NORRISTOWN

THOUGH I have been hearing all through the summer of various preparations for Susan Groome's wedding, it was not until yesterday when I C. Perry, of Elkins Park McDowell road, Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Perry, of Elkins Park met a whole party of people starting down to Virginia, I realized that today would see Susan Mrs. Bob Toland. I do hope it will be clear down there,

I do hope it will be clear down there, and cool, too. The Groome's place is perfectly beautiful and the wedding will be as picturesque as can be. Nancy Dunning who is a great friend of Susan's will be her maid of honor, and Mary Ernestine Appleton who came out up here last year, but who lives in Warup here last year, but who lives in War-renton as does Susan or rather I will have to say did after this, for the newly wedded pair will live up here. Bob Toland is a Philadelphian, you

Bob Toland is a Philadelphian, you know, and most of Susan's relatives, both on the Groome and Wright sides of her family, are Philadelphians.

The other girls from here besides Nancy Dunning who are to be in the bridal party are Betty Welsh, Lorraine Diston and Atlee Downs. Betty and Lorraine came out last year, and Atlee Downs. orraine came out last year, and Atlee is a debutante of this season, which is already upon us.

REALLY it's wonderful to see how M many people are coming home. Almost every time I go up the street I meet someone else, who has been in the North or West or some other distant

And speaking of returning to town, I hear Miss Esther Lloyd is on her way back to Devon, after several months on a ranch in Wyoming. You remember she did such splendid work over in France during the war. In fact, she

MALKING of the Lloyd family re-I minds me—you may not get me at ence, but have patience you WILL get it—a friend of mine told me the other day that while he was in Venice in the late spring, there was a great flurry of excitement over the fact that D'An-nunzio's house was being made ready for Gossip and rumor ran rather wild, of problem was nearing some solution— and then—who should come along but the stunning looking Mrs. Francis Mawr. Lloyd. Mary Lowell. of Boston, she was before her marriage to Frank Lloyd. Mrs.

of this city. borders the Grand Canal, where Mrs. Lloyd and her young son may often be seen in the cool of the day. She is certainly a wonderfully good looking woman. Very artistic in looks and clothes as well as temperament. I had wondered where she was, I had not seen her for more than a year. She had the house before and it is is a sister of Jim Lowell, who married Miss Churchman, of this city,

OH! I almost forgot to tell you I Usaw Emley Cook Wright on Chest-nut street the other day. She and Witney have been up in Bar Harbor visiting the Wrights after they left the Springs, where they went on their wedding trip. I thought Emley was looking very well. She had one of those Tuxedo sports suits in a very good-looking shade of tan, and her hat was large. Emley always wears large hats spent the Mr. and rightly so, for they are very becoming. The beauty of this hat was its peculiar shade of red, it was sort of peculiar shade of red, it was sort of their day.

IVI Frankie, and while she is very of him and pleased to death to him, she is also very fond of er. Which may lead you to ask what that has to do with it, why shouldn't she love both? Well, you see, Mr. Baby began to cry very ong and very loud and very strong the other day, and after he continued said exercise for half an hour for no apparent reason, mother became slightly bored. She'd had a busy day, the nurse was out and the three tots though good, had to be watched most of the time. With the slight boredom came an impatient "Oh, dear! I wish that baby would stop crying." She turned to see to something else as she spoke and did not realize that as sudden gasping did stop very soon. In fact, a sudden gasping gurgle from the baby made her rush into the next room to his crib. There stood Mary, holding her fat little fist over the tiny mouth. She smiled up into her fright ened mother's face and said: mother, he's stopped now!"

What Republicans Offer In Place of the League

Senator Harding's mention of putting "teeth" in his proposed reconstructed Hague Tribunal evokes only jeers from the Democratic friends of the League of Nations. "Political dentists," observes the New York World (Dem.), "will tell him that without a League only false teeth are possible now," and the Richmond Journal's (Dem.) title for an editorial on the subject is "Harding's False-Teeth Proposal." On the other hand, prominent Republican newspapers are enthusiastic over the Republican candidate's plan, the New York Tribune declaring that while the Harding program "promises ho millennium, it is definite and affirmative, whereas the Cox program is vague and negative." So that the public may more fully understand just what is offered by both parties, THE LITERARY DIGEST in its issue of September 11 publishes an enlightening article, drawn from editorial statements by American newspapers, comprehensive, unbiased, and deeply interesting. Read it and you will be able to vote more intelligently at the coming election.
