To prevent this, scald and rinse breadbox thoroughly once a week o not return broken and cut bread the box. If these bits of bread do in the oven, where they will, as the oven is in use from time to time, become dry and thus may be made into crumbs. Whole wheat, rye and brown breads may be used in this way.

To Prepare the Crumbs

Have the bread thoroughly dry; this means that it must be hard and crisp. for if it is soft it will clog the machine. Tut the medium fine knife on the food per and put the stale bread gh. Now sift through a colander then you will have two size crumbs. Return the fine crumbs to the oven for three minutes. Let cool, then pack in fruit jars. These crumbs are now ready for crumbing all foods which are intended for deep fat frying. The coarse crumbs can be used for puddings, | Cucumber, cakes and au gratin dishes.

Making More Money

"The Goldfish Queen" BEFORE she located her "big idea,"

Miss Katherine Cooper was secretary to the mayor of Omaha, Neb., but her salary was not sufficient to meet her needs. What was more, the outlook for the future was distinctly limited. She knew that she would have to step outside her office routine to earn more morrey, but she felt that her business experience would enable her to do this -once she found something on which Defends Dancing in Public Halls Dear Cynthia—This letter is in answer to eiris going to dance halls.

First of all I have met very nice girls who so there and they are just as much respected by their friends as the ones who do not go. They are not the doll kind of girls. They don't nut powder on their faces an inch thick or any other thing to give them the appearance of the freaks that are seen on Chest-nut street. They don't think every fellow who speaks to them is going to marry them, but talk to them and dance with them and they come home at a decent time and not 1 or 2 in the morning. And any way, I don't think any girl should be looked down on because she dances in public dance halls just to pass an enjoyable evening. ADVENTURES

"CHUMS IN THE WOODS" By DADDY

CHAPTER VI The Wild Candy Factory HUM-M-M-M! Buz-z-z-z! Hum-m-m! Buz-z-z! Peggy, Billy and Toddie Pupkins lisened wonderingly to the murmur from buzz sounded familiar to Peggy and Billy even though they never before had heard of a wild candy factory in the While they were listening, Toddie Pupkins suddenly gave a sharp yelp, and leaped backwards, tumbling head over heels. And no wonder he had relped and jumped, for a bee had lighted on his nose, and if he hadn't moved as fast as he did, he would have been stung. As was he shook the bee off just in time. Toddie's jump was so funny that Peggy and Billy started to laugh. But. right in the midst of their laughter Billy gave a yell, and he, too, went tumbling backward. A bee had lighted on his hand and had stung him before he could brush it off. Billy was still rolling on the round, when Peggy gave a shrick and dashed away with a big bee buzzing around her head.

Lonesome Bear sat down and laughed. Waw, waw, waw! Now you know who he wild candy makers are!" he roared "Oh, they are bees and the wild candy actory is a bee tree. Why didn't you tell us before I got stung," yelled Billy, running to the bank of a nearby creek and putting mud on the place where the bee had used its stinger. That was the declared Pergy and Billy, while Lonesome Bear grinned very contentedly. He himself had had a fine hunting trip and he was feeling as well-fed and happy as a boy after Christmas dinner.

"So will we when we want berries."

"So will we when we want berries."

Next week will be told how Peggy goes to a circus and finds Lones Bear's relatives.

Hard Varnish

The varnish on some furniture is so hard and smooth that finger marks and solled places may be removed with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm suds made with neutral soap and the finish restored by rubbing with a cloth on which a few drops of light lubricating oil or furniture polish has been sprinkled. In many cases this is a good method to use on the It seemed only a move the hey were interrupted by a knock at the hey were interrupted by a knock at the hey were interrupted by a knock at the ack door.

"That's my little blueberry boy." Miss that's the challoner house."

"The challoner house!" Keith drew away to stare at her.

"Yes, I knew that if we went up there things would go on just as they always have, that we would be drawn into the whirl without being able to help ourselves."

"Barbara, sweetheart, listen fo me a minute, and believe me. I like Katherine Newbery, she is a splendid girl, but I love you! This afternoon Katherine house."
