Dr. P. B. Hawk Meets Carl Fischer; Cravis Clashes With Norman Swayne

BOYS FINISH UP

By SPICK HALL

ONE of the most interesting lawn One of the most interesting lawn tennis battles of the season is scheduled to take place this afternoon in the semifinal round of the men's singles for the championship of eastern Pennsylvania. This set to will be between Dr. Philip B. Hawk and Carl Fischer, both members of the Cynwyd Fischer, both members of the Cynwyd Club, where the match will be staged. In the other bracket Norman Swayne meets I. Cravis. Both of these players also are members of Cynwyd. Cravis defeated L. H. Richards, Jr., Germantown, 6-3, 6-3.

When Fischer and Doctor Mawk meet it will be a remarkable tilt, provided that each plays his usual game, and there is no reason to believe that there will be a slip-up of form by either the yeteran or the young University of the veteran or the young University of Pennsylvania star. Doctor Hawk and Carl Fischer typify the extremes in lawn tennis, the former never going closer to the net than he can help, and the latter never going anywhere else if possible. Doctor Hawk is a baseline player, whose drives are not hit severely, but the accuracy with which they are played has been the downfal scores of far more flashy performers

Great Outguesser Doctor Hawk has the knack of outguessing his opponent for many earned points during a match, and this is particularly true where his foe plays at the barrier. He manages to work his man a trifle out of position and then shoot the ball past him for a clean placement. And the doctor always stays back as far as possible in making these shots. Some one remarked the other day that the only way to beat Doctor Hawk was to play further back from the baseline than he does

Of course, that isn't strictly true, but it is true unless his opponent is extraordinarily good at the net. As but it is true unless his opponent is extraordinarily good at the net. As Carl Fischer is a great net player, both as to killing lobs and blocking drives with angular volleys, he will try to beat the doctor in this way.

In Carl Fischer's junior days Doctor Hawk always trimmed him, but last year, after Carl had come into his own as a senior player, he defeated Doctor Hawk in three sets in a match played this section of the state.

as a senior player, he defeated Doctor Hawk in three sets in a match played on grass. This year at the Merion state tournament, Carl had Doctor Hawk one set and the score was 3-all in the second when they had to quit to account of the darkness. The next day Doctor Hawk had to leave the city and defaulted the match. So that's their social standing on the courts.

The start is made up Broad street and straight on to Ogontz where, just the other side of the town, a curve is taken over into what is known at that point as Church road. As the run is made straight along, past beautiful hedges, gardens and mansions, the name of the road changes to Skippack pike.
