Mother Refused to Name Price for Daughter at Work

Hazleton, Pa., Aug. 6.—How much s a busky, fifteen-year-old girl worth? That is the question a farmer in one of the nearby valleys put up to a mother who is widowed and who placed the child to work on the man's property two years ago in order that she could take better care of her younger offspring. Instead of setting a price, the mother came to the offices of the United Charities and asked that recovery proceedings be started. The names of the parties concerned were

If you will read the Help Wanted ads in today's paper you're sure to find some one who is advertising directly to "you."

There are many vacancies in homes, offices and factories-vacancies that you know you can fill satisfactorily.

Mr. Employer

you want efficient help-real "helpers"-not "draw-backs."

You can get them by phoning Walnut or Main 3000 and running an ad in the morning and evening editions of
