

NEIGHBORS HONOR "CAL" COOLIDGE

Northampton, Home City, Turns Out to Greet Republican Nominee

GOVERNOR MUCH PLEASSED

Northampton, Mass., June 16.—The citizens of Northampton, the home city of Governor Coolidge, turned out in a body yesterday to greet the Republican nominee for Vice President. Amid the roar of cannon salutes, the cheers of the throng that had assembled in front of his home and the din of factory whistles, and with airplanes soaring overhead, the governor stood on the porch beside his wife and two boys. He was plainly pleased and affected by the reception.

The welcome home to the governor came at the end of the most strenuous day he has had since he became the running mate of Senator Harding. He chatted with Speaker Gillett, of the national House of Representatives, at Springfield in the morning and then went to Amherst to attend the class-day exercises of his alma mater.

After the reception here Governor Coolidge, tired but happy, retired to the privacy of his home to pass with his family the first few hours of leisure since his nomination. He left Northampton late at night for Worcester, where he will attend the Holy Cross commencement today.

Arriving here late in the afternoon, the governor was met by a delegation headed by the mayor. His car was placed in line in a parade which passed the governor's home. Every civic, social and military organization in the city was represented.

When he had taken his place on his porch he was welcomed by Judge John C. Hammond, his former law partner. Mayor M. J. Fitzgerald extended the congratulations of the city.

At Amherst College the governor was enthusiastically greeted, and before attending the class day exercises had an informal reception at the Phi Gamma Delta House. He was hailed by Lucius R. Eastman, retiring president of the governor's class of 1895, as representing the ideals of Amherst, "public service for public good." His classmates, strolling with him about the campus, frequently addressed him as "Cal" and "Coolie," his college nicknames.

While at Amherst the governor received the following telegram from Robert Lansing, formerly secretary of state:

"As an Amherst man I heartily congratulate you on the signal honor done you by your party."

Governor Coolidge has made no plans for his vacation next month in Vermont.

1000 WELCOME BISHOP

Former Germantown Pastor Is Given Reception by Methodists

More than 1000 Methodists from all parts of the city attended a reception to Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, of Helena, Mont., last evening in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Germantown. Bishop Burns, who was elected to the bishopric at Des Moines, has been pastor of the Hennepin Avenue Church, Minneapolis, for the last four years. Prior to that he was pastor of the Germantown Church for ten years.

The Rev. Dr. Edward S. Nindé presided and there were addresses by Thomas R. Fort, Jr., B. G. Moore, Bishop George H. Bickler and Bishop Joseph F. Berry. Following the addresses, Bishop Burns was given a reception and impressed all by his remarkable memory in recalling the names of nearly 1000 of his former parishioners.

Preceding the reception, Bishop Burns was the guest at a dinner attended by 200 Methodist laymen. The reception was under the auspices of the official board of the First Church.

PASS UP WEATHERMAN NOW IF LOOKING FOR A POLLYANNA

His Collection of Melancholy Data on Which He Bases Summer Prospects Will Take the Cheer Out of Life

Question—What makes hot weather? Answer (scientific)—Existence of area of higher barometric pressure over southeastern section of country, with lower b. p. over regions to north.

Answer (plain United States)—Not much wind movement, with the winds that are from south or southeast, and plenty of sunshine.

The weather forecaster delivered a classroom lecture to a seeker after knowledge this morning in his office in the Federal Building. He also gave a collection of melancholy data guaranteed to make even Pollyanna herself weep, and to speed up the sale of palm beach suits in all our best stores.

For instance, did you know that the summers for the last ten years have been averaging hotter than those for the previous ten? Well, they have, and by as much as three degrees.

During the period between 1910 and 1920 there have been an average of thirteen days each summer in which the thermometer showed higher than 90 degrees, while previous to that the average was ten scorchers a summer.

Hot Buildings One Cause
"Big buildings" was one of the possible reasons advanced for the change.

as they keep the wind from giving relief to the parched city folk, but the reason is not a definite one. "It's just been that way, that's all."

The weather records show the same peculiarity that athletics possess. There have been few records broken in recent years. But there is one boasted record of the year 1918 which is not likely to fall for some time.

On the seventh day of August, in that year the Weather Bureau's thermometer pointed to 100 degrees, which, in the language of the common herd, is "some hot." Jones and Brown and the seeker after knowledge may have found their own pet weather machines pointing to a dozen such hot records, but the official thermometer has only one other similar record of heat, that being last year, when on July 4 and 5 an even century was recorded.

Hot spells are equally depressing to regard, but 1901 carries off the prize.

1795 Digging for Captain Kidd's Treasure on Cooper's Point

Local legend has it that Captain Kidd selected Cooper's Point on the Delaware as a cache for some of his treasure. And for many years this particular spot was a favorite quest for those easy believers who sought a quick road to fortune.

Digging for ill-gotten gains usually has only the reward of its own pains. At the base of every fortune we find the foundation stone, not of spasmodic and poorly directed effort, but of Thrift.

Opening a bank account is the beginning of most men's successes. But systematic saving is the only kind that pays. Spasmodic thrift gets nowhere because what is saved during seasons of extravagance is spent during periods of extravagance.

whatever that is. For twelve days, from June 25 to July 8, the thermometer reached ninety degrees or more. Last year there was a similar protected spell from July 1 to 6, and that's something else again.

Thunder Showers Just Won't Obey
On the subject of thunder showers, the relish served with the very hot weather roasts, the forecaster was particularly sensitive. They are, he said, the bans of his life, because they don't obey orders, and are always slipping up unawares.

"Usually—underline that 'usually'—he said 'they are the direct result of a decrease of atmospheric pressure, and an increase in humidity, but every once in a while they pop up suddenly in direct contradiction of all such rules. A nor'easter is a 'regular feller' and we can predict pretty much what he'll do, but a thunder storm we can't."

So far, old 1920 has failed to break any hot weather records, but that's not saying she hasn't got a great chance for a rally along about the seventh inning, which is July, when the bases will be loaded with sunshine, heavy calm and low pressure, all longing to cross the plate.

Many Patrolmen Resign

During the last month ninety policemen have resigned. In nearly every case the men have left the service to seek higher pay in other occupations. "We regret to lose many of these men, because they are in most cases experienced policemen. We cannot blame them though. We have every confidence the pay of the policemen will be increased early next year." Superintendent Mills said yesterday.
