A NOTHER day of numerous and in-nesday, Atlantic City, returned home on Wed-Dodge and Joe Wharton, Constance Vauclain and William Hamilton, Claire Spenser and Joe Grubb and so on and on to the end of the chapter. And on Monday we will have Phoebe Downs's wedding.

That Wharton-Dodge wedding will be very pretty today. It is to be in the house, you know, and the Dodge house is just fitted for a wedding, one large room opening into another on the lower floor. Then, too, Josephine has chosen ricer friends happen to be very pretty bridesmaids; that is, her friends happen to be very pretty, and that helps a lot in a wedding. Josephine Dodgo is a beauty herself. She has one of those wonderful, clear olive com-plexions, and beautiful dark hair. She was a picture at Marion Comly's wedding last week, when she was maid of honor. And she'll be more of a picture today when she is a bride herself.

By the way, talking of weddings.
I must have had a pipe dream, though I do not indulge in the weed, for I said that Patricia Vauclain, who will be a that Patricia Vauciain, who will be a flower girl for Constance today, is her sister. She isn't, Anne Vauciain is Constance's sister, and Patricia is a niece. The Hamilton-Vauciain wedding will be in Bryn Mawr and the Grubb-Spenser marriage will be in Wayne, in St. Mary's Memorial Cheeb.

WASN'T the lawn fete at Walmarthon wonderful yesterday afternoon? It was such an ideal day and the aides looked so pretty in their summer frocks. The swimming meet held by the Girl Scouts was very exciting. Miss Nancy Hallowell, of Wayne, has a flourishing troop of scouts and they take part in every thing going Wayne, has a flourishing troop of scouts and they take part in every thing going on out on the Main Line.

The Log Cabin is a lovely spot It's very large for a place of the kind, and so rambling and long. There are all sorts of odd rugs and queer Indian blankets and other odd furnishings that make it quite ideal. The dancing in the evening was delightful, for it was cool enough to give one time to "come up for air" between dances.

They served tea in the pergolas, which are near the Rose Garden, and supper was served from about 5 to 7 o'clock. The fete will continue this afternoon and evening, you know.

SAW Barbara Benson the other day I looking very smart in a dark blue suit. She was wearing a sheer white waist and a small dark-blue straw hat trimmed with ostrich feathers. A bril-liant touch of color was added to her costume by a string of red beads and bright red earrings. As Barbara is of a brunette type, the red was particularly becoming. She is the daughter of Rev. Louis F. Benson and Mrs. Benson, and a sister of Margaretta who married George Purves last December. Another sister was Carol Benson, who married George Philler. She died some five or six years ago and George Philler married again just about a year ago. He and his wife, a great deal. She is one good-looking

Walking up Chestnut street, but Walter Wheeler. He was looking very well and very happy. I understand that he and his wife will start for the West very soon. They are going to rough it for a while on a ranch he has out there. Mrs. Wheeler's mother, Mrs. Brice, was to sail for Europe on the 12th, but I suppose, like every one else's sailing, hers was put off for a week or so. The strikes abroad have held up many of Schenck, Mr. Courtlandt K. Schenck, strikes abroad have held up many of the ships. I know the Wheelers were and Mr. Robert E. Schenck going to wnit to see Mrs. Brice off on her trip before starting West for the greater part of the summer.

THE baby had heard her Daddy sing-I ing a little song very often, and though she is only three, she had caught the tune quite well and "Woam-in in the Gwoamin" was quite a favorcaught the tune quate was a suite a favoring in the Gwoamin' was quite a favorite with her. The other day her mother took her to spend the day with her took her to spend the day with her aunt. Now, though she was as much as three, in some way she had not often the management of prominent Jewish women. On July 4 patriotic services, with interesting exercises, will be held.

In attractive country with outdoor sports and indoor entertainments. The home is man. Miss Bertha White, of 3626 Walnut Street, and Miss Bertha White, o ened that the times she had heard one hitherto it had only been playing intrumental records. So she was not pre pared for the human voice.

Well, nuntie put on the famous Harry Lauder record, and suddenly the aby stopped playing with the picturebook and looked up. Her little face was a question mark. Then she broke into rippling giggle as the smiles chased each other over her roguish little face. "Oh." said the baby, "Oh, mama! he knows baby's song!"
