballroom f the clubhouse. Mrs. Downs and Mr. rank Palmer have been coaching this and it will be good, I'm sure of that. Altogether it sounds quite wonderful to mosphere of that market day myself.

DOR the benefit of those who may intend to commit matrimony soon, ten to this tale I have to tell. A ertain bride you know went with her future husband for the license, as is customary in this city of ours, and, leaving it to the future bridegroom's tender mercies, forgot all about it. N. B.—So did he!

N. B.—So did he!

Imagine the afternoon of the wedding, hearing the phone ring loudly and the agitated voice of the performer of the ceremony, which was to take place in an hour's time, demanding the license. What to do? The bridegroom had brought it out to the house, he said, on being called to the phone, and had left it on a certain spot. Well, even the bride in her raiment joined in the hunt. And, finally, out on the kitchen stove, which fortunately was not lighted, the license was discovered
