Exclusion of Orientals Deemed Menace by Columbia University Professor

CHINA'S EYES TURN TO U. S

By a Staff Correspondent Cape May, N. J., July 9 .- "In our of the Chinese and Japanese m our shores lies the ultimate and at terrible menace of world conflict and the destruction of a permanent peace," declared J. Russell Smith, protessor of industrial geography, Columbis University, before this morning's crowded session of the second day of the Friend's general conference on the municipal auditorium pier. "If we believe in this sort of special privilege dependent on force, exclusion applied with needless brutality, and are unwilling to let the Chinese, the Japunwilling to let the Chinese, the Japanese and the Hindoos come freely into this country, we belong to the exclusion party, to the fundamental war party, and not to the fundamental peace party." he continued.

"The tendencies and temptations toward war during the next half century are and will be stronger than they have ever been at any time we know, in spite of the fact that war's repulsivemess has never been so great.

in spite of the fact that war's repulsives ness has never been so great.

"We are, of course, opposed to war, but the trouble is that we have not sufficient spirit of self-effacement to endure a real brotherhood of all men. Too many of us believe in special privileges modern imperialism and other leges, modern imperialism and other fundamental causes of war.

"On our Pacific coast we see the love of racial particularism causing the white peoples of the United States to exclude the Chinese. This is done for the most natural reasons. The simple living standards of the Chinese, their low wages, their terrible diligence, have shown that they can come to California, buy the whole of it, and convert it into an outpost of Mongolia that may spread no one knows how far.

The tendency toward a Chinese system is stronger across their border than the recent avalanche over the Germap boundary, but the Chinese are a present unorganized.

Question to Be Faced

"One of the questions we must face is this: Must the Chinese continue to prepare for war—for they have the beginnings of a western military system already—on account of our imposition already—on account of our imposition and interference, or will free interna-tional trade and equal opportunities of investment enable him to stay peace-fully at home in spite of the land

"The United States, England, Japan and other powerful nations have firmly set their hand to be ruling peoples, and they are making this clearly manifest to the rest of the world."

Professor Smith said it seemed hard to exclude the Chinese and that it would be equally as hard to admit them and live with them. The present situation live with them.

Basic Causes of War

n a further analysis of the causes of war he mentioned economic jealousies, the struggle for expansion and raw material, love of power, group conscious-pess, ancient hates, and appealed for an increase of knowledge about the causes of war among all peoples in order that it may be more effectively prevented.

The tip came from Washington, the delegate said, that offenders should be let down easy until after the presi-dential election next November, when things would be tightened up.
Sunday observance also came in for discussion by Doctor Swayze. He said it was undeniable that a man who is confined to work in an office for six days a week must have some outdoor recreation on Sunday. If this recreation is to take a religious form and not baseball palying, or some other similar sport, let some one suggest it and the ministers will be only too glad

When the pistol was finally traced to Wanderer he first said he had "traded with the man after the shooting because the stranger's pistol was the best, and later said the man had wrested it from him before the shooting began."

The police also said they could not understand how, with ten shots fired a a range of less than three feet, Wanderer escaped unscathed, while both his wife and the other man were killed. "There is a strong possibility that Wanderer did all the shooting." Chief of Police Garrity said.
