GALLOWAY'S ERROR KEEPS KEEFE FROM HALL OF FAME AS MACKMEN GAIN THREE IN ROW BY DUAL WIN

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

THE name of David Keefe should be written next to that of Walter Johnson in the list of memorable ball mmes of 1920; but it won't be. The youthful Mack ger should be knocking at the door for admission to seball's Hall of Fame; but he isn't. The threeagered member of the Connie Corving Co. should have name inscribed as the first Philadelphia pitcher in a lieng stretch of years to hurl a no-hit game under the erefores hinge apparently on a boot by young Mr. Galloway, who shortstops for Mr. Mack.

The three-fingered flinger went through seven and ene-third innings without allowing the Red Sox the sem-blance of a hit. Then the fall came. Foster whipped a ider at Galloway and the Atlanta youth emulated juggler in his attempt to get his digits around the ere. Scott was an easy out and the side should have been retired, but Chick's fumble gave Walters his chance insert the first base blow of the pastime. It was a fluke single that caromed off third base, but nevertheless it was a hit.

That was the first hit to mar the remarkable record of the beardless David. Then in the ninth, the strain of no-hit possibility being lifted, Keefe apparently did not try with the same incentive and Gene Bailey whipped the ball to left for a double. These were the only swipes that fell into unguarded territory during the first game of the dual killing. If Galloway had not fumbled, still Railey or Walters might have ruined the record just the same, but this is scarcely likely.

The flinging of Dave was one of the features of a Statureful p. m. The Mackmen were inspired with a ocity or something like that, and they slapped the Red Sox fore and aft. To add to the humility of the tonians, both the tail-end triumphs were shutouts-6-0 and 1-0-which says more than a little for the ability of the Connie Curving Co. It was the third straight victory for Mack, which is something new again, it is the first time this season that the A's have been able to grab off three games without losing a flock in between. The gaunt general is wearing a smile today and the athletes and the fans are happy. A pleasant time was had by all except the Red Sox.

THE faithful gave Keefe a great hand. When they realized he had a chance to get a no-hit game they pulled for him like the state bosses pulled for Governor Cox.

Sox Runless for Twenty-one Innings

EVERY now and then one of the Connie Curving Co. branches out with a game exceedingly well pitched and all that. But that happens only occasionally. It's happened three times in the last two working days. Really, it's getting too much. Mack is likely to crack under the strain. Keefe no sooner quit bewildering the Barrow bunch than Scott Perry started where he left off, and the big westerner showed the best form he has

The hurling of the Connie Curving Co. has kept redstockinged gentlemen away from the home disc at the hibe lawn for twenty-one innings, and only one visited rubber for scoring purposes in the last thirty-one rs. That one was Foster, who registered the only un of Rollie Naylor in the second game on Tuesday.

So effective was young David yesterday that only eight balls were hit out of the infield, and seven of them were flies. The other was Bailey's double. Walters's safety did not go further than third base. Only two men walked by the new three-fingered Brown and but three got as far as second base. No one was as close to third as Ring Lardner was to the Democratic nomination. Ring received the full vote of a half delegate. Wally Schang advanced to the keystone sack in the

While the Red Sox were swinging vainly at Keefe's shoots the A's were pummeling Karr and Eibel for ten blows. They put one across in the first on singles by Thomas and Dykes, and five came through in the fateful fourth on one-base hits by Witt and Walsh, doubles by Galloway and Burrus and walks to Dykes, Perkins and CHICK GALLOWAY may have spoiled Keefe's C record by his one lone fumble, but otherwise he fielded splendidly and starred at but with two doubles and a single during the afternoon. He scored the one and only run in the second encounter.

Scott Perry Had Everything

SCOTT PERRY had everything in that nightcap enformer Phil, also hurled a great game. The big rightbander allowed hits in each of the first four innings, and then he did not permit a safe blow until the ninth.

Walker and Dykes slammed Fortune for safeties in the first, but not another hit was made off his delivery until the winning marker was put over in the eighth. Galloway started this frame with a swat to the bleachers for two bases and pranced to third on Perry's out. He dented the disc when Whitey Witt rapped a single through

In the ninth it looked as if the A's were going to run true to form and allow the Red Sox to knot the statisties, but a show of strong-arm by Ralph Perkins and two sensational catches prevented the game from going into extra innings. Menosky, first up, dropped a double near the right field foul line. He ventured too far from second and a spap toss by Perkins to Galloway nailed him by a foot. This was fortunate, for Schang followed with two-ply wallop to right and Stuffy McInnis worked Perry for a walk. Foster slapped a wicked liner to center, and by a burst of ten-second sprinting Welsh was able to collar the drive. Foster whipped one to left and Tilly Walker duplicated Welsh's feat. He speared the ball when on the dead run, whatever that is.

WHENEVER the A's go on a winning streak they pick on the Red Sox. Earlier in the season they took two games from the Barrow bunch

CTRANGE things have happened recently i., this tein a baseball way. The A's won two in one day, and before they departed for the West the Phillies staged several streaks and played exceptionally good ball. But the strangest thing that could occur here would be for the A's and the Phils to win on the same day. That would be too much for our nervous hearts.

The Phils dropped the decision to the Pirates vesterday in the first game of their second western invasion. The Cravath club is not a good traveling team, but it is hoped that, with Enzman and Hubbell, the new twiclers, an improvement will be shown.

THE selection of Jack Monkley as head couch of the American Olympic team is a wise one. The old fox has a record that stands by itself and his knowledge of track and field athletics is unlimited. Under his tutelage Cornell has proved the master of track and field sports. Moakley will be ably assisted by Lawson Robertson, the man who has placed Pennsylvania back on the map. and the other tutors who have been named to help. Moakcy is a fit successor to the immortal Mike Murphy.

NINE LOCAL BOXERS TO TRY FOR OLYMPIC TEAM BERTHS

Bass, Hutchinson, O'Malley, Bent, Clark and Loog to Represent Phila. in Final Tryouts Next Week

By LOUIS H. JAFFE TINE wielders of the padded mitt

N from this city and who hit or get hit "ntirely for sport's sake, not for the long green that makes the propugs envious of each other, are going to attempt to punch their way into berths on America's boxing team to compete in the Olympiad at Antwerp, Belgium, this year. Final tryouts for the purpose of selecting the aggregation which is to box under the Stars and Stripes will be held next Monday and Tuesday at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, New York city

Benny Bass, Jimmy Hutchinson, Clif-ford Bent, Tommy O'Malley, William Clark and Sidney Loog, Jr., Artic Mc-Cann. Earl Hartman and Don Cartin to represent Philadelphia in the trials. These youths make a formidable squad Each has been boxing successfully in local tournaments all season.

McGrath Trains Bass

Rass belongs to the Curtis Country Club, and he is being trained by Harr; McGrath. Benny has been improving with every bout, in the opinion of McGrath, and Harry feels confident that Bass will be one of the lucky lads to make the trip across with the American team. Bass scales about 110 pounds and has been entered in the 112-pound class. Benny recently proved he all sorts of class when he defeated Billy Levine, New York state champion.

Jimmy is a brother of Hughey, local professional boxer, from whom the former has learned a lot of the tricks of the squared circle. Young Hutchiuson is clever, he can hit and already has proved his ability under fire. Jimmy is a strong finisher, and other entrants in his division will have no cinch when paired off with the Philadelphian.

Bent Is Featherweight

Bent is another competent boxer who has had a lot of experience in amateur matches. It had been rumored recently that Cliff would start a professional career, but he dissipated this report by appounding his interaction. report by announcing his intention to remain in "all-for-glory" ranks until he wins the world's amateur crown. Bent is entered in the 126-pound class.

O'Malley also belongs to a family of boxers. He is a lightweight, and has Asked how much Carpentier paid, of local amateur fistmen, and has the
