pleasant reading, and served to emphasize the necessity for quick action in the matter of granting higher freight rates.

In the last hour the market began to show signs of an overhold condition, and there was a general rush to cover yb the professional element when the call money rate dropped to S per cent. This induced a sharp rally, which testified to the weak character of much of the earlier selling. Declines which it had taken the greater part of the seesion to bring about were partly cancelled in a very few minutes of the late trading. After getting down close to 90. United States Steel rallied above 91 and Baidwin Locomotive moved back about 116 after touching 11412.

Burning test

Compounded motor oils of the old - type paraffin base, when partly burned, leave a thick sticky tar. This residue sticks to cylinder walls, piston heads, etc., collects dirt and forms carbon deposit.

The terrific heat in the combustion chambers of your engine does not affect the quality of Sunoco-the new scientific motor lubricant-any more than boiling affects the quality of pure, distilled water.

That is because Sunoco is an absolutely pure, wholly distilled, non-compounded product. Sunoco burns down evenly, the part that remains having the same lubricating value as the original oil.

Sunoco will not break down in lubricating ability under the most intense heat of the engine. It prevents carbon, scored cylinders, engine knocks, pitted valves, preignition, loss of power-the fruits of improper lubrication.

Burning down ordinary compounded motor oils-made by mixing light oils with heavy cylinder stock-is like boiling down a solution of water and sugar. The residue becomes thick and sticky.

When such a compounded oil is burned in your engine, the thick, sticky, non-lubricating residue clings to cylinder walls, piston heads, etc., collects road dust and other impurities, and forms carbon.

Sunoco is made in six types to guarantee the right type for any car. Any Sunoco dealer can tell you the right type for your engine, or write to us for the "Sunoco Lubrication Guide."

"First and foremost among these enemies was Red Peter, king of the gypsies. He held a whip in his hand, and he was trying to get at the little hoy. But the Collie wouldn't let him. She snapped so dangerously he didn't dare go near.

"This made Red Peter angry and he shouted for the gypsy dogs to drag down the brave Collie. With a whelp of delight they leaped at her, Snapper in the lead.
