TRIPLE PLAY DOES NOT DISMAY PHILS

Cravathletes All Ready to Give Battle to Pittsburgh Pirates Again Today

Pittsburgh, July 7.—Weather permitting, the Phillies and Pirates will look up in the second game of the series this afternoon. While Garry Cravath would not say this morning who he would send in, it is likely that Lee Meadows will be his choice, and he will find himself faced by Babe Adams for the Pirates.

Lee has reason to remember his last visit here, for it was on the last day of that trip that happened the accident that threatened to ruin his career as a ball player, but happily his eyes are all right, and he will no doubt be in good account of himself if he goes in. Ralph Miller is not with the team on this trip, having gone to his home in Fort Wayne suffering with a slight stomach ailment.

Smith Not So Bad George Smith pitched fairly good ball yesterday, and his little wick work won the game for him. However, he had a lot to do with the pitcher, Cooper the Pirate in the sixth inning. Cooper is a pretty nifty batsman for a pitcher, and he laced a straight one to the center as a beginner of the job. Cooper hit the ball, but the pitcher Bigbee bunted. A little quicker on the job he had been, the latter beat the Pirate at first, but the latter beat the Pirate at first.

Carey also laid down a bunt, but Wheat pounced on an accurate throw. The Pirate captain hit to Paulette, who fumbled the ball, giving Cooper the lead. The pitcher Bigbee bunted. A little quicker on the job he had been, the latter beat the Pirate at first, but the latter beat the Pirate at first.

Close Play at Home A lucky fly by Southworth, the ball bouncing off Paulette's shin, put McKeechie on third. Again the double steal was called for, and this time McKeechie came tearing down the path. Wheat threw the ball to Paulette, who did not turn back, but continued to the plate, sliding under Wheat as the ball was put on him.

There was not a great deal of play, triple play pulled off by the Pirates. Wheat put up a little pop fly to Cooper in an attempt to sacrifice. On account of the soft condition of the base paths the runners had difficulty in getting back, although it must be said that Cooper, Caton and Cutshaw worked very fast. The last triple play at Forbes Field took place in the fall of 1917, when Elmer Ponder first came here. Pitching against New York, he walked the first three men, then the fourth hit to Paulette, who started the double play at the plate that went along to first base, and when the runner who had started from second also tried to take a fast relay to first, the catcher completed the triple killing.

MACK AFTER BROWER

Griffith Also Wants Slugging First Sacker of Reading Team There is a heavy-hitting first baseman on the Reading International League team who would look rather well in an A's uniform, according to the belief of Connie Mack. The slugger is Elmer Ponder, who has been enigmatically "Babe" Ruth with the willow wand to such good purpose that already this season he has walked the ball for twenty home runs.

Bingles and Bungles

Three straight, and all going strong. Local fans are willing to run Perry and Keefe on the third party ticket. Keefe has three fingers on his pitching hand. Think of what he could do if he had five. Jimmy Dykes is proving to be a regular cleanup hitter. Had three hits out of six times up yesterday. He drove in a run and scored one. Mike Menckey had two hits off Perry. One was a double and the other a triple. The triple was a huge affair. It fell among Witt, Burgess and Dykes, and before any one could get the ball away Menckey had a good road for third. Chick Galloway crossed the dose in the (careful) fourth frame of the opening encounter. He hit the home run, and then hitting the home, to get at the Mack shortstop, and Chick scored two on a double. Dick Burgess played first base like he was reputed to be able to play it. Overcastly on the part of Tully Walker spotted the chances of getting a corner in the first inning of the closing game. Tully was out there to get to third as Dykes' answer to Schang.

DICK WILLIAMS PLAYS IN OLD-TIME FASHION

Former Philadelphia Youth Staged Remarkable Tennis in the Recent World's Championship Tournament on the Wimbledon Courts

THE playing of R. N. Williams, 2d, formerly of this city, but now of Boston, in the recent world's tennis championship at Wimbledon showed clearly that he has returned to pre-war form. Richard Norris Williams, 2d, is one of the few lawn tennis stars of this country who got his training from a professional. Virtually all Americans learned their game through tournament experience and the coaching of their respective fathers. Williams was taught the game in Switzerland by a professional who believed that form was the essential of the champion player.

During his early young manhood Williams played in a number of European tournaments and finally came back to this country in 1912. He took passage on the steamship Titanic which hit an iceberg and sank April 14, 1912. Williams' father was drowned and he would have been had he not had the luck to come upon a life-preserver while he was struggling in the water. He was rescued after being unconscious for several hours. Williams was taught the game in Switzerland by a professional who believed that form was the essential of the champion player.

Williams was born here, and until last summer was always recorded officially as a Philadelphian in all his tournaments. But from the time of his return from the war he has been rated as a member of the Longwood Cricket Club, Brookline, Mass. He now lives in Boston. Williams was an ideal temperament for tennis, his game recently has varied greatly in its effectiveness. This is due no doubt to the fact that he has not yet recovered from the grind of the war. Last summer those who saw him play at Forest Hills in the early rounds for the national title believed he was himself again. He gave Vincent Richards the worst trimming that the youngster has had since he rose to the ranks of the elite of tennis. This year Williams' best performance on this side of the water was played at Forest Hills in the Boston-New York contest for the Church Cup. He played a marvelous game in defeating Ichiji Kumagata.

Williams' game probably is the smoothest of any player this country has ever produced—when he is going right. His volleying is perfect. When Williams goes to the net he takes a position on the middle-service line a few feet closer to the net than the cross-service mark. He volleys equally well fore and back handed and drives severely on the middle-service line. His ground strokes are perfect and his service, though not as severe as Tilden's, is very effective. For it is always placed at the point where the receiver has most trouble in handling it. Never was Williams known to get hurried in a match. On the court he is just as he is off. He doesn't get nervous before a match no matter how many times it may be postponed. He merely sits around and smokes a pipe, his one vice.

AMERICA MEETS FRANCE AT NETS

Tilden and Johnston Face Gobert and Laurentz in Davis Cup Matches

Eastbourne, England, July 8.—Conditions were not ideal today for the beginning of the matches between the French and American Davis Cup teams to decide which shall continue in the contest for the international trophy. The first sunshine in six days came with a westerly gale which was strong enough to mar the play unless its force should abate late in the afternoon. The soaked courts, however, were being rapidly dried out by the wind during the morning.

The matches planned for today were: William M. Johnston, American champion, vs. A. H. Gobert, and William T. Tilden, world's champion, vs. W. H. Laurentz. The same players are expected to meet in the doubles tomorrow, while on Saturday the arrangements call for a match between Gobert and Tilden and one between Laurentz and Johnston. The courts here are much slower than the center court at Wimbledon. The French representatives, Decugis and Gobert, think this will penalize both sides equally, as all tennis players like hard ground. The teams have had virtually no opportunity to practice here owing to the fact that it has rained almost continuously during the three days. The Frenchmen are despondent at this, but the Americans take it philosophically. There is a general feeling that William M. Johnston, the American champion, will recover his previous form. America's chances of winning are regarded most favorable here.

CHESS MATCHES TODAY

Jaffe and Marshall to Play in Second Round Atlantic City, July 8.—Owing to a last-minute withdrawal on the part of Janowski, of Paris, a new pairing was made necessary for the first round of the chess masters' tournament, which began yesterday at the Million-Dollar Pier. As a consequence, Frank J. Marshall, the United States champion, who originally had drawn a bye, was paired with Stach Motzkowski, of Los Angeles. The Pacific coast champion was at top form, and made an excellent showing against the famous international player, to the end that he succeeded in drawing the game after twenty-eight moves.

Charles Jaffe, of New York, was the first to win his game against Jackson, of Philadelphia, a former University of Pennsylvania player. Sharp, of Philadelphia, adopted the Petroff defense against Neidich, of Cornell, and won a pawn on the tenth move. In the second round today the pairing will be as follows: Sharp vs. Jackson, Marshall vs. Jaffe and Neidich vs. Motzkowski.

TRAINING PLANS FOR U. S. ATHLETES

Moakley Confers With Olympic Committee on Schedule for American Team

Jack Moakley, veteran Cornell track and field coach, who has been selected as head of the board of coaches for the American Olympic team, conferred with members of the American Olympic committee regarding tentative plans for the preparation and conditioning of the athletes who will be selected to wear the American shield in the seventh Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium, next month. The session was held in New York soon after the arrival there of Coach Moakley from Ithaca, in the office of Gustavus T. Kirby, president of the American Olympic committee. Members of the committee present included Justice Hartow S. Weeks, who is also an American representative on the international Olympic committee; Everett C. Brown, of Chicago; Matthew P. Halpin, New York A. C., manager of the Olympic team; and Frederick W. Rubien, secretary to the committee.

Following the conference President Kirby announced that the matters under discussion were purely technical and concerned principally transportation plans and tentative arrangements for an intensive campaign of activity which will be invoked to keep the selected athletes active from the time of their departure until their arrival at Antwerp. The plans of the committee were unfolded to the newly appointed head coach so that he might familiarize himself with events which will necessitate his consideration in the future. President Kirby also detailed conditions at Antwerp as he found them during his recent visit abroad. A telegram was sent to Mike Ryan, Colby College coach, who has been selected to coach the marathon runners, requesting his presence at another meeting to be held tomorrow morning in President Kirby's office. Head Coach Moakley will also attend this meeting, when plans will be discussed for the conditioning of the marathons runners.
