A large entry list, including the leading players of Philadelphia, Harvard, University of California. Wilmington and West Side Tennis Club, began the first round. In spite of the fact that the start was a day late on account of rain, the tournament should be finished easily by Saturday, as no challenge easily by Saturday, as no challenge round is to be played.

Wimbledon, Eng., June 22.-William N. Johnston, of California, American singles tennis champion, today was beaten in the British championship by J. C. Parke, the famous internationalist.

This match furnished the sensation and thrills in today's play. American invaders who survived were R. Norris Williams, Boston; Axel Graven, California, and Samuel Hardy, of Chicago, captain of the United States team. Johnston is not the first American champion to bow to the prowess of Parke. The British star in 1913 defeated Maurice McLoughlin, the Cali-fornia "comet," in the Davis cup sin-gles, when "Mac" was king of Ameri-

The battle between Parke and John-

The general verdict at the conclusion of the match was that Johnston had of the match was that Johnston had beaten himself, largely through his frequent errors of nets and outs. Parke, although frequently brilliant, played a far more careful game and was almost invariably safe with his drives, of which the American foozled far too many. As the last point was scored, giving Parke the victory, a tremendous roar went up from the crowd, and the winner was given an ovation which lasted fully three minutes.

Parke opened the match brilliantly, going to 3-1 in the first set with wellplaced drives and an occasional sensational passing shot on the backhand.
The hardest forehanded drives of the American were gallantly retrieved. Johnston, however, brought the set to 3 all, and again tried unsuccessfully to outdrive his opponent. To match the American's effort, Parke displayed admirable steadiness, which ultimately declaring such matters were only declaring such matters.

annexed the first two games of the sec-"Babe" Felton, the Crimson pitcher, was invincible when hits meant runs, completely baffling Yale, except in the first inning, when Thorne Murphy's single, Sawyer's sacrifice and Murphy's dash for the plate on Aldridge's out netted Yale's only run.

In the fourth set Johnston was in tight corner in the early stages, the Englishman leading three games to one. An unexpected British victory here hove in sight and the excitement was intense as the opponents battled on. The American rose to the occasion at this stage, however, and amid vociferous shouting and hand-clapping, played tennis of the most brilliant sort and put their score

WHAT MAKES THE. CADILLAC A GREAT 'CAR

Ask those who have sat in Cadillac councils for seventeen years, what has made the Cadillac a good and a great car, and they will answer:

Seventeen years of working together and never being satisfied that the point of perfection has been reached.

Ask them who made and are still making the Cadillac the great and the good car it is, and they will reply:

All of us, and no one of us. All of us, because we think the same thoughts, and believe in the same things-but no one of us, because no man's mind can hold the complex harmonies the Cadillac comprehends.

They will tell you that as nearly as a commercial enterprise can be, the Cadillac Company is a brotherhood in which each man pools his brains with the brains of every other.

They will tell you that stubborn pride of opinion cannot survive in Cadillac atmosphere—that mere egotism would automatically eliminate itself from an organization in which all things must work to the common end that the Cadillac shall steadily be made a better car.

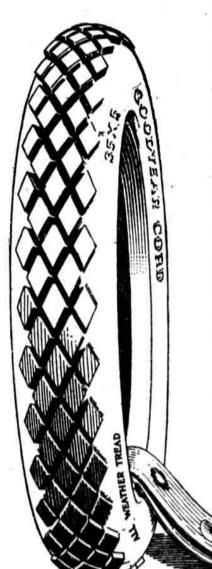

We are only repeating what the whole world concedes when we say that there is not another car in all the world like the Cadillac.

And the reason there is not another car in the world like the Cadillac is that in all the world there is not another organization like the Cadillac organization.

Stronger Than is Usually Thought Necessary

The powerful and enduring body of Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes is far thicker than that of ordinary tubes—in some cases as much as twenty per cent.

It is made of rubber so pure that it floats and instead of being made from a single heavy sheet, it is laboriously built up of many thin sheets welded inseparably together.

This remarkable construction prevents porosity and imperfections, and its cross-grain texture protects the tube against ripping.

In every detail and feature Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are stronger than is usually thought necessary-even their valve-patches are vulcanized in, instead of being stuck on.

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are packed in sturdy waterproof bags, and are relatively as superior to ordinary tubes as Goodyear Cord Tires are to ordinary tires.

Their initial cost is no more than the price you are asked for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available?
