Nancy Wynne Chats About Various Matters-She Hears of the Country Fair at Old St. David's Church-A Tragedy in Social Life

WEDDINGS in and out of town today, the country fair at old St.
David's Church and the Savey Company's performance of the "Mikado!"
Some program for the middle of June,
it seems to me.

Evelyn Smith's wedding

Ford, in honor of Miss Evelyn Lathbury, whose marriage to Mr. Wilkins Thatcher
Mr. Called Mr. Marriage to Mr. Wilkins Thatcher whose marriage to Mr. Wilkins

it seems to me.

We have Evelyn Smith's wedding to Frederick Lee, Jr., in St. Mark's Church, and out in Detroit Delphine
Dodge and Jimmie Cromwell will take ach other for better or worse.

THE country fair at old St. Davids Church is a perfectly charming party. The women who are interested in it have tried to give it the spirit of twenty-five to thirty years ago, when twenty-five to thirty years ago, when an old-fashioned country fair, with strawberries and cream and pretty things for sale, was one of the great pents of the year.

Old St. Davids is one of the historic landmarks along the Main Line. Anthony Wayne is buried there. I've old church and it's a most onderful place, sort of square and built of stone and has a funny gallery at the back, to reach which you have to climb up an outside stone staircase at the side. It's just as quaint as it can be, and it was so pretty out there resterday, with the old-fashioned frocks worn by the aides and the oldashioned entertainments and things

Mrs. T. Mellon Rogers and Mrs. Charles Custis Harrison and a number of other women who attend the church were in charge yesterday and today and it seems to me there can be little bt of their success.

MONIGHT there will be the "Mikado."

I I hear that Marian Taylor will not sing. I had imagined she would not. The Newbolds are a very closely connected family, all devoted to each other, and Mr. Arthur Newbold, who died last week, was a brother of Marian's mother, who was Miss Emily Newbold. Another member of the Savoy, whose name I cannot recall at this moment. name I cannot recall at this moment, but who was Yum Yum several years ago when they gave the "Mikado," will substitute and they tell me she sings very well. Elizabeth Latta, too, has to be replaced, for she went West to visit and will be gone a fortnight. However, I've no doubt that Mr. Fox will now towns one fine in to do the will put some one fine in to do the work, and the men, as I have said on various occasions, are simply out of sight. And where could you find a better Katisha than Elsie Brinton, I DON'T miss a wedding next week. That's all I've got to say. I won't tell you whose or what, 'cause I prom-ised not to, but I never heard of anything more remarkable than this. It's what the bridesmaids are to carry. It flowers, nor shepherdess crooks, nor is it yet a basket or a parasol. I'l leave it to you to guess and think and wonder. But, believe me, it will be some startling sight. I only hope all the bridesmaids will like this present. that I hear is to be used in the proces-You just mustn't miss one, either in town or in the suburbs.

7OU must be sure to go out to the Germantown Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night. I hear that the two one-act the Goucher College Alumnae will give out there are going to be perfectly splendid. They will Alumnae will give out there are going to be perfectly splendid. They will have Stuart Walker's "Six who pass while the Lentils Boil" and George Gram Cook and Susan Glaspell's "Sunpressed Desires." The cast includes Mrs. Thomas Shipley, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Koch, Margaret Matlack, Margaret Lukens, Dorothy Shane, Lillian Chalmers, Gertrude Edwards, Margaret Thomas and Dorothy Reese. and Dorothy Reese

The chair is to be in honor of Doctor Welsh, founder of that department and its present head.

The Plays and Players gave "Suppressed Desires" a couple of years ago. It's a parody of the Freud theory and very good. I think we may expect a very enjoyable evening.

HE WAS just fourteen and he was going to a party for the first time. The party was given for his best friend and he was excited over it and had prepared and prepared for the affair. Well. en the eventful day came he had when the eventful day came he had everything proper to wear till it came to gloves. Behold! he'd forgotten to get gloves, and to him gloves were almost as important as his new white shirt. So he rushed to mother, "What shall I do: I have no gloves?" Being a real mother she sensed his sorrow and, admonishing him to keep the second button monishing him to keep the second button out of sight, she lent him a pair of her own. Well. Frank went to the party most beautifully "dolled up" with the second buttons hidden an everything. But when the boy for whom said party was given hald ever on said slaves her But when the boy for whom said party was given laid eyes on said gloves, he quickly explained that Frank had to lend them to him, "for," said he, "it's far more important for me to wear gloves than it is for you. It's my party, you know!" And the astonished Frank had to surrender mother's gloves to him. had to surrender mother's gloves to his bost and go ungloved the rest of the afternoon. NANCY WYNNE.

A word to the wise-have your winter furs repaired and remodeled before they are stored. Siefert's, those reliable furriers at 1426 Walnut, are doing this prewinter remodeling and repairing at prices at least 20% and sometimes as much as 25% lower than they can do the same work this fall. This advance attention to furs is particularly advisable when new fur must be added -pelts are so much cheaper than now. When repairing and remodeling charges are $100 or more Siefert's will store furs free of charge. Summer workmanship upon furs is not only cheaper, but it is unhurried and there-fore of unquestionable quality. Another advantage of summer repairing and remodeling is that your furs will be in perfect condition for wear at the first breath of

One is sure to see the very latest sartorial creations at that advanced shop of J. M. Giddings, located in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Broad and Walnut Streets. Just now some exquisitely simple dotted swisses are creating a pleasant little furore in the shop-their difference is so subtle that sometimes it is difficult to analyze-but you may rest assured it is smartly there. The last thing in chic is a white swiss with rather large dots of Kelly green, this brighter color repeated in the wool buttonholed scallops which adorn the skirt edge, and is accentuated by a narrow green grosgrain at sleeves and waistine, the climax coming in a corsage of green wool flowers. This is but one of several very unique swisses.

Now just wouldn't you like to have a handsome frock fashioned in the convents of France? Sterlings, at 1210 Walnut Street, have a fascinating group of such frocks which just arrived from the other side, consisting of handdrawn and hand-stitched handkerchief linens and voiles in pastel tints and white. I was fascinated by them. One smartly gowned woman gave, without hesitation, an order for six. She said she hadn't seen the like of them since she was in Paris. The prices are very reasonable indeed, when you consider that though the frocks are priced at but $45 to $59.50 you are entitled to 20% discount. This, however, is true of every garment in the shop-and a visit to Sterlings will insure you bargains worth whilebut these convent frocks from France-you really must "Chertak-Wenger for hats!" That is the exclamation made by one of the city's fashionables as she gazed into the ever fascinating window of the House of Wenger, at 1229 Walnut. And indeed that is true-Chertak-Wenger's hats are the envy of the town. Gaze for yourself to be convinced. Picture a restrained little tam of jade green duvetyn-yes, duvetyn's back for summer-embroidered in gay nasturtium silk; it's ravishing! Then there are Wenger furs for summer and winter-beautiful pelts fit for a queen-which Mr. Wenger is displaying upon the attractive second floor and selling and taking orders for at prices much lower than can be quoted in the fall. The House of Wenger is, altogether, one of the most reliable shops in town.
