PUT YOUR NAME DOWN IN HISTORY AS THAT OF A HOUSEWIFE WHO HELPED TO BRING DOWN THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—Would you please suggest through your valuable columns a menu suitable for a June wedding breakfast to accommodate about twenty-five people and how should the same be prepared?

A CONSTANT READER, I SHALL be most willing to help arrange the breakfast for the wedding party.

Of course, the table is to be covered with an exquisite damask, a real linen tablecloth, and as to the menu...

Seasoning to taste, Add the chicken meat. Mushrooms, Coffee

- One pound of butter, made into butterballs.
 - One pound of coffee.
 - One quart of cream.
- For Menu No. 2
- To make fruit cocktail: One can of shredded pineapple, One bottle of maraschino cherries, Eight oranges, cut in dice, Eight bananas, sliced.
- For Menu No. 3
- One quart of water.
 - One quart of milk.
 - One quart of sugar.
- For Menu No. 4
- Nine pint boxes of raspberries.
 - Three quarts of cream.
 - Nine bunches of scallions or young onions.
 - Six bunches of radishes.
 - One-half dozen radishes.
 - One-half dozen bananas.
 - One-half dozen apples.

Please Tell Me What to Do

To a Witness: Steady Reader of the Evening Public Ledger—Go to the director of public safety and tell him what you saw at the police station.

Wants to Know "Mary": Dear Cynthia—I have been reading your column for the last week and am very much interested in it.

I happened to read Mary's story about the little girl because she is all alone. Well, I am a young fellow living alone and I would like to make Mary's acquaintance.

Cynthia is very sorry, "lonely," but she cannot bring about introductions through the column.

Another Letter From "Kensington": Dear Cynthia—Having asked me to write a letter in earnest I am doing so.

The worst thing in the world a man can do is to marry when in that financial condition known far and wide as "to support" a wife.

Lonesome Writes Again: Dear Cynthia—Please print this to "Sure Outta Luck." I felt very much disappointed in reading your reply to my letter.

Adventures With a Purse: NO MATTER how well dressed one may be, if one's hands are red and work-roughed, one cannot personify an idea.

Mrs. Wilson Answers Queries: My dear Mrs. Wilson—Will you kindly tell me how to cook string beans so that they will be perfectly green and not brown?

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I am sending in my menu for the contest.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I am sending you two menus, hoping they will be of some use.

My Dear Mrs. Wilson—I am sending you a menu for four people, which we often have in our family of four.

Simple, but Stylish

The hat at the left is a large leghorn, faced with bright green taffeta. The wreath around the crown is composed of corn flowers and daisies. The hat at the top of the cut is a rough straw trimmed with a single ostrich feather. Large red flowers and a green ribbon at the back adorn the leghorn at the right.

ONE way to cut the cost of living is to trim some of your hats yourself, and you will be aided in this by the fact that some of the smartest hats this summer are very simply trimmed.

The center hat is of rough straw trimmed with an ostrich feather extending from the center front to the back, with the tip at the back and the feather placed with the reverse side out.

The hat at the right is of leghorn, and though this type is expensive it is a good investment for next year you might have it reblocked in next season's shape.

Showers for Bride-to-Be: Dear Madam—I have found your column interesting and so useful. Will be exceedingly grateful if you would give me advice as to a shower given a bride-to-be.

Relatives in Austria: Dear Madam—I have a cousin in Austria who is seventeen years of age, and she would like to find out through you, if possible, whether I can have her over to America to live with me.

Stain on Taffeta Dress: Dear Madam—Will you kindly advise me what would remove a stain on a taffeta dress, made by roasted meat.

Also, will you tell me whether I can get the boards in the ivory in the EXHIBIT PUBLIC LEADERSHIP called "The Streets of Life"?

SHE LEFT WORD FOR HIM TO CALL HER IMMEDIATELY

He Was Frightened Because He Thought Their Little Boy Was Worse—She Only Wanted to Reproach Him for Trivial Matter

LITTLE Johnny woke up with a bad cold the other day and his mother held him in bed all morning.

He went quietly down into the cellar without telling anybody and looked about for fuel. It seemed wrong to use perfectly good wood.

Still somewhat worried about young Johnny, he left for the office. Later in the day, when he came back to the office after lunch, an office boy greeted him with an announcement:

From the midst of relief, consternation, surprise and indignation about, instead of blushing at all or looking for a moment like a guilty man, he asked in icy tones, "Just exactly why do you burat up all those magazines that I was saving to sell as soon as the magazine comes around?"

John's father, who was the calm and collected man, said that he had taken all those magazines when you might have known I wanted to save them to be sold.

NO, IT wasn't just an "incident." It often happens. Every time Johnny's father does the least thing about Johnny's mother, he is like a volcano.

It need not necessarily be anything that he knows about at all. It may be something that she does not know about.
