Nancy Wynne Talks of Two Interesting Engagements. She Hears of the Lawn Fete for a Hospital Benefit and Straightens Out a Relationship

NATURALLY we are all interested in hearing of young Prince Cantacuzene's engagement to an American girl. His mother, you know, was Miss Julia Grant, a granddaughter of President Grant. She married Prince Cantacuzene in 1899 at Newport, and lived in Russia until two years ago. Prince Michael, her husband, was high up in Michael, her husband, was high up in Michael, her husband, was high up in American Michael, her husband, was high up in American at dinner on Friday night before the dance to be given in Andalusia by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Biddle. NATURALLY we are all interested in hearing of young Prince Cantacuzene's engagement to an American girl. His mother, you know, was Miss Julia Grant. She married Prince Cantacuzene in 1809 at Newport, and lived in Russia until two years ago. Prince Michael, her husband, was high up in court, and was aide-de-camp to Grand Duke Nicholas. Later he was in command of forces at Kiev under Kerensky, but as affairs turned out in Russia, it was decided to come to this country. The younger prince, who is twenty years old, is a student at Harvard, and I suppose he met Clarissa Curtis at the Hub, for she is of Beacon street, Boston, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis. Clarissa's brother, Tom Curtis, is a student at Harvard also, and another brother, Pelham Curtis, is at St. Mark's School, being this year captain of the football eleven.

If young Prince Michael is anything

In the standard and Mrs. Thomas Pelham Curtis. Is a student at Harvard also, and another brother, Pelham Curtis. If young Prince Michael is anything and Miss Maise Stewart.

If young Prince Michael is anything The Wedding of Miss Middred Sheppard. year captain of the football eleven.

If young Prince Michael is anything like as attractive as his mother, I am glad to wish Miss Curtis happiness, for I think the princess is charming. I met her last year at Mrs. Van Rens-selaer's house, when a couple of hundred women went there to hear her tell of Russia and what had happened there of Russia and what had happened there during the last few years. I hear that the younger prince is a senior at college, and so I suppose they wil wait till after his graduation for the marriage. The Cantacuzene family is one riage. The Cantacuzene family is one of the oldest of the Russian nobility. and has always held a high position in AM greatly interested also in the engagement of Learning Smith and Lucas, which was announced resterday in this city. Natalie Lucas is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel Lucas. is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel Lucas. of Ardmore, and a sister of that good-looking Mrs. Atwater Kent. She is very good looking herself, and is marrying an awfully nice fellow. Leaming Smith is the son of the late Leaming Smith, of this city and New York. His mother was Miss Emily Grant. a sister of Mr. Wi'liam Crant and Miss Alice Grant. Mrs. Smith, her daughter Alice Grant. Mrs. Sinith, her daughter lines and Leaming live in a most attractive small house on South Hicks street. Mrs. Henry Paul Bush, who was Miss Lydia Smith, is a sister of Leaming Smith. I hear the wedding will not be very far off, in the late fall or early winter.

I HOPE those two debutantes I heard talking yesterday will finally find out not. You see, E- is not home yet, but before she went away she asked M— to receive at her tea in the fall, and said "I'll write about it," and then she letter from her saying "I got your let-ter and I am awfully glad you will reeive with me and be sure to stay for, he dance afterward." and H—, if you lease, had not written to E— at all. And M- doesn't know what on earth to do about it, because she has reeived the formal invitation to the dance, and it's all generally mixed up.

SAW Mrs. Chris Hagen yesterday, and she told me about the lawn fete home at St. Agnes's which starts this afternoon and will last throughout the week to Saturday. Mrs. Hagen is chairman of the women's auxiliary of the hospital and has done a great deal to make the affair a success. She will have charge of the Midway, and Mrs. James Car stairs will also work with her, while the junior aid has a children's departent and will have a baby show on aturday afternoon. Mrs. Hagen was ylvia Fassitt, you remember, a sister Mrs. Wharton Churchman and of John Fassitt. She is a cousin of Eliza-beth Norris, who I told you yesterday will make her debut this year. the student nurses at the hospital will conduct a Dutch kitchen, and Miss Margaret Moran, directress of the urses, will be in charge of this feature. You know, or perhaps you do not now, that the nurses have no regular ome there, eighty-five student nurses cupying sleeping quarters on the top floor of the hospital; day and night nurses occupying the same quarters. Last year some money was raised in a five to build a nurses' home, but not bough was realized, with the very high cest of building material and labor, and so a considerable sum must be got this year to finish the good work. This fete of four days it is hoped will prove great help.

SUPPOSE no matter how much one thinks one knows about people and I thinks one knows about people and their families one cannot help making mistakes now and again. I must have sent my brain wool-gathering yesterday when I stated that Mr. Ledyard Heckscher and Mr. Stevens Heckscher were cousins. They are not, they are brothers, and Mr. Gustave Heckscher is another brother. There were six brothers, sons of the late Mr. Richard Heckscher, So Rith Heckscher, who is a daughter of Mr. Stevens Heckscher, and Virginia Heckscher, who is a daughter of Mr. Ledyard Heckscher, are first cousins.
