LAST STATE MATCH SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Pearson and Wister Meet Californians; Delaware Meet at Wilmington Country Club Tomorrow

By SPICK HALL. THE rain last week caused a lull over in the tennis tournaments of this approximate latitude and longitude.

The finals today at Haverford will be between two Philadelphians if the rain stops. Stanley W. Pearson and J. C. Wister and two representatives of the University of California, Wallace J. Bates and Edmund Levy.

Wallace Johnson was in great form yesterday in the doubles match which he and Fischer lost. It was only by playing Fischer consistently in the last two games that Bates and Levy were able to win out.

Johnson's volleying was the most spectacular seen on Philadelphia courts in a long while. He hit the ball with official referee with all his power, but their drives had no terrors for Wallace, who shot them back with as much ease as though he were merely occupying his preliminary rallying.

Wallace's service was also working with unusual effectiveness. He shot many aces through, leaving Levy and Bates standing at the net with only a chance to get their rackets near it.

Levy's smashing at the net was one of the leading features of the match. He put everything he had on his overhead drives, which enabled him to win many points for his team.

The point score of this match shows that this is the second time that Wallace Johnson has lost this year when he made more points than his opponents.

The point score of yesterday's match follows: FIRST SET. Pearson and Wister vs. Californians 4-6.

Second Set. Pearson and Wister vs. Californians 4-6. Third Set. Pearson and Wister vs. Californians 4-6.

Steadiness Wins. It was due to their disconcerting steadiness that Wister and Pearson beat the Edwards brothers. This match was full of spectacular rallies that lasted for a dozen strokes at times.

Wilmington Drawings. Many of the players who took part in the state tournament at the Merion Cricket Club will play at Wilmington.
