

COOLIDGE GIVEN VERMONT DEGREE

America Determined to Stand by Political Institutions, Is Governor's Belief

HE TELLS OF NEW CRUSADE

By the Associated Press
Burlington, Vt., June 28.—The American people were urged to accept the larger responsibilities of a world of greater economic and political freedom and to employ their moral force in solving the problems of the future, in an address by Governor Coolidge, of Massachusetts, Republican candidate for Vice President, at the University of Vermont commencement today. The degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him. The university graduated a class of 125.

"The conflicts of the last six years," Governor Coolidge said, "have strengthened the determination of all America's people now as in the past to resist all aggression and support and defend her political institutions with whatever power may be necessary for their preservation and the maintenance of the larger liberties they bestow upon all her citizens.

People Must Pay Debts
"It is absolutely impossible for the public to evade or shift the burden of meeting the cost of the war and paying the public debt. This is our part of the price of victory. Until this is met, a higher range of costs will be the price of prosperity. There has been and still is in some cases a range of artificially high prices which has not been caused by, but has resulted in, profiteering. There is but one sure remedy for this and that is an increase of production. This is always the result of a long process and its application requires patience and forbearance.

"We have been preaching and engaging in a great crusade. Its purpose has been to destroy despotism and preserve freedom. There has been a new birth of freedom. There has been a new expression to the rights of the individual, a new realization of the worth of man. All this has set a new standard of value on human service because it has given a new value to man. There has been here a vast forward movement, the extent of which has not yet been fully appreciated.

Citizens No Longer 'Cheap'
"To some it has been disappointing, giving them unrest and dissatisfaction. If any expected to find satisfaction merely in an enlarged income they were foredoomed to disappointment. Satisfaction does not come from satiety or indulgence. It comes from achievement. Greater liberty does not mean less responsibility, it means more responsibility. If economically our citizens are to be no longer cheap, they must be no longer without responsibility.

"But if America is to lead, her people must be true to her ideals. The world has rejected a leadership sought to be imposed by force. The day of Washington and Lincoln has come. Leadership will henceforth not be by force, but by service. No selfish interest, whatever its source, will long be allowed to interfere with progress.

"In our economic life, as in our political life, progress comes from variety. A division of labor has given to the individual a larger economic existence. But a division of labor presupposes that each division performs its part. By choosing to adopt it the individual imposes upon himself a new duty toward society and receives in return a new economic power and a vastly increased economic liberty. No one denies that he has the right to withdraw, but it is equally clear that he cannot have a right to use his position to levy tribute.

"The American people desire progress, and when they come, as they must, to a comprehension that all kinds of selfishness and tyranny interfere with it they will discard their advocates as they discarded the leadership of torism, nullification and secession.

"Whether or not we seize the opportunity to lead in a great advance depends solely on ourselves. We have the resources, the power, the material force. The only question concerns our moral force. What leadership shall we follow? We have come through adversity. Can we bear prosperity?"

who attended the wedding at the city hall in South Pasadena on June 4 last. The sudden death of Mr. and Mrs. Peck in Waite's sumptuous apartment on Riverside drive within six weeks of each other early in 1916 was followed by the arrest of the young dentist.

Mrs. Waite's parents, worth more than $2,000,000, had come from their home in Grand Rapids to visit the Waitees at the solicitation of the young dentist. Mrs. Peck died on January 30.

Her body was immediately taken to her home in Grand Rapids and cremated, and her husband returned to the Riverside drive apartment to take up his home with his daughter and son-in-law. On March 12, after a few days' illness, he died after being administered to by his son-in-law.

THIS CHARMING MAHOGANY SUITE, TEN PIECES, $520.00
The Suite illustrated is an interpretation of the pleasing effect obtained by employing the design of Furniture that was in vogue in England following the Jacobean Period. The cruder details of that day have been refined to harmonize with the requirements of the superior Mahogany Cabinet woods so admirably utilized in the manufacture of this Suite, which retains the quaintness of the earlier Period while reflecting the artistic treatment of the present time. The skillful execution of the enriched moldings delightfully enhance the plain surfaces of the well-figured Mahogany and impart to the Suite a charm and elegance that make it as desirable for its construction and style as it is exceptionally attractive in price. Note the large Buffet, top 66x22 inches. China Closet 66x22 inches. Table has 8-foot extension.
