MISS FRANCES STARR

FRANCES STARR ARTIST'S BRIDE

Popular Actress Weds William H. Coffin—Not to Abandon Stage

New York, May 28.—Frances Starr, one of David Belasco's popular stars, was married yesterday afternoon at the Church of the Heavenly Rest to William H. Coffin, an artist of Garden City, L. I., and 80 West Fortieth street, Manhattan.

The bride announced that she intended to continue her professional work and that she would return to New York on June 7 to start rehearsing in a new Belasco production.

Miss Starr was born in Oneonta, N. Y., in 1886, and is the daughter of Charles E. and Emma Grant Starr.

She made her first stage appearance in a stock company at the Leland Theatre in Albany in 1901.

She was discovered by Belasco a few years later and has since starred in several of his most successful productions.

Her latest vehicle was Edward Knobloch's "Tiger Tiger."

Miss Starr and Mr. Coffin appeared at the Municipal Building and applied for a license shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and then proceeded immediately to the church.

Her residence is 158 West Fifty-eighth street and she had never been married before.

Coffin, who gave his age as forty-two and his birthplace as Charleston, S. C., said he was a widower.

YORD ROAD DETOUR PUZZLE

Motorists Must Drive Through a Labyrinth of Streets

A good guide could make an excellent living these days piloting motorists through the labyrinth of streets at the old homestead.

York road is blocked to traffic from Spencer street to Oak lane and from the City line to Ashbourne road.

Many of the motorists report that they can't remember the route of the detour into the city.

The detour extends east from York road at Ogontz, over Melrose avenue to Melrose Park, thence by an amazing series of turns to Fifth street and down to the Roosevelt boulevard.

Girard Students Visit Mines

Fifty-five students of Girard College are in Pottsville today sight-seeing over the vast tracts owned by the Girard estate.

The trip will not only give the students an idea of practical side of coal mining, but also of the geological structure of this region.

Employe Is Electrocuted

In attempting to repair a broken electric feed wire yesterday afternoon in front of a milk store at 241 Lombard street, where he was employed, Clarence Kratz, thirty-five years old, of 352 S. Krans avenue, Roxborough, was electrocuted.

An investigation disclosed that Kratz used a pair of steel pliers while working around the deadly wire. At the Pennsylvania Hospital, where he was pronounced dead, it was said that fully 2400 volts passed through his body.

Find Baby's Body in Sewer

Boys playing in a lot near the Fitter School, Seymour and Keyser streets, found the body of an eight-months-old boy baby in the sewer this morning.

The police believe that the body had been in the sewer for several weeks. There was no means of identification. It was taken to the morgue.

VETERANS TO UNITE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Exercises to Be Held in Fairmount Park Under Direction of Legion

GENERAL BUTLER TO SPEAK

Veterans of the world war, Spanish-American War and the Civil War will unite for the first time in a Memorial Day celebration in Philadelphia, which will be held under the direction of the American Legion on Belmont plateau, Fairmount Park, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A general invitation is extended to all former service men and women and to their families to attend this ceremony. The veterans are requested to appear in uniform.

Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, son of Congressman Thomas B. Butler, chairman of the naval affairs committee of the House of Representatives, will be one of the speakers.

The program will include Mayor J. Hampton Moore, Richard Weglein, president of the City Council; the Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, a Civil War veteran, pastor of Grace Baptist Temple; the Rev. Father Joseph L. N. Wolfe, chaplain, Department of Pennsylvania American Legion; Rabbi Harry Davidowitz, of the 312th Infantry, Seventy-eighth Division, who was wounded in action; The Philadelphia Police Band will provide the music.

A councilmanic appropriation of $1000 has been awarded to the American Legion for the purpose of assisting in defraying the expenses incident to the arrangement of the proper observance of Memorial Day. It is anticipated that thousands of persons will participate in this memorable event.

The Bridesburg Post No. 306, which now has 140 paid-up members and is backed by business interests of that community, is planning to make an aggressive campaign for a greater membership and for a post home, according to an announcement by Peter J. Znamierowski, the assistant adjutant.

At a regular meeting of the J. J. Barry Post No. 83, held Tuesday, May 25, Mrs. Katherine Scott, mother of Captain Clarence R. Scott, Company A, 316th Infantry, who was killed in action, presented the post a hand-embroidered guidon in memory of her son.

Mrs. Scott and her daughter are members of the Women's Auxiliary of the post.

The Women's Auxiliary of this post will hold a dance on Tuesday evening, June 1, at Volter's Dancing Academy, Fifty-second and Market streets.

The funds realized from this dance will be turned over to the memorial building fund of the J. J. Barry Post.

The delegates to the state convention have been instructed to urge support of the proposed bonus legislation and to bring the question of ratification for Pennsylvania to Philadelphia.

GERMANTOWN MAY MARKET HAS MANY NOVEL FEATURES

Miss Jane Mason Tells Tales of Old Dixie as "Hucksters" Shout Wares at Day Nursery Benefit Affair

Tales of the sleepy, sunny South are being told by an old colored mammy at the May Market at the Manheim Cricket Club, Germantown, today.

Miss Jane Mason is the mammy, dressed to fit the part and brimful of the good old stories that make the market-keepers chuckle as they pass from booth to booth.

The Germantown May Market is an annual event held for the benefit of the Morton Street Day Nursery and the Visiting Nurse Society of Germantown and Chestnut Hill.

This year there is a gipsy camp on the grounds, with Mrs. J. F. Thomas as the gipsy queen, and Miss Frances David Reed as chief fortune teller.

There are other gipsies who sell bead chains and paper rope baskets made by the crippled marines and sailors in the League Island Navy Hospital.

Other vendors include Mrs. Henry Marston, Jr., Mrs. Laurence B. Mellor, Mrs. Alfred Mellor, Mrs. Francis Brecht Kellogg, Mrs. James Lockwood and Miss H. Huntley are members of the camp.

Fresh vegetables, picked this morning, are on sale, and the most beautiful of the booths is the flower booth.

There will be dancing on the lawn this afternoon and evening, and in the ballroom of the club tonight.

Nicholas Nickleby will be staged by 300 participants under the direction of Mrs. Robert N. Downs, Jr.

Mrs. Alexis duPont Smith is in general charge of the market, assisted by Mrs. Francis R. Strawbridge. The cafeteria is under the direction of Mrs. William P. MacKenzie and Mrs. Harry Sharp.

Other vendors include Mrs. Shippen Lewis and Miss Frances David Reed, H. C. Carlisle, candy; Mrs. Albert Bacon; cake, Mrs. P. L. Gilkey; toys, Mrs. Frederic L. Clark; French pastry, Mrs. Edward P. Goodell; table decorations, Mrs. William G. Warden; flowers, Mrs. Louis C. Madeira; peanuts, popcorn, toy balloons, Mrs. W. E. Cadbury.

HOUSE VOTES TODAY ON WILSON'S VETO

Republicans Generally Admit Effort Will Be Futile, but Desire Record

By the Associated Press

Washington, May 28.—Though Republicans generally conceded there was not a chance of overriding the veto, the House expects today to vote on the question of re-passing the peace resolution which the President yesterday sent back to Congress unsigned, with the statement that he could not agree to such a program because he considered it would place "an ineffaceable stain" on the nation's honor.

Leaders predict that the House roll-call would fall short only a few votes of the required two-thirds majority, but said an attempt in the Senate to override the veto would be hopeless.

A record vote, however, had been planned in order that the matter might be disposed of promptly and in order that the records might show that Mr. Wilson, and not Congress, was to blame because the nation continues technically to be in a state of war with the central powers.

Both Senate and House leaders for the most part refrained from discussing the situation further than to reiterate that the issues of the treaty must be fought out in the coming political campaigns, unless the President soon again submits the treaty to the Senate, contemplation of which he did not indicate in his message yesterday.

To establish technical peace by such a method, the President said in his veto message, would be to effect "a complete surrender of the rights of the United States, so far as Germany is concerned," and to relinquish all the high purposes which led the nation into war, and which were embodied in the rejected treaty of Versailles.

In his message the President did not indicate whether he might again submit the treaty to the Senate for ratification, but he said the resolution raised again the question of whether the United States cared to draw apart from the rest of the world or to join with other nations in attaining the ends to which the treaty was framed.

The message went first to the House, where it received a cordial greeting with cheers by Democrats and derision by Republicans.

SIMS URGES NAVY BE REORGANIZED

Declares Civilian Secretary of Department Should Have Responsible Adviser

Washington, May 28.—Legislation reorganizing the Navy Department and creating a responsible military adviser to the civilian secretary was urged before the Senate naval investigating committee today by Rear Admiral Sims, who continued his testimony in rebuttal to Secretary Daniels and other witnesses.

The admiral ascribed the wartime failures charged by him against the navy to the present organization. He declared that Mr. Daniels in his testimony had not attempted to reply to specific criticisms, but had endeavored to "gloss over" the department's failures.

"In defending the navy," Admiral Sims said, "the secretary has also seen fit to introduce matters reflecting upon the war services of the navy of a friendly nation with whom we were associated in the war. He has charged that this navy was ineffective, that it had no plans and he has quoted the President's assertion to the effect that in the crisis it was helpless to the point of panic."

"He has further charged that I was so hypnotized by the service that I continued continuously to its policies and leaders; that my dearest hopes were bound up with such trivialities as decorations, that I consistently depreciated the efforts of my own service, ignored my own department, attempted to receive the head of my own nation, and endeavored to use the forces under my command in the interests of Great Britain and contrary to the interests of the United States."

"These charges, are of course, so baseless, so thoroughly in contradiction to the established facts that it seems hard how they could be seriously made."

The admiral denied all of the charges and told the committee that Mr. Daniels had entirely "misinterpreted" his attitude.

SUFFRAGE CLIMAX AT DOVER TUESDAY

Delaware Republican State Committee Plans Last-Minute Drive

BOTH SIDES ARE ANXIOUS

By a Staff Correspondent

Dover, Del., May 28.—A call has gone forth for a meeting of the Republican state committee here on Tuesday. County chairmen will be called here for a conference, in a last-minute effort to influence anti-suffrage legislation in favor of the ratification amendment, before the Legislature adjourns today.

Representative McNabb, Democratic floor leader, and head of the anti-suffrage forces in the House, said this morning, concerning the outlook:

"Suffrage will never pass. We, however, will extend every courtesy to facilitate matters, and will cheerfully agree to a suspension of the rules, so a vote may be taken on suffrage if the resolution is passed over today."

"My judgment is, however, that this will be the last opportunity for suffrage. I believe adjournment will be taken today, with the understanding that claims legislation only will be considered next week."

The Senate voted this morning to take adjournment this afternoon until Tuesday. The Senate to dispose of the school code then, with final adjournment Wednesday after consideration of appropriations and claims. The House is expected to follow suit, and suffrage supporters, it is believed, will have the ratification resolution, messaged over from the Senate Tuesday afternoon, ask for a suspension of the rules, and put it to the vote.

This opinion is sustained by the general sentiment that the Republicans will not care to face the country without at least having made an effort to put suffrage to the final test.

Friends of suffrage are anxious to
