

THE GREAT BOMB BLAST
GLUE IN CIRCULARS

Find Radical Literature Signed
"American Anarchistic Fighters" in Mail Box

THREATS OF DEATH MADE

New York, Sept. 18.—Receipt by Department of Justice agents last night of five radical circulars, signed "American Anarchistic Fighters," which were found in a mailbox at Cedar street and Broadway at 11:58 a. m. Thursday.

The circulars were found in a mailbox at Cedar street and Broadway at 11:58 a. m. Thursday. The circulars were found in a mailbox at Cedar street and Broadway at 11:58 a. m. Thursday.

"I am not sure that I will not tolerate any longer. Free the political prisoners or it will be sure death for all of you."

"AMERICAN ANARCHIST FIGHTERS."

"Discovery of the circulars," Chief Flynn said, "was the plan of the bombers fairly clear."

"They left the wagon with a horse attached in Wall street, having as the timing device a clock mechanism."

"There is no doubt at all in my mind that this is about what happened. The fact that the box was empty when the letter carrier called at 11:30 and that the circulars were in it at 11:58 so close to the time of the explosion, and so close to the scene of it, carries conviction."

"This is one of the most important clues we have, but of course, the identification of the horse and wagon that carried the infernal machine to Wall street is paramount. I can identify that we should have clear sailing."

"No clock work has been found—and it shouldn't be expected that any would be left. No metal parts were found in the debris left by the bombs on June 2, 1919."

"The printing indicates that the work was done hurriedly by two different men, each using single rubber stamps. In two several words are spelled exactly the same way and in the other three other mistakes in spelling prevail throughout. That is, there are two sets of circulars—two in one set and three in another."

"In one set the following words are misspelled as follows: 'Remember,' 'prisoners' for 'prisoners.' In the other set, 'remember' is misspelled as 'rememner' and 'fighters' is 'fighiter.'"

"Eight separate investigations of the explosion were under way last night. They were being made by the Department of Justice, under the supervision of Attorney General Clegg, and Chief Inspector Lacey, the Fire Department, the Building Department, the September grand jury, the medical examiner's office and two private agencies by insurance companies and J. P. Morgan & Co."

Every livery stable in the city is being canvassed to determine whether a horse and truck are missing. Examination of the horse has disclosed that it had been newly clipped and shod. This and a mark on the horse's shoes furnish the only clues to its identity."

HUGHES FORESEES
VICTORY FOR G. P.

Tells New Jersey Republicans
Maine Vote Indicates
Country's Verdict

ASSAULTS ADMINISTRATION

Trenton, Sept. 18.—Charles E. Hughes in a speech before the Republican campaign in New Jersey at a state rally here today, said that Maine, with an unmistakable emphasis, voted to the credit of the country, that the people demand a change and with fresh courage "we shall resume the path of well-ordered government, of prosperity and progress."

"The great mistake," said Mr. Hughes, "is the great mistake, the only time when administration is brought to an accounting. We are not a censorious people, but levity in passing judgment upon officers of the government and political parties will become a democracy. The best surety of the future is not in the promise of platforms, but in the certainty of rebuke for misadministration and in the checking of harmful tendencies by the displacement of those responsible for them and the refusal to invest with power those who would continue or condone them. We endeavor to appreciate accurately the mischief, not simply to be critical but to point the remedy and the future course."

Winning of the War
Reviewing the administration of the war, Mr. Hughes said: "Never in our history has a political party so completely subordinated all partisan differences to the support of the administration, and further on he declared: 'Discipline, consistent with the Republican leaders, insistent in their demand for speed and efficiency in military effort, who in largest measure furnished the power behind an administration which has long had faithfully cherished a false security and too long had been benumbed by inactivity and indifference to the vindication of American rights.'"

Warning Given August 31
This warning was given about August 31 according to Allen at the time of the "all-cities" tournament, where Fischer frequently was called upon to officiate in various capacities.

Allen said he paid no attention to Fischer, who Allen declared had a reputation for volatility.

J. R. de la Torre Bueno, of White Plains, said today that he had attended Columbia University with Fischer in 1917.

Two weeks ago, on a Manhattan train, Bueno said, a man who introduced himself as "his old college chum, Fischer," talked of a social revolution, and told him he was employed by the French High Commission as an interpreter. Fischer said there would soon be uprisings in New York and elsewhere, Bueno said. He described Fischer as "a plain nut."

A letter sent by Fischer to Lieutenant Auguste, the French High Commission, which was being prepared and read as follows: "THE QUEENS, My address may be obtained at my N. Y. address, 23 W. 92d St., Riverside 2688, Sept. 13, '20."

Dear Mr. Arnold,
Greetings,
I think I am doing good work in making the people know France and in planting in them a strong blessing on the desire to know and millions get her square dealt.

There is a rumor that something is going to happen after 2:30 p. m. around 10 o'clock in the Wall street district. The Mission close at 2 p. m. on that day and everybody go home. It may be all bull, but the world is a great place. Know and millions get her square dealt.

'STAND PAT' POLICY FOR UNION TRACTION

Stockholders Express Opinion That P. R. T. Contract Must Be Lived Up To

REDUCTION PLEA REJECTED

A revised report that the Union Traction Co. would compromise with the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. on the question of rentals was denied today by some of the stockholders of the former concern, who declared they would stand by the statement made by J. J. Sullivan, counsel for the Union Co.

Mr. Sullivan said he had nothing to add to his statement made at the last meeting of the Union Co., when he announced that the Union Traction Co. would not agree to a reduction in rentals.

Among the stockholders of the Union Traction Co. who expressed their views on the situation was Dr. Louis Britton, 1832 North Eighth street, who pointed out that the cost would be prohibitive despite the advantage of being able to turn the lights on and off from a central station, with electric lighters, similar to those used in dwellings, but which are not so expensive.

"I do not see how this waste could be remedied unless we increase the number of gas-lighters, and that simply means an increase in wages paid out, which would probably more than counterbalance the saving in gas."

The possibility of an installation throughout the city of electric gas-lighters, similar to those used in dwellings, but which are not so expensive, was pointed out by an electrical expert, who pointed out that the cost would be prohibitive despite the advantage of being able to turn the lights on and off from a central station, with electric lighters, similar to those used in dwellings, but which are not so expensive.

It was also noted that in event of the failure of one of the electrical igniting devices, the turning on of the gas at the central station would result in the gas pouring out unaltered into the atmosphere where the device had failed, and possibly causing a serious calamity.

And so the gas goes to waste—and it represents 2 1/2 per cent of the estimated operating loss on the Philadelphia gas works of the U. G. I. for 1920.

It became known at City Hall today that Mayor Moore does not contemplate offering an ordinance to provide for a city gas metering system.

The Mayor feels, it is said, that he transferred any responsibility there might be in the matter to Council, when he sent them the recent letter written by President Bodine.

Richard Weiglin, president of Council, said the gas metering system would be considered after the completion of the new ordinance introduced, or that now being introduced, on transportation and public utilities may be amended. This is an ordinance introduced early in the summer by Councilman Madelin, creating a board of experts to make recommendations to Council with regard to retaining permanently the British thermal unit system.

Harding Warns Against "Hyphens"

stand firm against this dangerous and destructive and un-American policy. Meddling is not only dangerous to men, it leads us into the entanglements of a foreign policy which we have no business to have. The American divided in her own household and tends to drift into groups, seeking life in the arms of a foreign power, men and women whose hearts are led away from America first to hyphen first.

For Americans who love America I sound a warning that beyond possibility that the day might come when we may God forbid it—when an organized hyphenated vote in American politics might have the balance of power to elect our government of voting power there, America would be delivered out of the hands of her citizenship and her control might be transferred to a foreign capital abroad.

Not Blind to Humanity
"Let us all remember, however, that America first does not mean that America which we all love and under which we must always remain a people united in the best interests to the welfare of humanity through the world or deaf to the call of world civilization. But our ability to bring out the best in our organization for leadership in the future secure at home and mighty in our citizenship, therein lies strength; therein is the source of helpful example."

"With an interest in a common good, we must always have a common conviction, always urge, that America shall give to her citizens the benefits of social justice and the conservation of our resources which a humane democracy owes to citizenship. Our standards of living are the highest. I insist that American conscience recognize the duty of protecting our national health. I insist that it protect American childhood and the American home."

"Above all, we must give our attention to the child. In the child we see the future of America. We must insist upon an American conscience acting at once to raise our health standards, especially as they bear upon the welfare of American childhood. There can be no defense for working conditions which rob the American child of his rights."

G. O. P. CONFIDENT OF INDIANA VICTORY

Desire for Change of Administration Expected to Swing Doubtful State into Line

INTELLECTUALS FAVOR COX

By CLINTON W. GILBERT
Staff Correspondent Evening Public Ledger
Copyright, 1920, by Public Ledger Co.
Indianapolis, Sept. 18.—"Everybody that I know intimately, all my circle of friends," said a well-known writer here, "is going to vote for Cox. Most of them are Independent Republicans."

He was illustrating the standing of the old-fashioned independent voter toward the Democratic candidate. The college professors, the ministers, the intellectuals, the writers, the Journalists mostly support the League of Nations.

These are the men who usually point the way in an election, and if it were not for the foreign vote there would be nothing to it but Cox." He was not quite accurate.

It is not merely the foreign vote that has removed him and his intellectual friends from their old place of leadership in the election. It is the political realignment of the war.

The situation here is extraordinary. The state is full of Roosevelt Republicans who supported General Wood for these progressive, but not in the part the Republican senators from Indiana played at Chicago in preventing the nomination of Wood. Cox's charge of a Senate oligarchy sticks to some extent here.

The most important newspaper in the state, the Indianapolis News, usually Republican, opposing Harding and supporting Watson. The next most important newspaper here, the Star, is supporting Harding coldly and opposing Watson.

Watson has no support in the press here, except for the conservative small section of the voters the league is not going to be the controlling issue.

Taggart Sees Only Hope in League
Practical politician that is, Thomas Taggart, who as candidate for the United States Senate, is especially interested in the election, sees in the league the only hope of Democratic victory, and he thinks it is a big hope.

As he sees it, 70 per cent of the state, a great many voters, pro-league. Then the Senate propaganda, as he describes it, confused the minds of the voters. The public does not know now where it stands on the league, and it can be re-educated. It can be brought back to the state of mind in which it was last winter. This can be done in the short six weeks of campaign that remain.

The league issue is as bad as the sound money issue raised in the 1896 campaign. It is technical. It requires a lot of hard work. The league issue has not the advantage the sound money issue had. It is not the big dominating issue of the campaign. A great many voters do not care about it at all. To their minds there is only one issue, and that is to end Democratic rule.

It will be interesting to see what Mr. Taggart can do with the league issue in the six weeks that remain. He can not talk to the Germans, the Sinn Fein Irish, the negroes, the habitually partisan Republicans, the voters who can see only one thing in this campaign, the turning of the Democrats out of Washington. Their minds are closed. And there are a great many of them, probably a majority of the state.

WILSON LEAGUE INDORSED
Massachusetts Democrats Demand Irish Question Be Taken Up
Springfield, Mass., Sept. 18.—(By A. P.)—The League of Nations was indorsed, with the recommendation that the question of the status of Ireland be taken up with the League by the United States, in the platform submitted today to the Democratic convention by its resolutions committee.

The platform as reported indorsed the national party platform, expressed approval of President Wilson's administration and commended the Democratic Congress of the six years preceding 1918. It contained a strong plank in praise of Governor Cox, candidate for President.

The Republican Congress of the last two years was condemned for alleged failure to solve the problems of reconstruction.

Both parties are well organized, the Democrats having perhaps the better and more aggressive platform. Indiana they have adequate sources of money. Their work among the women is said to have been more effective than that of the Republicans. Their leadership is strong.

COOLIDGE ATTACKS COX ON METHODS

Drops Role of Idealist and Adopts Coarse Ways of Ward Politician

By the Associated Press

Boston, Sept. 18.—An assertion that Governor Cox, after attempting the role of an idealist, had turned to the coarse methods of ward politics, resorting to today by Governor Coolidge, was made public by Coolidge's presidential campaign.

The governor, addressing the Republican state convention, said the Democratic nominee for President was named by a convention in which "idealists had very little influence."

"Yet," he added, "after receiving a baptism of idealism at the White House, he attempted a time to the methods of the 'great and solemn referendum.' His address of acceptance started that way."

"But the success has not been marked. So the methods of ward politics prevailed. To that eminent valedictorian in the White House, a master of the state convention, correct of style, always dignified, and who held his exponent resorting to coarse and coarser methods, wilder and wilder, he became solemnly and gravely a ward politician."

The Democratic administration for the last year was termed by Governor Coolidge a "chapter of accidents" and a "mirage of false hopes and false promises." The people, he said, for a time mistook the mirage for reality, but through support of Republican candidates and principles, he asserted, the country "is turning again to realities."

He pictured the country as "turning with admiring eye to the matchless figure of Washington, portrayed not as a hero, but as a man of the people, a man of the world, a man of the future, a man of the past, a man of the present, a man of the future, a man of the past, a man of the present, a man of the
