

DEAD, 3 INJURED IN SUNDAY MISHAPS

Two Boys Drowned and Third Is Killed by Electric Wires

GIRL IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Three accidental deaths, two by drowning, occurred yesterday and a young woman and two men are in hospitals today in critical condition as a result of automobile accidents.

Reginald Blount, a Boy Scout, 2639 South Sixty-eighth street, was drowned in the Delaware river when a cable ferry became submerged.

James V. Mancini, fifteen years old, 433 Washington street, Camden, drowned in the Delaware river at the foot of Jackson street, Camden.

Reinhold Beach, eight years old, 2910 North Marshall street, electrocuted by live wire at North Mascher street and Reading railway, while retrieving his kite from telegraph wires.

Clara Jones, seventeen years old, 3214 Pottey street, skull fractured when motorcars collided at Grant avenue and Academy road, Torresdale, Frankford Hospital.

Stanley Pynkelski, fifty-four years old, 2400 Duncan street, internal injuries, fractures of both legs and general cuts when automobile struck his motorcycle at Grant avenue and Academy road, Frankford Hospital.

Anthony Kilnowski, thirty-six years old, 4783 Milnor street, passenger on Pynkelski's motorcycle, cuts of head and body. May have fractured skull, Frankford Hospital.

The toll of dead or injured probably would have been greater yesterday but for the leap made from an automobile by three women and two men a few seconds before the machine was wrecked by a passenger train.

The accident occurred at the Bostin grade crossing, where the Willow Grove tracks cross the tracks of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway. At 10:30 o'clock last night William Freeman, thirty-four years old, owner of the car, was approaching the crossing, about a mile north of Glenside.

As the front wheels of the motorcar touched the railroad tracks the engine stalled. At the same moment a Willow Grove train approached at high speed. Freeman yelled a warning and threw open the door of his car. Miss Frieda Leslie, of Stouts City, Pa., in the front seat with him, leaped out, followed by Leslie. Two women and a man in the tonneau leaped also. A few seconds later the automobile was demolished by the train.

The accidents at Grant avenue and Academy road, Torresdale, a spur of the Lincoln highway, occurred within a half hour of each other.

Miss Jones, who is not expected to live, was riding with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, in an automobile driven near Powelton avenue.

At the intersection of the two roads Wilcox's car was sidwiped by another touring car and knocked into a ditch. The four men occupants of the second car helped to right the overturned machine, but left the scene before their identity could be learned.

The accident in which the two motorcyclists were hurt occurred a half hour later. The two wheeled vehicles crashed into the rear of an automobile operated by Harper Wright, of Fallington, Pa. As witnesses asserted, the accident was the fault of the motorcyclists. Wright was not held.

Blount, the Boy Scout believed to have drowned, was a member of Troop No. 45 of this city. He had been in camp only a short time. He was crossing the river on a cable ferry when the boat became submerged. Several other passengers were aboard.

Physical Instructor Arnold, who was attached to the camp, swam after the boy when he went into the river, but young Blount was carried out of his reach by the rapid current. As the scout could swim there is said to be a faint possibility that he may have landed on a small island.

The boy kite-flyer who was killed by a live wire had been flying his kite all yesterday afternoon. Late in the day he began hauling in his line to see when the string became entangled in telephone wires near a telegraph pole. The boy climbed the pole to loosen the box-kite when his hand touched an uncovered live wire. Seven thousand volts of electricity passed through his body.

Dependent Woman Dies

Dependent for some time, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoesley, thirty-seven years old, is believed to have committed suicide yesterday at her home, 2135 East Huntingdon street, by inhaling illuminating gas. Her daughter, Ruth, seventeen years old, discovered her mother's body in the bathroom, after the girl had returned from a walk. She notified the police of the Trenton avenue and Dauphin street police station and they sent the body to the Episcopal Hospital.

BUSINESS TRAINING MAKES BEST WIVES

Miss Campbell Declares Career in Industry Fits Woman for Home Management

Women who have had business experience make the best wives; that is, if they preserve their femininity. That belief seems general among the Philadelphia women who have made good in business and who have watched the development of the feminine role in the business world.

"Business training is the best education I know," said Miss Helen H. Campbell, 1001 Oxford street, for many years manager of the big retail store of a company which makes, lodges and furnishes the men of today," she said. "It makes a woman broader-minded, better balanced, more sympathetic and understanding of the problems facing the men of today." She said. And the woman with business training probably will not be so extravagant as the woman who has lived a secluded life.

"The only danger is when women attempt to ape the men and assume mannish habits and mannerisms. If she preserves her femininity—and the average business woman does—she makes a splendid wife. You see, she has learned to manage men, and," with a twinkle in her blue eyes, "men do need managing."

Miss Campbell is one of the pioneer business women of Philadelphia. And certainly she has preserved her femininity through years of figuring, planning and managing the salesroom and later developing that room into a splendid big shop filled with artistic furnishings that delight the soul of home lovers. Her hair is a soft, beautiful white that clouds about her forehead in most becoming fashion. Her blue-gray eyes are friendly and interested in every one and everything about her. But her smile is most charming of all. Her good taste has not been confined to her business, for she is always attractively gowned.

It was nearly twenty years ago that Miss Campbell, a native Philadelphian, answered an advertisement and applied to A. D. Dougherty for a position. He wanted some one to take charge of his salesroom. Miss Campbell said she had never sold anything in her life, but she would try it. She was a success.

For many years she was head of the salesroom and gradually she added other things than bedding to the sales stock. Always she has preserved genteel taste in her selection of furniture, lamps and hangings for the home.

"I dislike ornate and elaborate things," she said. "I have shunned them and bought in the things that seem to combine simplicity, beauty and

SCOTS LAUD JOHN GRIBBEL

Philadelphian Feted for Gift of Burns Manuscripts

John Gribbel, of this city, is being honored in Scotland and England according to cable messages. It is reported that Mr. Gribbel's generous gift in returning to Scotland the priceless Glenriddle Burns manuscripts has met with tributes of praise—such as no American has received in a decade.

Mr. Gribbel and his family, recently in London, have gone to Scotland where for three years the noted Philadelphia authority on the poetry and editions of Robert Burns will be the guest of the Robert Burns Federation.

Tomorrow he will be presented with an album containing forty original paintings and etchings representing scenes from the life of Burns. This will be the gift of the federation. On August 2 and 13 he will be the honor guest at dinners given by the corporations of Glasgow and Edinburgh.

FORMER PHYSICIAN DIES IN OBSCURITY

Harry F. Campbell, Jefferson Graduate, Had Been Washing Dishes in Cafe

ONCE PRACTICED HERE

A former well-known physician in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh died in a lodging house in New York yesterday after working three years as a dishwasher in a Forty-second street restaurant.

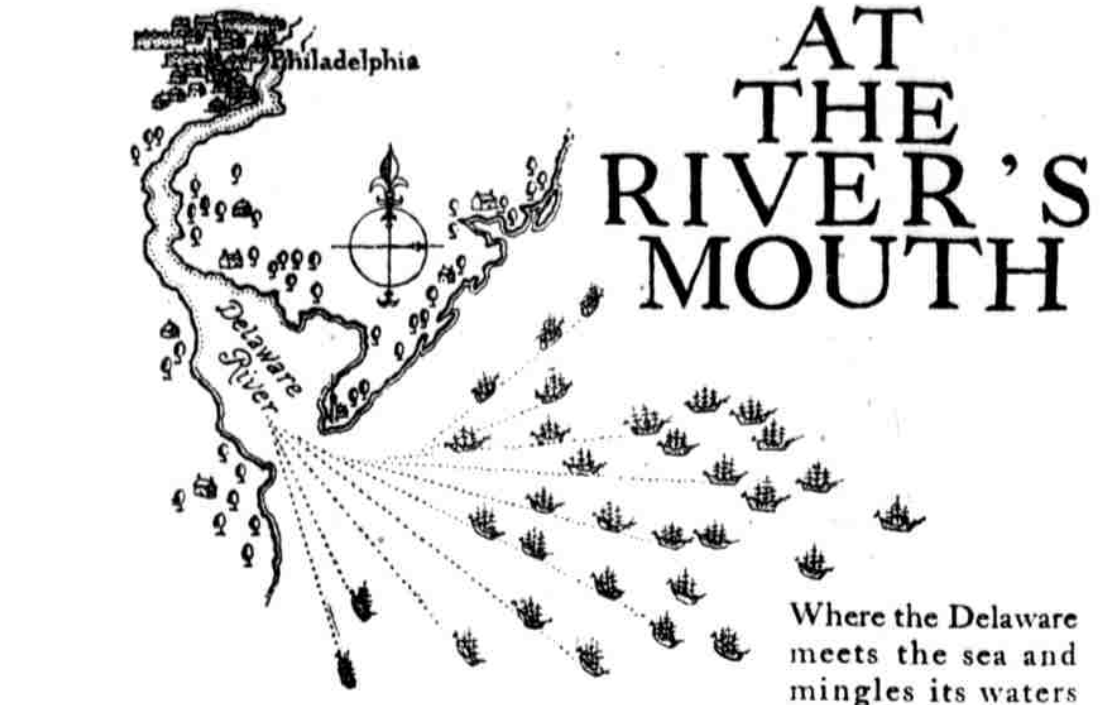

Police, searching the man's trunk, discovered he was Dr. Harry F. Campbell, a graduate of Jefferson Medical College.

He went to the rooming house of Mrs. Johanna Hunting, 205 West Fifty-sixth street, after living at the McAlpin Hotel.

Mrs. Hunting was the only woman at the house who knew his history. She told the police the former physician had a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Cochran, of Pittsburgh, who in 1914, while in Berlin, was offered an engagement at the Danzig Opera House. The daughter is said to be touring this country at present.

At the Shanley Restaurant, 117 West Forty-second street, the chef said Doctor Campbell had been working at the restaurant seven days a week, from 5 p. m. to 2 a. m., and received $18 a week. The man was known for his fondness of dogs. He never spoke of the medical profession.

The room in which the former physician lived had only a bed, a table and a chair. In the man's trunk police found his Jefferson Medical College diploma of 1881; papers showing he was

Thousands of miles away, in countries upon the other side of the world, people and industries await the cargoes that these ships bear to them—cargoes of iron, coal and oil, cargoes of textiles, tobacco and foodstuffs, cargoes of locomotives, tools and machinery, cargoes of every size and description.

YOUR ESTATE

MANY people toil, with infinite self-sacrifice, to acquire and leave to their children a competence; and then, by the careless making of a will or the failure to provide adequate safeguards for an improvident child or by the selection of an incompetent executor, the fruits of their toil are dissipated and swept away.

Some knowledge of the legal distribution of property after death and of reasonable precautions that can be taken to insure the carrying out of your wishes and intentions, may prove of value.

at one time a resident physician of the Philadelphia General Hospital and a certificate of membership in the Allegheny County Medical Society.

Dr. John W. Croskey, who is writing a history of the Philadelphia General Hospital, said the records showed Doctor Campbell had been an interne there following his graduation.

Advice from Pittsburgh says Doctor Campbell practiced at 1304 Sheffield street until three years ago, when he went to New York accompanied by his wife, who was Miss Elma Heinzer.

It could not be learned what induced the physician to forsake his profession and seek employment in New York as a dishwasher. The New York police have learned nothing concerning Mrs. Campbell.

Mr. Hart spoke on the value of a Christian character, saying that what a man believes and does are important, but what he really is constitutes the greatest thing in life.

"To the Christian, tomorrow is better than today, and next year will be better than this year," the Rev. Mr. Hart told a congregation of 100 persons. "The Christian regards this life as a mere stepping stone to a life beyond."
