Only straight football was used because that was all they needed against Delaware. The game was easier than a practice scrimmage, and had the Red and Blue desired much larger score could have been run up. Rex Wrny, the diminutive fullback, ran up and down the field until he was tired, and the other backs did the same. Jos Strans, Harvey and Watkins did some good line-plunging and Pos Miller tore off a few quarterback runs. But it was oldtime football, with the new stuff conspicuous by

Heisman has a new attack this year, but will not spring it until the harder games are played. Dope on the Races—Continued

WITH Cleveland and the White Sox racing neck and neck down the homestretch and Brooklyn trying to cop another game to clinch the pennant, baseball is in for another hectic week. The American and National League races end on Sunday, and the only thing left after that is another world's series scandal.

The Indians are one-half game to the good and have seven more to play. The White Sox have four, three with St. Looie and a postponed battle with Detroit, which will be played today. Figger experts are busy with their carpenter's pencils and have discovered that Cleveland must win six of the remaining games to grab the gonfalon if Chicago wins four straight. If the Indians win five and lose two and the Sox make a clean sweep the clubs will be tied with 98 victories and 56 defeats.

However, if the Gleasonites are defeated in one or two games they will fold up and wait for pext year. But real dope is that both contending clubs must play perfect baseball if either expects to win.

Chicago should be handicapped at this stage of the game, but it doesn't look that way. Seven of the players have been indirectly accused of pulling funny stuff in the last world's series, and according to the reports from Chicago, where a grand jury investigation is being held. some of the boys are in very bad. This should cause much uneasiness, and when ball players are in that con-y dition they can't play much baseball.

The White Sox are playing in Chicago now and in a position to hear all of the rumors. If the case against them is as strong as we are led to believe, it wouldn't be surprising to wake up some morning and find some of them

THIS investigation is getting hot as the evidence continues to pour in. If any of the players allowed themselves to be influenced by gamblers in the last scorld's series-get that, IF they did-it must be fough to face the charges now after getting away with it for almost a year. But you never can tell what will kappen in baschall.

What Is the Matter With the Phils?

THERE also is a lot of nervousness here. Last week our Phils won five games-mark you, FIVE gamesin three days from the Boston Braves, and now are only one and one-half games from seventh place.

On August 31 Gavvy's hired gents won a ball game from the Chicago Cubs, and now the grand jury is investigating. After this recent string of victories the United States Senate investigating committee is likely

Nobody even dreamed that the Phils could put across a stunt like that. The ball club has been shot most of the season with a mediocre catching staff, poor pitchers and weak third baseman. They won games occasionally, but it was a tough, uphill battle all year. Then, at the tail end of the season, after losing seven in a row, they suddenly come to life and take five straight,
