The platform fight resulted in a clean-cut victory for Woodrow Wilson. It was the President's day throughout. The White House scored on every point. Mr. Bryan was flattened out every time he raised his head in protest against the administration program. Wilson had administration program. Wilson had been waiting from January 8, when Bryan had his inning at the Jackson Day dinner. The President's friends made a good job of rebuking the Nebraskan. In the battle for the platform, as framed, the administration forces were led by Secretary Cohy and Senator Glass, of Virginia, during a debate in which both sides stirred delegates and
