IN PHILADELPHIA, virtually every individual interested in lawn tennis and every organization supporting and ostering the game are doing it to popularise the sport. The element of comercialism has never yet made its apcarance in this vicinity and it is to be ped it never will.

Big matches and big tournaments ont money. Consequently admission has must be charged, but a close-up of the financial workings of tennis meetings reveals the fact that no profit is ntemplated in the plans and usually ere is a deficit. Last week at the ermantown Cricket Club the expenses of the East-West matches could have been paid easily by charging more and having fewer spectators, making much less work for all concerned. But those in charge had different ideas. They wanted every person in the city, who possibly could get away, to see Tilden, Johnston, Williams, Garland, Wallace F. Johnson and the other stars in action. Consequently they lowered the fees and put up more stands, They were rewarded by having the biggest last Saturday that ever saw a

Semifinals Today

The field in the women's singles, women's doubles and mixed doubles was narrowed down to the semifinals yesterday. The schedule for today was to have the doubles this morning, the singles early this afternoon and the mixed doubles later.

Naturally, interest centers in the sin-gles. Miss Helene Pollak, of New York, is booked to meet Mrs. Mallory and Miss Goss and Miss Zinderstein play. Miss Goss and Miss Zinderstein play.
Miss Pollak got into the semifinals by trimming Miss Edith Sigourney, of Boston. Miss Zinderstein eliminated her left-handed clubmate, Miss Leslie Bancroft, of Longwood. Miss Goss took Mrs. Nat Niles over the hurdles and Mrs. Mallory compelled Miss Eleanor Tennant, of California, to take the count.

The battle between Mrs. Mallory and Miss Tennant occupied the center ring of the tennis circle. The match was played at noon with the sun pouring down its blistering rays, but that did not prevent the pair from putting forth every ounce of energy they had.

He thought he had his ideal in Frank Johnson. but the southerner did not stick around. Johnson's departure caused a big hole in not only the defensive strength but the offensive strength as well.

The battle power of the Athletics is delivered by Til Walker, Joe Dugan and Cyrus Perkins. Occasionally a rookie will come through. Charley High caused Cornelius to smile a bit yesterday when he approached Babe Ruth's home-run record at this park with a smash over the right-field fence.

Mrs. Mallory will meet in the final round and it is the wish of every one who is in close touch with the tournament to have as many at that contest as possible.

Stands have been erected and plans made to handle hundreds more by seating them in chairs at two ends of the court and also by arranging the seats

BAT NELSON STILL IN RING, BUT AS EXHIBITIONIST ONLY

One-Time Champion and Durable Dane Is in Philadelphia To Appear at West Manayunk

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

BATTLING NELSON, whose other will Johnny Moleney vs. Danny Buck and

tion in Lowly Macks

St. Louis. Sept. 17.—Playing his string to the limit against the Cleveland Indians by winning one out of three games and in one defeat losing, 3 to 2, Connie Mack hopes to stop the White Sox at least once in closing his western journey for 1920.

The Macks will not play favorites in this sizaling American League penand exhibitionist.

Nelson's new-model features have been rather conspicuous at all the boxing shows around here recently. He sat through the opening show at Cam-den and also was among those there at the Ice Palace. Oscar Mathew Bat-tling has been appearing at the different vaudeville houses in town, and also is planning to "knock 'em off their seats" in an exhibition bout or two before he in an exhibition bout or two before he leaves for other pastures.

On Tuesday night at West Manayunk Nelson will be included on the program in the feature of which Eddie Mc-Andrews meets Frank Loughrey in a twenty-round bout. In addition to giving a monologue, the battler may go on in an exhibition with Tom Loughrey, retired welterweight, and he also will referee in one of the bouts.

referee in one of the bouts. Nelson believes in "A man may be out, but he is never down."

Lew Tendler and his manager, Phil Glassman, left early this morning for Boston, from where they will go to Lawrence, Mass. Lew has a date there tomorrow afternoon to meet Frankle Callahan in a ten-round ne decision bout. This match, originally scheduled for Labor Day, was postponed when the new boxing law was passed in Massachusetts. Clem Goodman, local sportsman, also took the trip with Tendler.

Boxing in New York under the new Walker law will get under way tonight when Johnny Dundee and Joe Weilling meet in a fiftren-round bout to a referee's decision. An effort had been made to have Lew Tendler box Dundee, but Tex Rickard and Phil Glass-man were unable to come to a financial agreement.

Pep O'Brien said today that the list of boxers cheduled to appear at the reopening of the National tomorrow night is lined up and in good shape for their respective bouts. Frankie Maguire vs. Jack Clark, a middle-weight encounter, is to be the headliner. Other bouts: Jack Brazzo vs. Johnny Mealy. Dave Astey vs. Marty Kane, Tommy Jamison vs. Young Tom Sharkey and Billy Lyte vs. Johnny O'Neil.

Josey against the best of the featherweight crop.

An all-negre program, arranged by Buddle Paimer, will be held at Madison Park next Thursday night. Preston Brown vs. Johnsy Griffiths will be the main mix, with other bouts: Silent Puryear ys. Bud Anderson, Duke Avery vs. Johnny Morton, Harry Smith vs. Kid Butler and Young Sam Langford vs. Jerry Hayes.

Charley Ray is to take on Little Jeft in one of the Philadeinhia vs. Baltimore bouts at the National September 26. On October 1 Ray will box in Baltimore.
