CLOTHIER GIFT TO COLLEGE DEDICATED

Swarthmore Formally Receives Trotter Laboratory—Hicks Hall Ceremony Delayed

PLANS CHANGED BY RAIN

The Spencer Trotter Laboratory of Science was dedicated at noon today at Swarthmore College.

The building was presented by Morris L. Clothier, class of 1890, in commemoration of the thirtieth anniversary of the class.

Professor Spencer Trotter, the oldest member of the faculty and the only teacher still at the college who taught in 1890, in whose honor the laboratory is named, was an interested spectator.

John A. Miller, vice president of Swarthmore, accepted the gift. Mrs. Abby Hall Roberts, a member of the class of 1890, presented the bronze tablet on which was engraved:

"1890—1920
"This wing of Science Hall, the Trotter Laboratory of Biology, was dedicated by the class of 1890 in the thirtieth year of their graduation."
Hicks Hall, presented to the college by Representative Frederick C. Hicks, of the class of '93, was to have been dedicated, but the ceremonies were postponed because he is in China.

The baseball and lacrosse games scheduled for this afternoon were cancelled. "Monsieur Beaucaire," the senior play, will be presented indoors this afternoon instead of on the lawn.

"Francis W. D'Olier, class of 1907, was elected president of the Alumni Association; "Jack" Sprout, son of Governor Sprout, class of 1917, was elected vice president; Mrs. Nora Roberts, class of 1890, unveiled the class of 1907, second vice president, and Mrs. Roberts was re-elected secretary.

IRISH RAIL CHIEFS' DEMANDS REFUSED

Lloyd George Declines to Stop Shipments of Arms to Ireland

ORDER TO BE PRESERVED

By Associated Press
London, June 5.—The text of Premier Lloyd George's conversation with the National Union of Railwaymen leaders Thursday with regard to the refusal of Irish railwaymen to handle munitions was made public this afternoon.

The premier advised: "That is a serious issue. I should regard it as a complete abdication of the government if I were in the least to countenance this demand."

Mr. Lloyd George declared there had been forty-eight murders of police and 120 attempted murders in Ireland within a short time. "The police," he asserted, "were shot down like vermin while carrying out the elementary duty of any force of this kind—the preservation of order."

"We send a box of revolvers across to those men to defend their lives," the premier continued, "and the trade union comes in and says, 'If you do this we will stop the whole traffic of Ireland if necessary.' We cannot possibly acquiesce in any device issued by any body, however powerful it may be, which denies to the government the facilities it regards essential for carrying out the functions for which it has been chosen to exist."

It was officially announced today that a military patrol was fired upon last night at the police hut in Newtown Sandos, County Kerry. The casualties of the attacking party are not known.

Belfast, June 5.—The followers of Sir Edward Carson have been defeated in county and district council elections in their own strongholds in choosing boards of guardians.

In addition to the Sinn Feiners' winning of County Tyrone for the first time and maintaining their hold on County Fermanagh, Michael Carolan, who was unseated by the Belfast council following his sentence at hard labor for an alleged seditious speech, yesterday headed the poll in the Spinkhill division of Belfast, which previously had been a stronghold of Orangemen.

Still another Sinn Feiner headed the polls in the Falls division, Belfast, the stronghold of Joseph Devlin, and another Sinn Feiner was elected in Lisburn.

The appointment of Henry Morgenthau to be ambassador to Mexico has not been confirmed by the Senate. It was said today at the State Department that Mr. Morgenthau could not be given a recess appointment under the law, but officials would not venture a prediction as to whether a recess appointment of an ambassador to the southern republic would be made.

Four other diplomatic posts are vacant at this time, the United States being without a minister to Bulgaria, Finland, Greece and Honduras. Paul B. Moore, of Charleston, Mo., has been named as possible minister to Bulgaria.

Wilson to Fill Diplomatic and Other Posts by Recess Appointments

DAVIS FOR POLK'S PLACE

By the Associated Press
Washington, June 5.—With a number of offices and diplomatic posts now vacant or soon to be vacant, it is expected President Wilson will make a number of recess appointments after the adjournment of Congress. The principal post to be filled is that of under secretary of state, from which office Frank L. Polk will retire June 15.

It is understood that Norman Davis, assistant secretary of the treasury, will receive a recess appointment to this place.

The merchant marine bill passed early today by Congress an entire new shipping board of seven members will have to be appointed. Should this measure become a law the President probably will make the appointment before Congress reconvenes in December.

The appointment of Henry Morgenthau to be ambassador to Mexico has not been confirmed by the Senate. It was said today at the State Department that Mr. Morgenthau could not be given a recess appointment under the law, but officials would not venture a prediction as to whether a recess appointment of an ambassador to the southern republic would be made.

Four other diplomatic posts are vacant at this time, the United States being without a minister to Bulgaria, Finland, Greece and Honduras. Paul B. Moore, of Charleston, Mo., has been named as possible minister to Bulgaria.

Another nomination which the Senate has again failed to act upon is that of John Skelton Williams to be controller of the currency. He was given a recess appointment last year after the Senate failed to confirm his nomination.

MORRIS BACK HOME, URGES JAPAN TRADE

Ambassador Says Island Needs Manufactured Goods From the United States

DENIES HE WILL RESIGN

Japan presents vast trade possibilities to the United States despite the fact that this country now carries on a greater exchange with it than any other country.

Mr. Morris said that he left Japan May 15 the present financial crisis confronting that country had not materialized.

There was a stringency in the money market, he said, and banks were inclined to be more careful in making loans, but there was no panic.

Mr. Morris repeated his statement made upon arrival in Boston that he had no present intention of resigning. "I intend to apply for the usual sixty days' leave given ambassadors every two years," he said, "but unless some untoward development comes up, I will not resign."

Mr. Morris, a sincere Democrat, said he was not in close touch with the political conditions here and would not discuss them.

"Will you campaign for Mr. Palmer for the presidency?" he was asked. "I do not know until I get action on my application for a leave," he said. "You know Mr. Palmer and I are very close friends."

"What does Japan think of the greater navy policy of the United States?" was the next question.

Not Struck by Navy Plans
"With the exception of a few jingo papers, professional alarmists, I would not say that Japan considers the navy policy of the United States very alarming," he said.

"Their present army budget is very similar to the last one and plans to not great increases. Japan would gladly embrace the League of Nations and partly disarm if the other countries would do likewise."

"Profiteering, as known in this country, is a stranger to Japan. Some people get rich during the war, of course, but general profiteering does not exist."

resulted in a civilian being appointed governor and a very mild form of government."

Mr. Morris is in the best of health. He spoke of his three years in service in Japan as the greatest achievement of his life. He is an enthusiastic supporter of President Wilson.

All in all, he said, the relations between Japan and the United States are excellent.

HEADS BANKING COMMITTEE
House Elects McFadden, of Pennsylvania, Chairman
Washington, June 5.—Representative Louis T. McFadden, of Canton, Pa., was today elected by the House as chairman of its committee on banking and currency. This is considered one of the most important among the big committees of Congress.

Representative McFadden is peculiarly well fitted for his new chairmanship. When elected to Congress in 1914, he was president of the Penn Bankers' Association. He has been in the banking business since 1894 when he began as office boy of the First National Bank in his home town. He is at present head of the institution.

During this session he gained a great deal of national prominence by his opposition to John Skelton Williams, comptroller of currency, which resulted in the holding up of the latter's confirmation as comptroller.
