PHILLIES WHITEWASH CINCINNATI OUT OF PENNANT PICTURE, AND NOW DODGERS HOLD SPOTGLARE

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

THE Cincinnati Reds stepped out of the pennant picture yesterday, with the case and grace of a gent taking the high dive into a pile of bricks. They proved con clusively that they cared nothing about world's series and things like that, and allowed themselves to explode with a loud and lusty bang. Just because our Phils copped the ball game by a margin which might be called comfortable does not mean that Cincinnati has hit the toboggan. It was HOW the Phils put it over that we are sprinkling the red flowers.

In order to get the proper slant, take a look at the score registered by the homefolks:

6 3 2 3 2 0 3 2 x-Total 21.

It looks like Chick Evans's card for the first nine holes of the match with Ouimet. Gavry Cravath's sluggers were eleven up and one to play when Charley Rigler, the well-known ump, blew the whistle.

The Reds started out to show how baseball should not be played in the fast set when, in the very first inning. slobbered around and messed up everything for five good, healthy, sincere and unquestionable errors. Fumbles, wild pegs, dropped balls and other crimes of the diamond were perpetrated with reckless abandon and even old Jake Daubert, one of the steadlest players on the team, was

This is a record for one inning's play, so Cincinnati did not fare so badly. If nothing else, they got them-selves talked about. They also permitted the Phils to score twenty-one runs, which looks like another record for

At that, the Phils did not have easy sledding. In the third inning the Reds started after Enzmann and walloped his offerings all over the place. LeBourveau got the habit and fumbled a couple and soon two runs came in and the bases were filled with one out. It looked bad for us, but George Smith, who was inserted to save the day, threw out a man at the plate and fanned another.

*TRISH MEUSEL fooled Sam Crane and prevented some trouble in that inning when he made a bluff to catch Wingo's line drive. Sam stuck on second base until the ball crashed against the fence and quick fielding held him on third.

Reds in Back Row of Chorus

JUDGING from yesterday's game, Cincinnati has folded up, grabbed a spear and retired to the back row of the chorus. No longer can the club be considered a mnant possibility until next year. Although Brooklyn and New York lost, that walloping will long be re-

Last Saturday the Reds were in the race, but dropped pair to Boston while the Dodgers were taking two from St. Louis. Brooklyn won again on Sunday and Monday. and in three days jumped out with a five-game lead. That's rapid work and shows how uncertain the game is. The entire complexion of the race was changed in five days and now the Dodgers can't help winning.

Cincinnati made a gallant fight for the flag, but injuries kept them down. They were in and out of first place a dozen times, never being able to put on a conaistent winning streak. Then came injuries. Kopf burt his hand and went on the side lines. Rath suffered a sprained leg and Daubert was in poor shape.

Then the pitchers went flooie. Hod Eller, minus the shine ball, was not effective, Dutch Reuther hasn't won a ball game since July 25, Rube Bressler broke his leg and others broke training. Slim Sallee was canned, Luque hurt his arm, and the work fell on the shoulders of > ARRY KOPF hurt his hand again yesterday and Le was out of the line-up, and Heinie Grok was confined to his bed with an attack of indigestion. This just ruined the defense of the club and, if they are out of the game much longer, the Reds will have a tough time holding third place.

Pennant Contenders but Yanks Walloped

YESTERDAY was a bad day for pennant aspirants.

Every one got trimmed by big scores with the exception of the Yankees. They scored an easy victory over Detroit and went into first place. Cleveland lost to the Athletics

The Chicago White Sox apparently have washed up for the season. They can't win ball games and yesterday allowed themselves to be shut out by Washington. Acosta, one of Griff's Cubanola discoveries, turned the trick.

Strange how the Sox flopped in the last week. On paper the club looks stronger than any of the others, but pennants can not be won on paper. Sluggers like Jackson, Felsch, Eddie Collins, Weaver and John Collins, and pitchers like Clcotte. Williams and Faber, to say nothing of a catcher like Ray Schalk, should keep a ball club out in front, but for some reason or other, it isn't

The Yankees are winning consistently, but have a hard row to hoe. They must collide with the Sox soon and that series will be watched closely. If the Chicago gang keeps on playing according to present form, it will be a cinch for New York. But there still is a chance for the pennant and a better one for second place money, so the games will be hard fought.

CLEVELAND also has a series with the White Soz. but the majority of games are with St. Louis and Detroit, which gives them a slight edge. Also they have more games to play than the Yanks.

Casey Stengel in Form

CASEY STENGEL was in rare form yesterday. While standing in the catcher's box at first base, he said to Jake Daubert in the first inning:

'It's a good thing we had speedy men on base today. or there would have been trouble. Guys like Hubbell and Rixey never would have been able to dodge those wild throws while running around the bases. Shortly after this, Jimmy Ring took himself out of the game and a new man went in.

"Hey, Casey!" yelled a fan. "Who'se pitching?"
"The pitcher," replied Casey promptly and the fan

Sam Crane fumbled a grounder and Stengel waited until Charley Moran came back to first bas. "That guy Crane is one of the best football players I saw." he said. "Better sign him up for Center
