Warsaw Tettering

Class Appeal Peril Cited by Harding

continued from Page One where the great world experiment was leading; frankly, no one could know. We are only learning now. It would be a sorry day for this republic if we allowed our activities to be directed in the old world to blind us to the essentials of peace at home.

Appeal to Class Menace There is another thought relating to concord so essential to continued advancement. It was said the other day that the Democratic party meant especially to appeal to the farmers and the wage-earners and let America forget the failure of the world experiment. If America can be made to forget the attempt to force us to a nation of vent and good. It would be better if we could forget, but when nationality is surrendered to internationalism, little else matters and all appeal is in vain.

Under the heavy blows of the Soviet forces the defenders of Warsaw are falling back so rapidly that evacuation of the city and removal of the capital to Cracow seem inevitable. While the main Russian forces are pushing on toward Warsaw cavalry detachments are advancing westward from Mlawa, with the evident purpose of cutting off the Danzig corridor and preventing shipment of munitions into Poland.

Provisional headquarters for the American Red Cross have been established at Cracow for use in case it is necessary for that organization to abandon Warsaw. About fifty Red Cross women workers are still in this city, but they have all their baggage packed and are prepared to leave on short notice.

Supplies Saved By Red Cross Dr. George D. Whiteside, of Plover, Wisconsin, has established relief centers on all trains, and has arranged for trains equipped to care for wounded and feed refugees. These have been stationed at junction points west and southwest of this city, and will be run from point to point for use where needed. The will replace Red Cross branch stations which will be handicapped because of the rapid changes in the battlefield.

Three hundred carloads of supplies were brought out of Bielsk by the Red Cross before the Bolsheviks captured that city, and members of the organization continued treating the wounded and caring for refugees within four miles of the town. In addition to saving all their equipment, the Red Cross workers brought out 800 war orphans, who had been pupils in a school established by the Junior American Red Cross. These orphans have been installed in a village near Warsaw.

Red Cross officials here declared today they would remain in Warsaw until the last. About seventy women workers left recently, but their departure had been decided upon some time ago, because of a decision to reduce the local staff on August 1.

Allenstein, East Prussia, Aug. 4.—(By A. P.) Threats by the Russian Soviet forces to execute instantly any Polish or military subjects of the allied powers who cross the frontier are reported by refugees arriving here from the region to the east being occupied by the Russians. This has caused the inter-allied commission in this district to announce that no person will for any reason be permitted to enter the Russian-controlled zone.

Salient Features of Harding's Address

Appeals to class called menace second only to surrender of nationality to internationalism. League of Nations declared to be the other extreme to referendum on proposed declaration of war. Congress only authority that can call American manhood to battle. Profers industrial and social peace at home to command of international peace of the world.

Bessing, fifteen years old, and Charles Brewer, thirteen years old, both of Camden, while the lads were riding along the road near here on bicycles to visit relatives in Woodstown. John Caciolone, the farmer, caught them as they were having their feast. Magistrate Court, before whom the lads were hauled, refused to consider the farmer's demand that he be paid $20 for what melons the boys ate. The owner settled the matter for $5 and there were constable fees of $6.10. The boys left their bicycles as security and departed for their homes by trolley car. The money to pay for the melons and the constable's fees.

Strikers Declare 78 Firms Have Granted Their Demands Seventy-eight firms employing 750 of the journeymen plumbers who went on strike last Monday for higher wages, have granted the demands of the union and signed the new contracts for 1920-21, according to John McIntyre, secretary of local union 123. Mr. McIntyre estimated that about 450 men were still out on strike but expressed the opinion that a large percentage of them would be back at work under the new schedule within a day or two. The Master Plumbers' Association maintains that few if any of their members have submitted to the new union demands. They say the firms who have signed are mostly places that employ one or two men.
