Ti's really remarkable how many people are home again. I saw so many yesterday on Chestnut street I could hardly believe my eyes, for, you see, it's so hot these days it seems as if it must be summer and not just three or four days before October 1. I saw Mrs. Jimmie Potter wearing a smart sports guit of dark blue, with a belted coat and a small, round hat, the crown of which was trimmed with French flowers. Mrs. Dobson Altemus was wearing a stunping one-piece frock of blue cloth embroidered in various places with dark blue and a gold thread now and again. The elbow sleeves of her gown were heavily embroidered and her small hat was fashioned rather high at the back of her head. She wore a smart French veil, which fitted close.

Mrs. Joseph Huston was also in town, wearing a very pretty dark blue white-striped voile. Her collar and Miss Margaretta L. Harrison, daugh-town, wearing a very pretty dark blue mier. Wiss white striped voile. Her collar and sash were of white and her sleeves were ter of elbow length. She wore a dark blue taffeta hat trimmed with a taffeta ribbon, the edges of which were fringed.

THAT was a beautiful luncheon at the Manufacturers' Club which Mrs. orimer had yesterday to meet Mrs. lehn T. Pratt, of New York, You know drs Pratt is vice chairman of the naonat ways and means committee of the Republican party and Mrs. Lorimer is vice chairman of the state commits vice chairman of the state committee of the national ways and means sommittee. I think those are the official ames. Any way, they do wonderful ton, Tex., is announced today.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kitters Committee of the engagement of Mrs. Roberts Stevenson, Jr., of 4618 Kingsessing avenue, to Mr. Theodore Dering, of Houstor, and yesterday's luncheon was work, and yesterday's luncheon was work, and yesterday's luncheon was for Mrs. Pratt, who gave a very interesting talk to the executives and other members of the committee. There were about seventy women there and three about seventy women there and three and three peakers. Mrs. Lorimer introduced the peakers, who included Mrs. Willis Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jach, has returned from Rangeley. Me. where she lartin and Miss Elizabeth Frazer, the riter, besides Mrs. Pratt. It was very interesting and very lear. And I was struck with the exreme common sense of the women who There was no proclaiming that ne world was to be turned upside-down ause women have gotten the vote was a careful explanation of that the vote means and of how what the vote internal and the should use the privilege. And I believe that we can do great good, though, as for changing the face of the earth, well, I agree with Miss Frazer, who said she did not believe that women's would bring about the millennium. she did say that women would ring high ideals into their voting, and they will! It was a fine meeting and many volunteered to help the ways and committee in practical ways. Mrs. Pratt is very charming.

was dressed in a dark blue one-piece immed with coque feathers. Mrs. black satin slip held in place with a tted girdle. Her hat was a small pearl gray ostrich feathers. f black was faced with a king's blue strich quill. Mrs. George Dunning as in black satin, her upturned hat as black trimmed with flowers.

I saw Mrs. Walter Thomson, Mrs. Charles Platt, Jr., Mrs. Stanley Flags, Ir., Mrs. Allan Stockton, Mrs. William Belding, Mrs. John Gribbel, Mrs. Ashton Little, Miss Helen Fleisher, Mrs. Prentice Nichols, Mrs. Gifford Phehot, Mrs. David Paul Brown, Mrs. Edward Thomas, Miss Eleisa Dicker Pischot, Mrs. David Paul Brown, Mrs. Edward Thomas, Miss Eloise Dickey, Mrs. George Fritz Chandler, Mrs. Rob- Mrs. George Fritz Chandler, Mrs. Rob- Mrs. Dobson Altemus, Mrs. John Gil- Wist Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other places on their journey. ert and a great many others.

Stratford room of the BellevueStratford are to start next Saturday evening. The season is certainly upon us. Mrs. James Halsey will act this year as chaperone at the hotel's affairs and as I have sald before. I think it is nd as I have said before, I think it is splendid plan, for everyone knows. Mrs. Halsey and any mother would be willing to allow her daughter to go to affairs chaperoned by her. And it's so nice for the girls, too. That step taken last year was a brilliant one, indeed. NANCY WYNNE.
