Ted Meredith won both crowns in 1915. He repeated in 1916. Karl Mayer, of Cornell, who also is in competition this year, copped the two titles last May. Athletes of the Meredith type come once in a generation, if that often. Mayer was lucky. He was against two poor fields. He hasn't a chance on Saturday to take both events. to take both events.

Two-Day Strain

Eby will go through a two-day strain. On Friday he will have to run heats in the 440 and 880 and then on Saturday go the half mile less than an hour after the scramble over the quarter-mile dis-

The biggest obstacle in Eby's path in the quarter will be Frank Shea, the Pittsburgh phenom, who in 1917 won the intercollegiate 440 in 47,3-5 seconds, one-fifth of a second slower than Meredith's world's record. Shea also was credited three years ago with a 47,2-5,440 in a trial race in the Smoky

Mrs. Barlow-

Mrs. Barlow won the medal from a good field of players competing for this year's championship yesterday by three strokes with a 92.

Mrs. Barlow is defending her title, which she has won seven times so far, and is the favorite again this year after her fine round yesterday. Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, Huntingdon Valley, who finished second to qualify in the championship flight with a 95, is the favorite to come through the lower bracket. She met Mrs. C. S. MacCain today, who qualified with 105 yesterday.

Mrs. Stetson had two penalty strokes yesterday and a ball out of bounds, which made three she couldn't use. The penalty strokes were taken on the last hole, when her ball dropped back into the quarry under a newspaper and Mrs. Stetson was obliged to lift it out in order to play at Til.

Harvey has not lost an interclub match in four years, and it is not likely that she will lose today, although Miss Townsend is sure to put up a good battle.

"I feel that Eby has an excellent chance of winning both the half and the quarter," said Robby, "He's a little fellow in height, but he's strong. No, I won't say he's as strong as Merediith, but his recuperative powers are great."

End the conditions that throttle our shipping

ORE than nine million tons of ships built in American shipyards fly the American flag on the high seas-

We have put a great merchant marine on the seas. But it cannot be kept there under present conditions.

It cannot make America independent of foreign shipping in getting American goods to the markets of the world.

It cannot meet in successful competition the ships of other countries which are built more cheaply; operated more

It cannot cope with trade fleets around which other Governments have thrown the protecting arm of preferential treatment and legislation.

But these conditions can be changed.

Under the operation of commercial treaties between the United States and other countries our merchant fleet almost vanished from the seas.

With our hands tied by these agreements, we have been powerless to take effective steps for the maintenance of our merchant marine.

These treaty provisions, which have operated to throttle American shipping, are subject to termination.

The Senate Shipping Bill expresses the opinion that they should be modified and directs action to this end.

When this is done we shall be in a position to enable American ships to hold their own in competition for our fair share of the commerce of the world.

This is a for-America policy that deserves the support of all good Americans.
