

FIRST OF THE SEASON. Reedbirds just shot by the hunters who were on hand early yesterday morning at Essington. William Zussy (left) and Edward Kent

TIME FOR LUNCH. The reedbird season of Pennsylvania opened yesterday, bringing out thousands of hunters who have been resting throughout the summer. At Essington reedbirds were plentiful

BOTH TRY FOR SAME BIRD. Two South Philadelphians snapped as they make an effort to bring a reedbird to the ground in the marshes at Essington yesterday. E. Waters (left) and Edward Transul

AN ACTIVE YOUTH. Some a la Tilden speed exhibited by William Jackson, thirteen years old, at Lansdowne, yesterday, caused the defeat of Donovan Cummings

BOWLER-BATTER-WICKET KEEPER. The Frankford cricketers were again in combat with the Incogniti team of England yesterday at the Philadelphia Cricket Club. Squire Dougdale (left) has just tossed a yorker at a British batsman. Rudy Waad did some very good batting for the Frankford team. At the right is R. C. Brooks, the British wicket keeper.

BEATING THE BROOKLYN STRIKE. Six passengers on a motorcycle bus. A line has started since the Brooklyn street car strike opened to carry folks from Brooklyn to New York and return.

DOWN IN LITTLE ITALY. Mrs. Alice Colaluna is giving answers to the many questions as a registrar, yesterday, Charles A. Conessa makes record of them

MAYOR MOORE, WIFE AND SON REGISTER. After instructing Mrs. Moore with the aid of a registration book, the Mayor and his wife they both registered at Third and Cypress streets. Clayton F. Moore, standing next to his mother, followed his parents. The registrars are Joseph A. Munday and Edward Taylor

REGISTER AMID PALMS AND FLOWERS. The registrars sat in a floral shop at 1800 South Seventeenth street. Mrs. Catherine C. Shellem is being registered by H. G. Hullholand

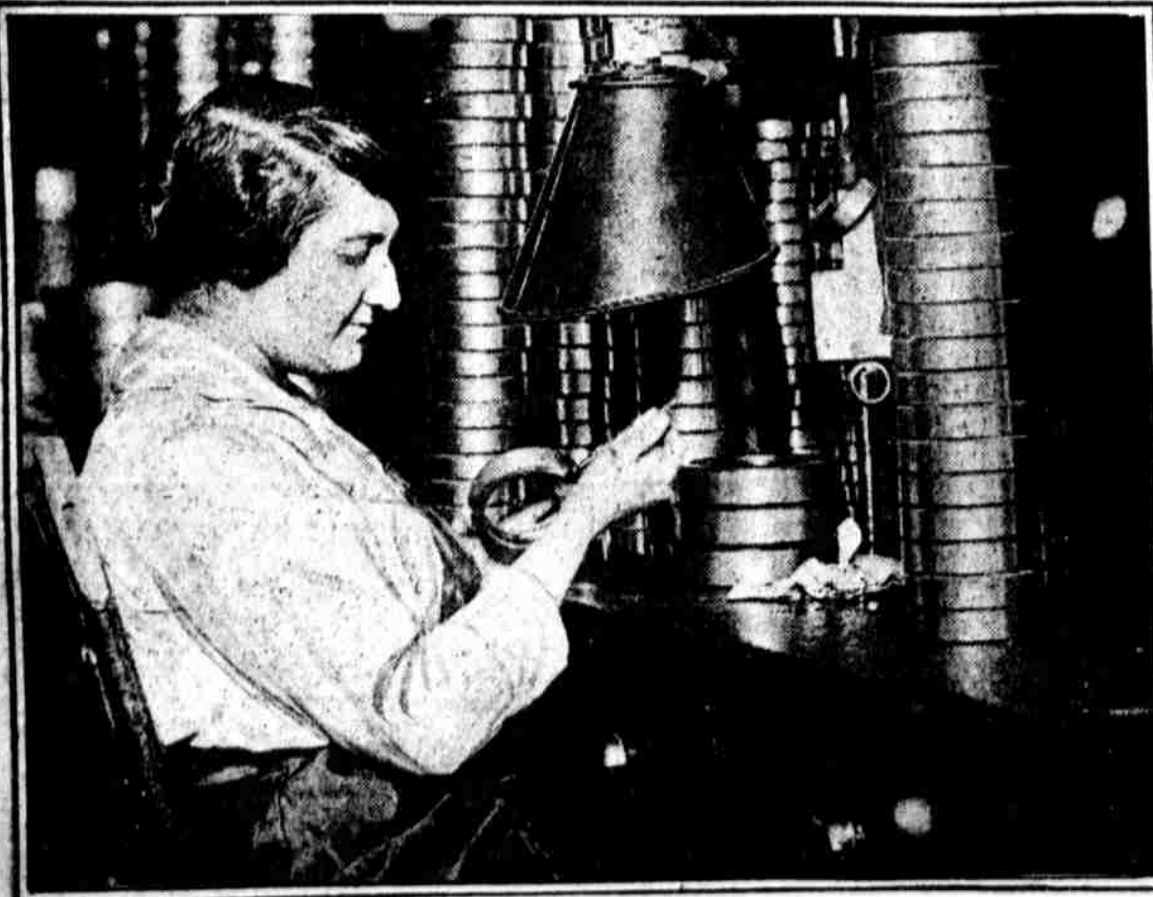

THE REV. H. CRESSON McHENRY discusses the sociological effect of recent legislation in an interview on the editorial page.

NAMED IN WILL. Miss Cynthia Chaloner, one of three sisters, of London, who will share the great estate of the late Admiral Chaloner of the British navy

OUR CITY'S WORKERS AND WHAT THEY DO

INSPECTING BALL BEARING RINGS at the rate of about 2000 a day at the Hess-Bright Co., Front street and Erie avenue. The worker is Miss Edith Risher, of 3220 A street.

THE VAMP. Mary McCalmont, of Philadelphia, depleted a real up-to-date vamp in the Asbury Park baby parade on Tuesday.

OUT FOR A STROLL. Jack O'Brien and A. J. Drexel Biddle, on the Parkway, yesterday afternoon, as they returned from a long hike in Fairmount Park. No need for coats or hats

LOOKING AFTER PENN'S FOOTBALLERS. John Heisman, Penn's football coach, at George School, Newtown

THE BEAUTY CORNER

MISS MARY JOHNSON, 4153 Terrace street, Philadelphia