NEW PROFESSORS FOR UNIVERSITY

The University of Pennsylvania has added a number of new professors to its faculty and has given advanced rank to many of its old teachers for the 1921 collegiate year, which begins next Friday.

Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, acting provost, has announced the changes, the most important of which are in the history and botany departments.

In history the college declines the services of Prof. George L. Stebbins, who becomes professor of American history after a distinguished career at several other universities. He took his bachelor's and doctor's degrees at Johns Hopkins University. After leaving Johns Hopkins he taught successively at Smith College, the University of the South, Vanderbilt and Stoutsey Universities. He has been president of the Tennessee Teachers' Association and the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and has written many articles on American history, especially of the South.

Another important addition to this department was the appointment of Dr. Witt Bowen as assistant professor of European history. Professor Bowen is a westerner, having been graduated from the University of Colorado, although he received most of his post-graduate training and his doctor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania, where he also served as an assistant in history for four years. He comes to Pennsylvania this time from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, where he was assistant professor of history. John H. MacMaster, acknowledged to be the leading authority on American history in this country, has reached the retirement age, he becomes emeritus professor and will continue his historical research and writing with the University as his headquarters.

Dr. Arthur H. Quinn, dean, pronounced Doctor True one of the leading botanists in the world and Pennsylvanian from the Bureau of Plant Industry in Washington where he had important government service in war time. Doctor True is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Doctor True has taught at Harvard and Radcliffe College.

There is an important addition in the department of romance languages. Dr. Jean Baptiste Beck, for several years a member of the faculty of Bryn Mawr, becomes assistant professor of French. He succeeds Dr. Joseph Serrone, who resigned last June.

More Assistants in English

The English department, always one of the strongest of the college, is further strengthened by several important changes. Dr. Albert Croft Baugh has been made an assistant professor of English. Similar promotions have been given Dr. William Pago Harbeson, Dr. Paul C. Kitchen, Frank Alan Laurie, Jr., and John Dolman, Jr.

The five new assistant professors of English are all graduates of the university. Doctor Harbeson who has gained great popularity among the undergraduates as a lecturer, was graduated in 1906. He is also a graduate of the law school, class of 1910. He specialized in the study of the Elizabethan drama.

John Dolman took his bachelor's degree in 1910 and his master's degree in 1913. He is secretary-treasurer of the Eastern States conference and associate editor of the Quarterly Journal of Speech Education. Doctor Baugh received his bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1912 and his master's degree in 1914 and his doctor's degree in 1915. He has been connected with the English department for eight years.

New instructors in the English department are John Clark, F. F. Bolles, MacEdward Leach and Robert Spiller.

HAVERFORD STUDENTS MUST TAKE ATHLETICS

Physical Training Made Compulsory Part of College Course This Year

Haverford College this year will put every student in training for some form of athletic activity, as a part of the regular college curriculum.

This announcement was made today by college officials, prior to the resumption of classes next Thursday, September 3. It is believed that Haverford is the first college in the country to make some form of athletics, in which the men will be regularly coached, a requirement for every student. The physical development of the individual is to be made a part of his academic life.

The plan has been worked out by Dr. James A. Babbitt, the physical director of the college, who is chairman of the central board of football officials and a widely known authority on athletics and physical training.

Haverford will begin the new college year with the largest enrollment in its history. With quarters, for a bare 200 students, Haverford this year has an entry list of 214. It is expected that some of the freshmen applicants will be eliminated by the entrance examinations, but even so the college authorities say some of the applicants likely will be disappointed.

The campaign for the $500,000 endowment fund will be resumed as soon as college opens. William W. Comfort, the president of Haverford, is planning a trip to the northwest and the Pacific coast in October in the interest of the fund. Meantime the local committees everywhere are reviving their organizations for the final clean-up. The fund at present has reached $482,361.

NEW ROBES FOR JUDGES

White Neckbands Patterned After Old English Judicial Garb

When Judges Audenried, Finletter and McCullen appeared on the bench of Court No. 4 today and started the regular fall sessions it was noticed that their judicial black robes had white neckbands, the ends extending in front of their throats like horizontal ribbons. They suggested the origin of judicial office.

Inquiry elicited the information that the original gowns or robes adopted by the former judges of the court, Thayer, Willson and Arnold, were fitted with those white cravats, as part of the judicial bench attire, patterned after an old English gown. The present judges, during the summer recess, decided to revive the white neckbands, which relieve the somberness of the usual judicial attire.

Deaths of a Day

MAJOR H. B. KEIPER
Head of Champion Blower and Forge Co. Victim of Paralysis

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 20.—Major Henry B. Keiper, president of the Champion Blower and Forge Co., and one of Lancaster's most prominent citizens, died at his home last night after an illness of sixteen days. He was stricken with paralysis at his home while shooting. He was sixty-two years old. Major Keiper was a member of the Union League of Philadelphia; was associated with the Ferneliff Fishing Club, of Benton, Md.; belonged to the Hamilton Lodge, in the brick and was an honorary member of the Governor's staff.

The Champion Blower and Forge and National Ball Bearing Co., of which Major Keiper was the head, was evolved from a small beginning. In his early business days he purchased a dozen blowers and traveled miles in an effort to make a sale. He was wont to tell about his first customer, a merchant in Allentown, and how that individual is still a customer of the firm. Today Champion Forges are sold in every state in the union and in most of the foreign countries.

Before the war the firm maintained an office in Germany. During the war the company supplied artillery and tractor boxes to the United States Government. A thriving business was maintained with Hog Island. One contract with the government was for more than $2,000,000.

Milton F. Melvin
Bradford, Pa., Sept. 20.—Milton F. Melvin, founder of the Bon Air Sanatorium at Hells Camp, near this city, died last night at his residence after a long battle against tuberculosis. Being a sufferer from the dread disease himself, it was through his inspiration that the health resort was established twenty years ago on the hillside above Bradford.

Mr. Melvin was born in Bradford forty-four years ago. For a number of years and before his health failed he was engaged in the brick manufacturing business. Besides his wife, one son, Milton F. Melvin, Jr., survives, as well as three brothers, John P. Melvin, Thomas J. Melvin and Calvin C. Melvin, all of Bradford. Deceased was a member of the Masonic order and the Elks.

MORTALITY DOUBLE BIRTHS IN FRANCE

Interest in Successor to Dechannel Eclipsed by Alarming Decrease in Population

WOMEN AID WRANGLER

Summary of special cable dispatches to "The Public Ledger" courtesy of the Public Ledger Co.

Paris, Sept. 20.—While the statesmen of France have been busily occupied in watching every move of the world's political chessboard, it is a question whether at the same time they have given sufficient attention to the deep internal problem which today is menacing the life of the nation—that of depopulation and impaired public health.

Just how long France can go bitherly along with her foreign policies which are dependent on a vigorous nation is a question widely discussed by men of science who constantly are drawing the attention of politicians and the general public to the fact that "the death rate is almost double the birth rate," that the physique of young Frenchmen is declining and that it is no longer a question of how France will live, but how to prevent it from dying out.

Women Inspire Wrangler
Sebastopol, Sept. 20., via Paris, Sept. 18 (delayed).—General Wrangel owes his victories over the Bolsheviks as much to the women of Russia as to the men at the front. The courage of his volunteers in battle and the extraordinary feats of valor that are being executed daily in the old-fashioned hand-to-hand fighting on the Dnieper can be excelled only by the devoted self-sacrifice and energetic efficiency of the wives and sweethearts they "left behind."

Sebastopol is the last refuge of all that was fair, great and good in old Russia. Women accustomed to all of the luxuries and pleasures that wealth and position can afford are working as living as, no self-respecting servant in America would consent to work or live in order to keep their families alive; the burden of their men folk in the army. They are doing it cheerfully without self-pity and with the light of patriotic inspiration in their eyes.

Police say Vigilante had a revolver. Magistrate Oswald held him in $2000 bail for the grand jury. He was arraigned in the Nineteenth and Oxford streets police station.

The Cost of Clothes is of interest to every man

Very naturally the question of price enters into your calculations in planning for the Fall and Winter clothing outfit.

We want you to carefully consider JACOB REED'S SONS along the line of economy—we believe that we can save you money by the simple method of selling you clothing that will give satisfaction and service.

You will find Clothing—lots of it—marked at figures lower than those at which reliable goods can be bought, but that character of merchandise is really the most expensive. Real economy lies in buying value—not in paying a low price which will only buy poor goods.

Compare price. Compare value. Compare the reputation and business standing of the various clothiers before you decide.

FALL AND WINTER SUITS ARE PRICED $45 AND UPWARD.
OVERCOATS, "SLIP-ON" AND CHESTERFIELD MODELS, $40 AND UPWARD.

Never on sale before at any price and never on sale again at this price!

WE can afford to be perfectly frank about it and tell you that we personally are not assuming the great loss represented by the above figures. We ourselves secured the concession at the source. Our only claim to credit is that we are passing it along, as we always do pass along, the benefits that are passed to us. These suits are new, the fabrics are staple, the workmanship is excellent, and the value, at $35, is so good that we delayed our formal Fall opening two weeks in order to focus public attention upon this unusual opportunity for saving money without sacrificing quality to do it. If new Fall models in fine silk mixed worsteds and self-figured weaves, at $35 apiece, are not remarkable in these times, then we are prepared to take a college course in values and unlearn the teachings of a lifetime in the clothing business!
