

Evening Public Ledger

PUBLIC LEDGER COMPANY
CYRUS H. KURTZ, President
Charles H. Lohman, Vice President
John C. Martin, Secretary and Treasurer
Philip B. Collins, John H. Williams, J. J. Gorman, Directors
EDITORIAL BOARD:
CYRUS H. KURTZ, Chairman
DAVID E. SMILEY, Editor
JOHN C. MARTIN, General Business Manager

Published daily at Public Ledger Building
Independence Square, Philadelphia
Subscription Terms:
The Evening Public Ledger is served to subscribers in Philadelphia and surrounding towns at the rate of twelve cents per week, payable to the carrier.

Member of the Associated Press
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it in this paper, and also the local news published therein.

A DIFFERENCE
If you drive a motorcar with an open cut-out or if, driving an automobile mated, you sound a danger signal too insistently, you will be summoned by the police and fined.

PARKS THAT PLEASE
The various city "squares" and open spaces under the control of the Fairmount Park Commission have, in the main, been taken care of admirably that the Mayor's program for curbing this jurisdiction is somewhat surprising.

A SHEEP IN WOLF'S GUISE
WE MAY be said to be getting into the last lap of the national campaign. Mr. Harding has been accused of going too cautiously amid the new and stupendous issues created by the war and the war's aftermath.

MUSIC AT ITS BEST
WHAT the artistic enterprise of the Philadelphia Orchestra is fully consonant with its present gratifying financial vigor is indicated by the ambitious and interesting program outlined for the new season.

A WASTEFUL MOTOR RULE
FROM the extreme of allowing motorists to do pretty much as they pleased, the police now seem in danger of going to the opposite extreme of enforcing new rules and regulations in such an obnoxious manner that the use of motorcars in the city may soon be intolerably discouraged.

MILITANCY REVIVED
VOTES have been achieved by women, yet it appears that the militants who march under the banner of Miss Alice Paul and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont still feel that they must be tireless and sleepless in a holy fight for further guarantees of equal rights.

PUTTING RESPONSIBILITY WHERE IT REALLY BELONGS
The adoption of the Home Rule Amendment to the Constitution Will Stop the Practice of Passing the Buck to Harrisburg

THE OLYMPIANS KICK
IT IS idle to deny that the showing made by Americans in the Olympic games was in some ways disappointing.

major productions of the season will be the Beethoven ninth symphony, the Brahms requiem and the Mahler second symphony, all entailing the services of a chorus.

PUTTING RESPONSIBILITY WHERE IT REALLY BELONGS
The adoption of the Home Rule Amendment to the Constitution Will Stop the Practice of Passing the Buck to Harrisburg

CYRUS E. WOODS, secretary of the commonwealth, in obedience to the command of the constitution, is publishing in every county the text of six proposed amendments to that document adopted by the general assembly at its last session.

Section 1. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 2. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 3. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 4. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 5. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 6. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 7. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 8. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 9. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

the cities. It is in line with the best thought on municipal government, which is based on the assumption that people in the cities are just as good as people in the country and can be trusted to manage their own affairs without undue interference.

MILITANCY REVIVED
VOTES have been achieved by women, yet it appears that the militants who march under the banner of Miss Alice Paul and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont still feel that they must be tireless and sleepless in a holy fight for further guarantees of equal rights.

PUTTING RESPONSIBILITY WHERE IT REALLY BELONGS
The adoption of the Home Rule Amendment to the Constitution Will Stop the Practice of Passing the Buck to Harrisburg

CYRUS E. WOODS, secretary of the commonwealth, in obedience to the command of the constitution, is publishing in every county the text of six proposed amendments to that document adopted by the general assembly at its last session.

Section 1. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 2. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 3. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 4. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 5. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 6. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 7. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

Section 8. Cities may be chartered whenever a majority of the electors of any town or borough having a population of at least ten thousand shall by vote at any general or municipal election in favor of the same.

DON'T NEED PLUMB PLAN
Expert Tells How Employes May Own Railroads Without Governmental Disturbance

Eminent economists have from time to time suggested many plans for the elimination of differences between capital and labor by many employers' activities, but by sentiments not perhaps wholly altruistic, for contented workmen mean more efficient workmen, have tried them out.

Approaching the matter from a slightly different angle, President Mitten, of the P. R., urged employes to start a saving fund, which would give the employes an accumulated fund of millions.

Both a distinct bearing on the suggestion made by the writer in the current issue of the Railway Age, and a wage problem solves itself when the wage-earner becomes also a wage-payer is a delightfully simple economic pronouncement which has never been pressed more convincingly than in the article here appended.

WHY do not the railway employes buy the railroads of the United States? asks the Railway Age. The propaganda for the Plumb railroad plan, which is but a part of the Bolshevistic crusade for the destruction of "capitalism" and the establishment of the political and economic rule of the proletariat, is that the employes of railroads, coal mines and other industries really believe that those who own them derive immense profits from exploiting their employees, who do not share in the profits.

THE total par value of railroad stocks outstanding in the hands of the public on December 31, 1917, as reported by the Interstate Commerce Commission, was $6,383,000,000. The saving by the railway employes of the recent advance in their wages would give them $225,000,000 in cash, which they could use to buy a portion of the stock.

IF THE co-operative organization which we did not suggest the employes might form to pool their investments in the stocks of all the railroads simultaneously, it could acquire first one railway and then another. The combined outstanding stocks of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Erie, the East, and the Atchafalaya, the St. Louis and the Union Pacific in the West amount to less than $1,417,000,000.

THE financial power of the employes of the railroads would be enormous if they would save and invest their incomes. They would not have to pay for the stock, but they would have to pay for the interest on the stock. The same thing could be done for all other lines of industry.

NEVER was there a time in the history of the United States when the wages of railway employes and other workers were so large in proportion to the prices of railway and other securities as they are now. Never, therefore, were conditions so favorable for the workers to acquire financial control of the industry as they are today.

THE two soldiers who were assigned to guard Grover Bergdoll were swiftly acquitted at a court-martial. That is as it ought to be. It is not fair to punish men who were subjected to punishment while the people who jobbed them escaped.

CONSIDERING the prospects, it doesn't seem to me a bad deal of difference how Governor Cox answers those three questions concerning what he would do as President.

IN the political movie, as in any other, correct registration is indispensable. To know's another day.

NOW, MY IDEA IS THIS!

Daily Talks With Thinking Philadelphians on Subjects They Know Best

MATTHEW C. BRUSH

COURAGE, willingness to shoulder responsibility and a feeling of confidence in himself are the prime qualities for a successful leadership as seen by Matthew C. Brush, president of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, which made such a wonderful record at Hog Island during the war.

THE greatest single requisite, in my opinion, for a man to be a leader, declared Mr. Brush, "is the willingness on his part to take responsibility and to have confidence in his judgment. He must, above all things, be able to handle men successfully, and to do this he must have the power and faculty of compelling their confidence in him."

Successful leadership consists today in perfect teamwork, and the most successful leader is he who can, around himself with an organization where there is, between himself and his associates, a perfect exchange of ideas, comments and suggestions, with the ability on his part of listening free and frank discussion or criticism by the members of his team and then arriving at a decision which the entire team will undertake to carry to a successful issue.

Must Know What to Do
He must have for his team men who are big enough, strong enough, loyal enough, big enough and earnest enough to tackle their problems with the ultimate good of the team as a whole as their goal.

Leadership today in any large institution requires intense application, complete control of one's feelings, the power of analysis of individuals and, above all, the power to make the members of his team feel at such ease and feel in such a way toward him that they are thoroughly comfortable and frank in their discussion of problems with which they are confronted.

Answers to Saturday's Quiz
1. In the expression "case-hardened" meaning impervious to all sense of honor and shame, the allusion is to iron toughness in contact with charcoal in a case-hardened box. This is done by heat.

Develop Resourcefulness
"A member of the team can give intimate, close, cordial, even friendly relations with the leader and still not break down any attitude of respect or courtesy. The leader holds it entirely within his power to compel such an association by his polite, affable and courteous and in the choice of his men."

"LEMME LISTEN!"

SHORT CUTS

"Ouch!" said Camden hooch.

What has become of the third party?

The next step will be to take the magistrates out of politics.

True to type, the liquor sellers continue to work for their own annihilation.

What Italy needs geographically and economically is a return to normalcy.

No politician, apparently, ever bites off more than he can chew the rag about.

The Bergdoll guards having been acquitted, search should be made for the man higher up.

The red flags Italian revolutionaries are flying have not the patriotic significance of the red shirts of Garibaldi.

The denunciation of General Barnett seems to suggest that woman didn't need the vote to get into politics.

Reports from the South give cheerful indication that the eighteenth amendment has not affected the cotton gin.

What the prohibition enforcement fishermen ought to do is to lay off the minnows and bait for the whales.

The Crank appears to have demonstrated that a good liar can always keep one lap ahead of the Third Degree.

The young woman who quizzed the chief justice on the street in Washington was evidently a believer in direct action.

It seems a sad waste of money to go to Paris to excite oneself to death when one can be run down by an automobile at home.

What Governor Cox appears to have demonstrated is that there are thousands of Republicans willing to help their candidate win.

Woman vote or no woman vote, woman's first hunt in the newspaper will continue to be not the political page but the department store ad.

If Doctor Foster wanted to go to Gloucester nowadays, he would be an advocate of a bridge, for the Delaware is too deep a puddle to get out of.

Somewhat or other we are not in a position to put ourselves on the back of helping France by snapping up her bonds. Eight per cent is a high rate of interest to charge a friend.

A New York judge has announced that henceforth all convicted hold-up men will be given the maximum sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary. A similar announcement in Philadelphia might lessen the evil here.

The greatest enemy to the republic is class consciousness. The disease is not yet epidemic. Labor shows alarming symptoms. There are unfortunately a large number of sporadic cases apart from labor. The remedy is clean living and plain thinking. Or plain living and clean thinking.

What particular reason is there for supposing that now the women have the vote, they will demand of the Legislature a law making obligatory the payment of a substantial poll tax? Of course, it is conceivable that they might be intrigued (lovely word!) by a $4.98 poll tax marked down from $5.

The Interstate Commerce Commission today begins an investigation of New York's Public Service Commission's refusal to allow railroads to increase intrastate rates to place them on a parity with interstate rates. New York will probably learn as Texas learned in a similar case, and as the whole country learned in the discussion of the eighteenth amendment, that the old idea of state rights is as dead as a doornail. A state has no rights that run counter to the will of the nation at large.

Chesapeake Bay fishermen, says a Washington dispatch, are making the biggest haul on record, being aided thereby by airplanes that spot the fish and communicate to the fishing fleets by radio. Presumably the government is taking wise cognizance of the tons of bunkers, alewives or menhaden and other fish being used as fertilizer; has investigated rumors that food fish are thrown back in the sea, dead, as is not to affect the market, and is satisfied that there is no danger of future famine because of present record hauls.

What Do You Know?
1. What is the literal meaning of piano-forte?

2. Who was Molly Pitcher in American history?

3. When did the great strike in the steel plants of Homestead, Pa., occur?

4. What city was the birthplace of St. Paul?

5. What is the word for a word missing in the common expression "A miss is as good as a mile"?

6. What was the name of the royal house of Great Britain?

7. Who wrote the novel "The Man Who Sings"?

8. How many persons survived the terrible eruption of Mount Pelee at St. Pierre, forty years ago?

9. Who was "Claude Lorraine"?

10. What is the origin of the melody of "Home, Sweet Home"?

Answers to Saturday's Quiz
1. In the expression "case-hardened" meaning impervious to all sense of honor and shame, the allusion is to iron toughness in contact with charcoal in a case-hardened box. This is done by heat.

2. The constitution of the United States, in the first article, regarding the size, shall have equal representation in the Senate, in order to relieve the result in political domination by the larger states.

3. The first American sewing machine, was invented by Elias Howe in 1846.

4. Henry VIII of England married six times.

5. In the first Balkan war, the Bulgarians were ranged against Serbia, Greece and Rumania.

6. The classic version of the "Cinderella" story, written by Perrault, the heroine was of the name "Cendrillon."

7. The first American sewing machine, was invented by Elias Howe in 1846.

8. La Salle was the first white man to explore the Mississippi from its upper reaches to its mouth. He arrived at the Gulf of Mexico in 1682.

9. South Carolina was the first southern state to secede from the Union.

10. The original meaning of the word "epitaph" is such as worn by French peasants.