

LAFAYETTE POST TO HAVE AUXILIARY

Women Relatives of Legion Members Are to Have Own Organization

PREPARE FOR FIELD DAY

Definite plans for the organization of a women's auxiliary, were made last night by Lafayette Post, 204, of the American Legion at a meeting in the Columbia Club, Broad and Oxford streets. The mothers, daughters and sisters of members of the post were invited to join.

This post reported 150 paid-up members. Russell Couwell Cooper, the commander, inspired a campaign to increase it to 300.

"The Lafayette Poster," a leaflet published by this group of world war veterans, informs the membership of the activities of the post. It is edited by R. L. Gano, assisted by F. M. Kiefer, assistant editor; H. G. Matson, advertising manager; and S. A. Massman, business representative.

That the post might be continued on a business basis, Forrest F. Owen, the finance officer, recommended that a definite budget system be adopted; that all dues be paid at the beginning of the calendar year; that permanent quarters be obtained, which shall be open every evening, and that an up-to-date entertainment committee be organized, so that events may be planned which will bring money into the post treasury.

Lafayette Post placed itself strongly behind the Field Day celebration on Franklin Field, September 18.

The officers of this post, in addition to Commander Cooney, are: Donald D. Horton, vice commander; Forrest Flagg Owen, finance officer; Russell C. Eckels, representative in the county committee; Lester A. Moriarty, adjutant; Robert L. Gano, assistant adjutant; S. A. Dickson, chaplain; Charles H. Meyers, historian; Milton Hofffield, employment officer; and A. H. Kirkpatrick, insurance officer.

The executive committee consists of the commander, vice commander, adjutant, finance officer and B. H. Klecht, R. C. Baldwin, C. C. Porter, F. Eakins and J. Stubbs.

Law Tandler, the boxer, was the big attraction announced by Stern-Price Post, No. 417, which drew a throng of veterans to the Continental Club, Eighteenth and Jefferson streets, last night to the smoker, which opened the season for these legions.

Louis Jaffe, of the Evening Public Ledger, arranged the Tandler appearance. He was aided by a committee on arrangements, including Samuel Gordon, chairman; William L. McMillan, Howard I. Stern, Benjamin Cooper and William Chait.

LABOR FIGHT LOOMS IN LEGION MEETING

Bernardsville Veterans Who Ran Train During Outlaw Strike Ask Charter

50,000 MEMBERS REPORTED

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger Atlantic City, Sept. 10.—No what extent, if at all, former service men shall be permitted to intervene in behalf of the public in disputes between employer and employe, threatens to be the paramount issue in the second annual convention of the New Jersey division of the American Legion, which convenes here shortly after noon today.

Franklin D'Olier, of Philadelphia, national commander, who is to address nearly 1000 delegates in the roof garden of the Breakers Hotel, where the business sessions are being held, may be called upon to take a hand in the fight.

"We were good enough for Uncle Sam, why not for the American Legion?" is the slogan of a delegation of ex-service men of Bernardsville, headed by William Clarke, who have come to the convention to ask Jersey legions to overrule the action of their executive officers in refusing them a post charter because they operated a so-called "Legion special" for commuters during the outlaw railroad strike.

The controversy has reached the point where the administration is willing to grant the charter asked for providing the Bernardsville men will pledge themselves as individuals to take no part in future labor troubles.

Legion Offer Refused "We'll never agree to that because it never has been exacted of any other post. We are willing to make a pledge to abide by the constitution of the Legion and we insist more cannot be fairly demanded of us," the insurgents responded.

A printed presentation of their "case" was circulated among the delegates last night and today. It asks whether the American Legion is to be a fraternal organization with patriotic memories and nothing more, or intends to take the same active part in the communities' life when emergencies arise that its members took in the nation's service.

The administration stands firmly upon the ruling of Commander D'Olier that members may do as they please, individually, but they must not, as a post, take any stand as between capital and labor.

Camden county's posts are here in force with a healthy boom for Lieutenant Edward R. West for state commander. Camden post alone is entitled to thirteen votes on the floor. It is probable that Camden county posts in return for pledges of support for their commander candidate will back Trenton's fight to transfer state headquarters from Newark to the capital city and put Charles P. Hutchinson into the office of department adjutant to succeed Thomas Goldingay, of Newark. Goldingay is a candidate for state commander. Hutchinson was a captain of infantry in the war.

Trenton Post Largest in State Trenton points with pride to the fact that its 1200 membership is the greatest of any single post in the state. The New Jersey delegation includes also Blue and Gray and Mitchell Davis Posts with a total of twenty-four delegate votes. Atlantic county is making an active bid for support for Colonel Quincy Gilmore, late of the 112th Field Artillery, in the state commander race and believes he will have a good chance as a compromise between Goldingay, of Newark, and West, of Camden.

There are no frills about the convention. A more robust aggregation of delegates never attended a shore meeting. The fact that he hails from Newark is one of the salient points in the argument of the Camden men that the office should come to South Jersey this year. Preliminary reports place the number of posts in the state at 265 with an aggregate membership of 50,000 of whom about 25,000 are "paid up."

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(By A. P.)—Franklin D'Olier, national commander of the American Legion, is among prominent members of the organization who have arrived for the opening of the state convention today.

Wade H. Hayes, state commander, at a meeting last night, of the state committee, recommended that the committee be abandoned, as its work could be performed by the executive committee. The proposition was tabled, but action is expected to be taken on it by the convention.

STEINWAY PIANOS

Steinways of Today

Steinway is an imperishable name: as familiar to amateur and professional musicians of the Old World as it is to millions of American pianists. It is a name built up by four successive conscience-serving generations of Steinways, whose loyalty to family traditions remained as constant as their fealty to the great Steinway clientage—prime incentives for producing the most remarkable musical instruments the world has ever known. Eight members of the Steinway family are now engaged in this eminent art work, and their interests are so closely related to yours that you should have our book, "Steinways of Today," which will be sent on request.

Our present showing of Steinways is unusually fine. To see and hear them is to keep abreast of the musical times.

Steinway pianos may be bought on monthly payments
