

HOLY NAME LEADER HITS ANARCHISTS

Father Ripple, at Rally of 8000, Urges Respect for Law of Nation

POINTS OUT MODERN SINS

"The Chief Evils of the Day" were named in a stirring address to 8000 members of the Holy Name Society in Willow Grove Park yesterday by the Very Rev. M. J. Ripple, director general of the organization in the United States.

All the branches of the society in the archdiocese of Philadelphia were represented in the throng of Catholics who made the pilgrimage to the park for the occasion.

The occasion marked the regular quarterly meeting of the Union delegates who in order to pay special tribute to the Rev. Edward J. Curran, pastor of St. David's Church, of Willow Grove, an ardent Holy Name organizer, called the meeting at the great music pavilion in the park.

Father Ripple attributed the great spirit of unrest throughout the peoples of the world to three things—pride, avarice and lust.

"The four-flusher has no place in the Holy Name society or any other kind of society," said Father Ripple. "A man who entertains such thoughts as preached by the anarchists has no place in the Holy Name society. He is an enemy to himself and to our country and sooner or later he will be found out. A man who leans toward those principles cannot belong to the Holy Name society and even attempt to practice its teachings.

"The very first principle of anarchy is to do away with all religion. A man without religion is undermining all authority. It is a proven fact that a disbeliever in God knows no law but the brutal law of brute force which takes his would-be idea of full freedom."

HITS WORK OF U. S. AGENTS

The number of families dependent upon the Protestant Episcopal City Mission for charity has fallen off by 50 per cent. The statement is made by the Rev. Dr. William H. Jefferys, superintendent. He attributes the condition to the acts of prohibition and says that there would be a still greater percentage if the laws were properly enforced. Contributing causes to improved conditions, he says, are higher wages and sufficient work for almost every one.

Highwaymen Take $50, Then Kick Victim Downstairs

Highwaymen were not satisfied with taking $50 from H. T. Croft, a traveling salesman from Norfolk, Va., but carried him up three flights of stairs and then kicked him down. That, at least, is the way Croft explains his treatment by "stick-up" men who, he says, robbed him near Tenth and Race streets, early yesterday morning.

According to Croft, after he had been held up, he discovered that the robbers were unarmed, so put up a battle. They subdued Croft and carried him up a dimly lighted stairway, and kicked him down. He does not remember what else they did. When he regained consciousness he was in a cellar, he said.

Croft was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where he is suffering from contusions of the body and lacerations of the scalp. Police of the Twelfth and Pine streets station were informed of the robbery.

Rector of St. Martin's Episcopal Church Succumbs to Brief Illness

SHOCK TO CONGREGATION

The Rev. Walter Jordan, rector of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, at Oak Lane, for the last twenty-nine years, died yesterday at his home at Tenth street and Oak lane following a short illness.

Announcement of his death was made at the service in St. Martin's Church yesterday by the Rev. Fletcher Clark, who has substituted as rector since Doctor Jordan's illness began two weeks ago. Doctor Clark spoke feelingly of the death of Dr. Jordan and of his long career in the ministry, particularly as rector of St. Martin's Church, where, under his guidance, the congregation has increased to large numbers.

Doctor Jordan had spent the summer at Kennelbuckport, Me., and had returned to his home early this month, apparently much benefited by his vacation, when he became ill. Announcement of his death came as a shock to members of his congregation, who were unaware that his condition had become critical a few days ago.

Doctor Jordan was a member of an old and prominent Philadelphia family. He was born in this city sixty years ago and received his early education here. He was graduated from the Moravian Seminary at Bethlehem, Pa., and soon after entered the ministry as assistant rector of Holy Trinity Church, Nineteenth and Walnut streets, when the late Bishop William N. McVieker was rector. Doctor Jordan served at Holy Trinity Church with distinction
