

DEMOCRATS, OPENING CONVENTION, PAVE WAY FOR NOMINATION OF STANDARD-BEARERS

Cummings's Keynote Aggressive in Tone

These are the issues on which Chairman Cummings, of the Democratic national committee, in his keynote address, urged the party to wage the fight for President:

League of Nations covenant, Monroe Doctrine of the world. Peace treaty's defeat blackest crime against civilization in country's history. Republican platform reactionary, visionary and filled with premeditated slanders. Democratic party from 1913 to outbreak of war has to its credit more effective and constructive legislation than Republican party achieved in generation.

Peace achievements of party vastly beneficial to country. President Wilson the victim of Republican malice. Party stands for realization of ideals for which the war was fought.

Republicans Secret Foes of Treaty

The Republican platform not only repudiates the League of Nations, but also repudiates the Democratic party of today the champion of the world's hopes, and neither will it be evaded that will make the nominee of this convention the President of the United States.

"Our party will present policies in a direct and constructive way; the Republican platform is but an ingenious device meant to conceal irreconcilable differences."

"In delivering our message to the American people our party will raise its anchor upon the shores of honesty and steer unflinchingly through the straits of conservatism."

"With civilization's existence jeopardized in the recent inferno of world chaos, America reached out its hand to stave off destruction. We placed her more in her exalted position and raised again the fallen torch which radiates the light that tempers brutish hearts and softens human souls."

"Let the true purpose of our party be clearly understood," Mr. Cummings said in concluding his address. "We stand squarely for the same ideals of peace as those for which the war was fought. We support without flinching the only feasible plan for peace and justice. We will not submit to the repudiation of the peace treaty or to any process by which it is whittled down to the vanishing point. We decline to compromise our principles or pawn our immortal souls for selfish purposes. We do not turn our backs upon the history of the last three years. We seek no avenue of retreat. We insist that the forward course is the only righteous course."

"We seek to re-establish the fruits of victory, to restate the good faith of our country and to bring it to its rightful place among the nations of the earth. Our cause constitutes a summons to duty. The heart of America is again throbbing with life. The immortal part of man speaks to us. The services of the past, the sacrifices of war, the hope of the future, constitute a spiritual force gathering about us. America shall take up once more the leadership of the world."

Kremer Says Party Won't Dodge Issues

The hour is it with justifiable confidence that we approach the important question of presenting a platform and nominating a candidate for President. We present a pledge founded on performance.

To Keep Eyes to Front
The Republican party would turn backward, unmindful of the hopes and aspirations of forward-looking men and women, and would have us restore to power reactionary forces which could only result in ruin and disaster, but we will continue to keep our eyes to the front and will hold the path that during eight glorious years has led America to prosperity, peace and world leadership.

Wilson Against Nullification
Declaring the "foolish invention" that the President had refused to permit the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t" had been so often repeated that many honest people believed in its truth, Mr. Cummings said:

"In every speech made during his tour, the President stated entire willingness to accept any and all reservations not incompatible with America's honor and true interests. It is the plain intent of the covenant that the Monroe Doctrine is excluded, that domestic questions are exempted, that not one American can be sent out of the country without formal action by Congress and that the right of withdrawal is absolute. If there are words which can make these meanings clearer, they will be welcomed. It is not reservations that the President stands against, but nullification."

He told how President Wilson had published the tentative text of the league covenant widely in 1919, asking for criticism and receiving suggestions from Taft, Hughes and others that were "actually incorporated into the revised draft of the league."

Senator Lodge, he said, refused to offer constructive amendments at any time. "So intemperate was his attitude that he would not even consider a compromise proposed by former President Taft of his own party and which was assured of support of forty Democratic senators. Senator Lodge knew that he controlled the Senate and that in his own time and way he would destroy the treaty."

Story of Treaty's Defeat
"This is the sordid story of its defeat," said Cummings, after reviewing the Senate's action in the matter. "No blinder crime against civilization has ever soiled the pages of our history."

floor with pyrotechnics. There were many expressions of hope, however, that both might be threshed out to a satisfactory conclusion behind the committee doors.

Glass Supporter Confident
Confidence that Senator Glass, of Virginia, had more than enough votes to elect him chairman of the resolutions committee, was asserted today by his managers.

"We have several votes to spare," said Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, who has been active in support of the Virginia senator.

Friends of Senator Walsh, of Montana, brought out in opposition to Senator Glass, would not concede the Virginia's lead, however, and still claimed a majority.

The resolutions committee was to meet soon after adjournment of today's convention session and it was agreed by both factions in the chairmanship contest that the issue would be settled quickly.

The credentials committee will take up the Georgia and Missouri contests, while the rules committee is determining on a list of permanent officers for the convention. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, had been selected by the administration group for the permanent chairmanship and his endorsement by the committee seemed assured.

Bryan Has Little to Say
Contrary to the expectations of many delegates William J. Bryan was having little to say about the permanent organization of the convention and its dry drill into the platform he apparently was interposing no active opposition to the administration organization program, though he was credited with leading the delegation to the candidacy of Senator Walsh for the resolutions chairmanship.

As in more than one previous national convention Mr. Bryan was looked upon as an unknown quantity which might turn out to be the deciding factor in almost any of the political questions now confronting the party leaders. No one professed to know what new and unexpected element he might bring into play at the critical time.

Bugle Replaces Gavel
An innovation at the opening of the Democratic National Convention today was the silencing of the great gathering by a bugle call instead of by the usual pounding with the gavel. The bugler's notes came to an end as the buzz of conversation on the floor ceased a detachment of marines, standing in front of the platform, raised the national colors and presented arms while the band of the convention, the chairman, played the "Star Spangled Banner." The formal call to order by Vice Chairman J. Bruce Kremer was to follow.

The arrangement was made by Secretary of the Navy Daniel A. Hornbostel, who is chief of the secretary's personal escort during his visit to San Francisco.

Service men among convention delegates today perfected plans for obtaining the indorsement of the Democratic party for bonus legislation. It was decided to adopt the American Legion "four-way" plan of rewarding veterans of the late war by extending paid-up insurance, rural or urban home aid, vocational educational or flat cash compensation.

Richard Seelye Jones, chairman of the Washington state delegation; Major Bennett Clark, of Missouri, son of arms while the band of the convention, Representative Champ Clark; Colonel Barry, of Tennessee, and E. W. Robertson, of Spokane, Wash., were selected to appear before the resolutions committee with the plank drawn for its approval.

Bryan's Profiteering Plank
State commissions, similar to the federal trade commission, to prevent profiteering, are a feature of a plank on profiteering proposed by William J. Bryan. It is as follows:

"The Democratic party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against his return. It will endeavor to eliminate all unnecessary middlemen by the encouragement of organizations among producers that will bring those who sell and those who buy nearer together. It will enact and enforce laws that will effectively prevent excessive charges by such middlemen as are necessary. To this end it will demand legislation subjecting to the penalties of the criminal law corporate officers and employees who give or carry out instructions that result in extortion; it will make it unlawful for any one engaged in interstate commerce to make the sale of one article dependent upon the purchase of another article, and it will require such corporations to disclose to customers the difference between cost price and selling price. No limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited. It will also endeavor to create in the several states trade commissions with powers as ample as those of the federal trade commission and to enact laws authorizing each local community to create, as needed, similar commissions for the investigation of local charges of profiteering."

The clause to punish profiteering by corporation officers, Mr. Bryan said, is designed to meet court decisions preventing permanent sentences being imposed on corporation officers.

Another plank dealing with the treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations is to be made public tomorrow by Mr. Bryan.

Edward W. Quinn, mayor of Cambridge, was elected national committeeman from Massachusetts by the delegation from that state.

Withdrawal of Daniel F. Doherty, Springfield, from the contest at the last minute, resulted in seven delegates refusing to cast their votes, it was said. The caucus named Senator Walsh to the resolutions committee, and selected him to head the delegation.

The six District of Columbia delegates, including Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, adopted a resolution recommending that the President, Woodrow Wilson, be elected to the White House.

Virginia delegates elected Representative H. D. Flood chairman of their delegation, and named Senator Carter Glass to be a member of the resolutions committee.

Resolving the instructions given them by the state convention, the delegates resolved to cast a solid vote on the first ballot at least for Senator Glass as presidential nominee, but took no binding action as to further votes.

No caucus was held by Wisconsin delegates, but an informal agreement made en route to the convention, by which Joseph E. Davies, former federal trade commission becomes chairman, and Judge J. C. Carle, of Milwaukee, resolutions committee member, has been accepted.

Delegates said McAdoo sentiment predominated in the delegation, though all of the principal contenders for the presidential nomination would be represented on early ballots.

McAdoo Considered Best Vote Getter

Clemens like Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska, and Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, is not to put the McAdoo name in nomination, but just to vote for him. Thus they will obey the letter of the ex-secretary's statement declining to have his name formally presented to the convention. Mr. McAdoo is to be a candidate in spite of himself, a candidate whose name will not go before the delegates and a candidate without an agent or a spokesman at this convention.

Vote Small on Early Ballots
And the McAdoo volunteers are going to be discreet about casting their votes for their candidate. They will reveal his strength gradually. They will cultivate as few antagonisms as possible. The vote for McAdoo, according to their plans, will be less than 200 on the first ballot. They will eliminate Palmer and Cox in the early balloting, if they can.

The candidacy of a reluctant man without a spokesman at the convention, who is moreover burdened with the charge of setting up a dynasty as the President's son-in-law, would obviously not succeed if it were not for the weakness of his rivals, but Palmer is impossible, and the convention, having looked Cox over, has apparently said no to his aspirations.

The houses who pinned their hopes upon Cox apparently forgot the woman voter. And one hears more of her here than at Chicago. The Democrats would like to be wet, or at least moist, dependent upon the purchase of another article, and it will require such corporations to disclose to customers the difference between cost price and selling price. No limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited. It will also endeavor to create in the several states trade commissions with powers as ample as those of the federal trade commission and to enact laws authorizing each local community to create, as needed, similar commissions for the investigation of local charges of profiteering."

HARDING'S REST RELIEVES STRAIN

Nominee, Refreshed, Spends Early Hours Playing Golf at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware

POLITICS ARE LAID ASIDE

By the Associated Press
Raritan, N. J., June 28.—Refreshed and invigorated by his first period of relaxation in several months, Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican presidential nominee, had a quiet and uneventful program today at the country home of Senator Joseph L. Frelinghuysen, where he and Mrs. Harding are spending the week.

Senator Harding, accompanied by Senators Frelinghuysen, Hale and Kellogg, left this morning for Shawnee-on-the-Delaware for golf and luncheon, expecting to return here about 4 o'clock. The nominee expects to leave late this afternoon for Washington, arriving there at midnight.

Lays Aside Political Work
No definite engagements have been made for Senator Harding and he planned to do no political work of any kind. He spent Sunday in attending church with Mrs. Harding and his hosts in the forenoon, automobile riding in the afternoon and resting quietly at the Frelinghuysen home in the evening.

The brief vacation has done much to relieve the fatigue and strain of several months of legislative and pre-convention work and the nominee is now prepared to take up the campaign with renewed energy.

The senator and Mrs. Harding worshipped yesterday at the Third Dutch Reformed Church.

The Rev. J. A. Lumley chose for his text the tenth chapter of Romans, first verse: "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved."

In the course of the sermon, which had been prepared without knowledge that the nominee was to attend the service, Mr. Lumley said:

"The whole nation must return by the way of state-manlike ability to world-respecting national integrity. Men must be saved from the deadly thirst for unholy power and a vainglorious attempt to wreck our national life on the altar of their unjustifiable ambition."

"The nation must be safeguarded against the narrow-visioned adventurers who would crucify the best that the worst might be enthroned."

"The municipality must be saved from the fallacies of the shams and shallows of personal liberty and licensed un-Americanism."

"The people need to be saved from their sins, from their deceiving social fallacies, from sins in the marketplace, from sins in the social set, from sins in the highways of industry, from sins in legislative halls and from sins in the Church of Jesus Christ."

Senator and Mrs. Harding, who are Baptists, followed the service with deep interest, joining in the singing of the hymns and in the scriptural responsive reading by the congregation. No direct reference to the nominee's presence was made from the pulpit, although in the course of his prayers the pastor gave thanks that "the Lord has looked upon us with favor," and has asked that divine blessing and restored health be granted to "those in legislative relation to government and those in executive positions" who are weary of mind and body.

After the service the pastor was introduced by Senator Frelinghuysen to the nominee and members of his party. Senator Harding congratulated the pastor on the "fine service," and then shook hands with members of the congregation who crowded about him.
