Louis Werner, Martin Darkow
and Herman Lemke Freed
Without Day in Prison

PARDONED BY PRESIDENT

President Wilson's pardons to the two editors and the business manager of the Philadelphia Tageblatt were filed today in the United States' District Court, and Louis Werner and Martin Darkow, the editors, and Herman Lemke, the business manager, are as free now as they were before their conviction of publishing "fake" news, without having served a day of their sentences.

Werner and Darkow were sentenced to five years each and Lemke to three years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., by United States District Judge Dickinson, after they had consistently used the columns of the Tageblatt to sustain Germany's side in the war.

The three newspapermen are a clean bill of health, insofar as punishment for their offenses is concerned, though the United States Su-

MOONLIGHT LAUNCHING

Army Transport to Take Way at Hog Island at 8:30 P. M.

Hog Island will have its first "moonlight launching party" tomorrow evening, when the army transport Aisne leaves the ways at 8:30 o'clock.

The Aisne, which will be the 113th boat launched at the island, is named in honor of the men who gave their lives in the series of battles around the Aisne river. The vessel has a deadweight tonnage of 8000, and can make a speed of fifteen knots. She can carry 2000 men in volunteer service for some time. She will return to her unit at Lazou after a two-months' visit.

$100 SAYS HE CAUGHT IT

Darby Business Man Peeved When Joshed About Big Fish

Albert Crawford, of the Darby National Bank, holds $100 posted with him by Richard Purdy, Darby business man. Purdy forfeits the money to anybody proving he didn't catch the 75-pound fish he claims to have landed on Main street. Tacked to the big fish is a large sign reading: "Caught by Richard Purdy at Fortescue."

Nobody in Darby will admit Purdy caught the fish. His protestations are in vain. Phone calls by the dozen and letters have all come pouring in, joshing him about it. Then Purdy got mad and posted the forfeit.

See $210,000 for Orphans

The $210,000 campaign of the British Empire Fund, House of Edge-Dale, was opened last night at a meeting in the Hotel Adelphi of more than 350 prominent local men. Leopold Glass, of the state Legislature, presided. Speakers included Morris Shaffer and Joseph W. Salus.

General Haan, who commanded the Thirty-second Division during the war, will break the champagne over the Aisne's bows. Her husband will accompany her here, as well as several other prominent army officers.

Woman War Worker Home on Visit

Mrs. Richard Elliot, Jr., of Bryn Mawr, who has been a directress for the American committee for devastated France, arrived in Philadelphia yesterday to spend the holiday with relatives. Mrs. Elliot has been interested in volunteer work for some time. She will return to her unit at Lazou after a two-months' visit.

FIRE DESTROYS WAISTS

Flames in Manufacturing Establishment Ruin Machines—Loss $50,000

Fire last night in the waist manufacturing establishment of Sternfeld & Pollio, sixth floor of the building at 925 Filbert street, destroyed fifty sewing machines, valued at $500 apiece, and a large quantity of cloth, for a total of $10,000.

The damage was estimated at this figure by Mr. Pollio. He said his stock and equipment were ruined.

The fire started among a supply of waist trimming ready to be shipped to New York. The fire spread rapidly, and when the firemen arrived the sixth floor was in flames. By hard work the fire-fighters succeeded in confining the blaze to the sixth floor.

Saw Intruder in Room

In answering a telephone call in her home, 621, Olney avenue, today, Mrs. Elizabeth McKeown, noticed an intruder in another room. The stranger was Carrie Benson, 328 North Twelfth street, a negro, who Mrs. McKeown released after questioning, but later notified the police, who arrested the girl. She was sentenced to 10 days in the county prison by Magistrate Price, who later changed his sentence to $13.50 fine, when a friend of the girl appeared and paid the money.
