

JAPANESE URGES FREE WORLD TRADE

Kogo Mori Would Eliminate Restrictions on Imports and Exports

NO U. S. HELP FOR EUROPE

By the Associated Press

Brussels, Sept. 25.—Freedom of world trade is the most essential condition for the increase of production which must bring about economic restoration of the world in the opinion of Kogo Mori, Japanese commissioner in London, whose views have been laid before the international financial conference in session here. The Japanese complete elimination of restrictions on both imports and exports, especially those applying to raw materials, he says.

In his review of conditions in Japan M. Mori declares his country has not escaped from the general state of affairs which has prevailed the world.

During yesterday's session, Harri Bergmann, representing Germany, summarized the official statement from Berlin which has been laid before the conference. He expressed the thanks of his government to the League of Nations for having extended an invitation to be represented at the conference and concluded by saying:

"In spite of the heavy difficulties of our situation, we do not consider the financial prospects of Germany desperate. The people there are gradually finding their way back to order and willingness to work is resuming everywhere in the country."

M. Ledru, Belgian, expressed hopes during his address that some form of international relief would be the result of the present conference.

Europe need expect no further help from the United States, the conference was informed by Roland W. Boyden, unofficial American representative during a speech which rather startled the assembly. "Money and lack of help money between European nations have resulted in a feeling that Europe can not be considered a 'good risk,'" he declared, adding that this hostility must be ended before American policy might be expected to change.

Paris, Sept. 25.—(By A. P.)—Roland W. Boyden, unofficial representative of the United States at the international financial conference in progress at Brussels, in an interview with the Brussels correspondent of the Journal today said he had not yet gained an idea of the practical results the conference might yield.

"I fear certain countries have counted too much on it," he declared.

"But," asked the correspondent, "won't what you have heard encourage you to come to the help of countries in need?"

Mr. Boyden smiled and said: "It is not as easy as some people think."

"I also could have stood on and like Spain and Holland, proved that the economic situation of the United States is not as brilliant as is generally supposed," he continued. "Nobody would have believed me. My sincerity would have been easily doubted. Then, our troubles, besides yours, are so small. Nevertheless, this is real and requires the most careful handling."

"Our woolen industry is at a stand still, and cotton is low, as a result of the terrible crisis. Shoe factories have been obliged to lower prices below cost in order to close stocks and obtain funds. The metal and mechanical industries are stagnating. We also are not without apprehension with regard to social transformations. Under the circumstances, you know, it is impossible for us to fly to the help of whoever calls us.

"We have plenty of gold and silver, but the period of loan from state to state is over. We will lend to whoever offers guarantees, particularly moral guarantees. We will come to the help of whoever wants to work in the calm of peace. For the moment, Europe is in too great a state of political instability for us to risk our capital."

"One indispensable condition is the suppression of economic barriers between peoples. Supposing that in America, instead of being able to send goods from New York to Boston in five hours, eight days were necessary because the passage through each state involved innumerable formalities to be gone through and have to be lifted. Do you think business could go ahead? No. Let us suppose our views in a word. Create a United States of Europe and everything will be settled."

RUSSIANS PROPOSE BORDER FOR POLES

Frontier Would Be East of Line Fixed by Versailles Conference

BOLSHEVIK TOWNS TAKEN

By the Associated Press

Riga, Sept. 25.—Russian Bolsheviki representatives at the peace conference here have submitted to Polish delegates suggestions for the boundary line between Poland and states adjoining to the east.

At many points it is some distance east of the line fixed by Poland's eastern frontier at the Versailles conference, and touches the latter line for but a short distance in the neighborhood of Brest-Litovsk. Poland would have control of the railway junction at Brest-Litovsk so that she might have direct railway communication along her eastern frontier.

Warsaw, Sept. 25.—(By A. P.)—The official statement on fighting operations, issued just before last midnight, says that in the north the Polish troops have reached the Shchura river. "In the region of Grodno the enemy is retreating," the statement adds. "Our detachments advancing in the direction of Pinsk have occupied Chomsk, Drohicyn and Ivanovo, where they captured the staffs of two Soviet divisions of infantry, six machine guns, a locomotive and 150 cars.

"East of Rovno our cavalry corps threw back the enemy of the right bank of the Horyn, occupied Kozob and took six guns and sixteen machine guns.

"In a battle near Zaslav (southeast of Rovno) on September 24, our first regiment of cavalry took 2000 prisoners, thirty-two machine guns and three cannons.

Ukrainian troops operating east of the Zbruch river occupied, with our aid, Ploskiw and Starokonstantinovi, taking 3000 prisoners, four armored trains, many supply trains and war material."

"You Never Made Coffee Like This Before—Have You Changed Your Brand?"

"No, I haven't changed my brand, dear, but the roasters have changed their package. You see, I have always bought my coffee at Jones & Company's who sell the Blank brand. It used to come in bulk and was weighed out and ground at the store. Now the roasters are using the 'Aertite' package. I noticed the difference as soon as I opened the box and I resolved then and there to buy no more bulk goods. The clerk told me he went through the plant the other day and saw the Pneumatic packaging machines at work. Fifteen to eighteen thousand packages every working day is the output of one machine at a cost much less than the cost of packaging at the store, and besides no dirt of any kind can touch the coffee." "Well, it certainly makes a difference in the taste. I have noticed the growth of this packaging idea for some time and I believe that before long bulk goods will be unknown—that everything from peanuts to coffee will come in packages." Ninety per cent of the machine packaged goods of the world are weighed, packaged and sealed on the automatic machinery made by the Pneumatic Scale Corporation, Limited. The experience gained in solving thousands of packaging problems is available to manufacturers interested in the pack-

The Captive Cap

You Can't Lose It! Opens This Way

The Finishing Touch!

NOT that anything was needed to increase the esteem in which Kolyynos is held by its millions of friends in America and England and ten or twelve other countries.

For wherever the profession of dentistry flourishes and people are accustomed to take the best possible care of their teeth and gums and mouths, there Kolyynos is held in highest esteem!

But men and women—and boys and girls—will lose things; and one of the things most easily lost is the cap on a tube of dental cream.

Such loss means that the air gets to the cream, and dust settles around the neck of the tube, and the cream is squeezed out and wasted.

We have always been punctiliously careful about the condition of Kolyynos when it reaches you and while you are using a tube of it.

So we have added the finishing touch—which is the Captive Cap.

You can't lose it, whether you are at home or travelling, and it's always there to be put right back on the tube. Look for the Captive Cap, used exclusively on takes care of the teeth perfectly—cleanses them without the use of grit, and dissolves the film under which plaques of destructive bacteria flourish. But it does not stop there. It strengthens the gums and leaves the entire mouth in a sweet, wholesome, purified condition.

Atlantic Volatility Means Quicker Pickup

You see them at every traffic crossing—the cars that are up and away with the word "Go". Alertness and power and pickup behind their pistons. Complacency registered in their drivers' faces. Atlantic, most likely, in their gasoline tanks.

For Atlantic has volatility as well as stability—the capacity to vaporize rapidly—to explode quickly, sharply and completely—to bring out and deliver all of its potential energy, and to concentrate the full force at the psychological moment.

Equally remarkable is the range of Atlantic volatility. It functions efficiently under varying temperature, humidity, speed and load conditions. Atlantic all burns at all times.

Scientific minds of a great organization have established the correctness and range of Atlantic volatility. Only the enormous plants of a great organization can maintain that correctness from the variable crude oils of today. Only a great organization with a world-wide market for all the many products of petroleum can produce a gasoline like Atlantic to sell at the price you pay for it.

And only a great organization can give you the convenience of wide-spread service that awaits you when you steer for the Red Pump that says
