CHAPTER I

Lonesome Bear Is Mad LONESOME BEAR was mad clear

Lonesome Bear was mad clear through, from the tip of his sniffing nose to the bottom of his clawing toes. Lonesome Bear was mad because Judge Owl had just told him the riddle of the cave wasn't a mighty monster, as Lonesome Bear had thought, but just a little lost puppy.

*"I don't believe it," roared Lonesome Bear, making such a frightful noise that Peggy and Billy came running through the woods to see what was the matter. "It surely was a mighty monster that thrashed me in the cave and hurled me down the bluff. No puppy could black my eye, and tear my fur, and bruise my body. Even a blind old owl ought to be able to see what a wreck that awful riddle creature made of me." And Lonesome Bear giared at Judge Owl through his eye that wasn't hidden by a patch and shook his paw that wasn't in a sling. Judge Owl blinked through his dark gogeles and chuckled in owlish gies." "Hee! Hoo! Hoo! The joke is on
