

KELLY GIRLS WIN TRIPLETS CONTEST

Philadelphia Children Disprove Theory of Physicians Against Short Lives

"MIXED" TRIO IS SECOND

Doctors at St. Agnes' Hospital today voted a prize to the Misses Margaret, Helen and Mary Kelly as the winners of the "most perfect triplets" contest.

The girls are the daughters of Mrs. Dennis A. Kelly, 1670 North Fifth street. They are twenty years old, having been born in this city on July 18, 1900.

Second prize for being the best set of triplets was awarded to Henry, Edward and Margaret Winter, the children of Mrs. John Winter, a widow, of 93 Pastorius street, Germantown. The Winter children are fourteen years old.

The unique contest was the outcome of a carnival at St. Agnes' Hospital last week, in which a babies' show was one of the features. An argument started among the resident physicians at the hospital on the subject of triplets. Some of the internes said it was impossible for triplets to live long and that they invariably died before they reached ten years, and were usually in poor health. Other internes took an opposite viewpoint. They declared they could produce healthy, full-grown triplets to back up their argument.

Miss Agnes Land, president of the Junior Aid Society at St. Agnes' Hospital, overheard the argument. She decided to hold a contest for triplets living in Philadelphia. Triplets from cities as far as Wilmington and Lancaster sent in entries, but they were ruled out.

Dr. Eugene Murphy, resident physician at the hospital, was named referee because he had maintained neutrality in the argument over the healthfulness of triplets. After examining the Kelly sisters he declared they were as healthy and normal as any other young women.

Mrs. Kelly, their mother, has three other and two younger children than the triplets. She told Doctor Murphy, "One of her sons was killed while fighting in the Argonne Forest in France."

The Winter children's names were given a "good health" certificate. A fund has been started among the St. Agnes internes to purchase prizes for the winning sets of triplets.

FACES ANOTHER CHARGE

Alleged Slayer Also is Accused of Robbing Workman

William Forsberg, thirty-five years old, of Third and Spruce streets, who already is held without bail for the grand jury on a homicide charge, was held under $200 bail for some weeks by Magistrate Carson at the Central Station on an additional charge of larceny.

John Rundgren, 1105 Lancaster avenue, Wilmington, was robbed in a saloon at Third and Spruce streets Saturday afternoon of a wallet containing $180, a watch and a Bethlehem Steel Co. badge.

Peter Olson, of 22 Spruce street, was shot and killed during an argument at Third and Spruce streets Saturday.

Forsberg was arrested on suspicion of having done the shooting. When searched a wallet with $180, a silver watch and a badge were found on him and identified by Rundgren as his property.

AMERICAN SUB DEB SCORNS BRITISH VEGETARIAN LINGO

"Old Bean" May Be a Whizz of a Term for Dad in Albion, but It's a Weak Line and Perfectly T Here

One of the most interesting languages spoken in this country is the "Sub-Deb."

As a dialect it fits into the conversational scheme somewhere between Shibe Park and Bryn Mawr College. It is different, yet not without dignity and always useful.

Miss Maude Royden, the famous English woman preacher, has just come to the defense of her young British sister who refers to her father as "old bean."

The American sub-deb does not use this term of vegetarian endorsement, but she has a method of talking all her own. Her system of talking about anything in the world is something like this:

"Everything is either Lovely or Terrible, or in times of extreme stress or ecstasy, Perfectly L, or Perfectly T. For variation, 'How Awful' is sometimes used, while moments of embarrassment are covered with the epithet 'How Shaming!'"

Any one she likes is a Whizz, or a Peach or a Moose. The reverse in personality is frequently referred to as 'Perfectly Frightful, or sometimes as a Flat Tire."

She doesn't go anywhere. Rather, she flashes into town, and after a hurried engagement, charges off somewhere else.

In fact, she doesn't recognize conversation as such. No one talks—every one has a line, which is either smooth and potent, or Weak and Wet.

The scale of all human Sub-Deb emotions is neatly compassed by that one good old standby—Thrilling. Everything is "How Thrilling!" would cover any event from the battle of the Marne to meeting Egbert on Chestnut street.

Of course, there are times when she says or less has to fall back on "How Boring," which epithet, rightly do-

BRANDON FOUND GUILTY

Jury Declares New York Man Responsible for Dual Railway Murder

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 29.—A jury here yesterday returned a verdict of guilty against George Brandon, of New York, charged with the murder of Arthur L. Kupfer and his fiancée, Edith Janny, of Perth Amboy, N. J., Kupfer and Miss Janny were shot to death in an automobile near Raritan, N. J., August 22, 1918.

Fingerprints, found in the automobile, led to the arrest of Brandon and Charles Pochard. The latter was found serving a sentence in Sing Sing Prison. He appeared as the principal witness against Brandon, testifying that they had asked Kupfer for a ride, that he drove the machine and that Brandon shot and killed Kupfer and Miss Janny.

Brandon will be sentenced Saturday. Pochard will be tried later.

GREEK PARLIAMENT ENDED

Reactionaries Bent on Raising Question of Return of Ex-King

Athens, Sept. 29.—Parliament has been dissolved by royal decree, and elections fixed for November 7.

In the debate preceding the dissolution, Premier Venizelos said the reactionary opposition was bent on raising in the elections the question of the return to the throne of former King Constantine, "with its inevitable bloodshed."

WOMAN PRISONER ON HUNGER STRIKE

Begins Sixteenth Day of Fast in Bucks County Jail—Protests Innocence

CHILDREN TRY TO SEE HER

Mrs. Frances Mullen, thirty-two years old, of Sellersville, a prisoner in the Bucks county jail at Doylestown, is protesting her innocence by a hunger strike and today entered on the sixteenth day of her imprisonment refusing to touch food or drink.

Lying on her cot in a cell of the jail, Mrs. Mullen, in an exhausted condition and gradually growing weaker, declared this morning she would die of hunger rather than submit to a jail sentence on a charge of which she repeats she is guiltless.

"I will die for the truth, and the world will know that I am innocent," Mrs. Mullen declared. "I will not eat a thing. It will be better to starve to death than to submit to the outrage of false imprisonment."

Mrs. Mullen was committed to jail for three months on the charge of aggravated assault and battery. Her two sons—Frank, twelve years old, and Julius, seven—are being cared for at the Bucks County Home. Their appeals to their mother to break her hunger strike have proved unavailing.

The boys ran away from the home yesterday and started for their mother's bedside. They were later discovered in a woods near Doylestown.

Mrs. Mullen is alleged to have shot Julius Primsont, a Sellersville farmer, for whom she was a housekeeper.

Judge William C. Ryan, who committed Mrs. Mullen, said today that Primsont had testified on the witness stand that Mrs. Mullen shot him in the back and then chased him around the barn, firing four other shots which went wild. The position of the wound indicated it could not have been self-inflicted.

Judge Ryan said he had imposed a light sentence because of the fact that the prisoner was a woman and the mother of two children.

Mrs. Mullen is of Russian parentage. She is an expert cook, and has been employed at various times by several prominent Philadelphia families.

TO BUILD BIG FACTORY

Phila. Man Heads Company That Will Employ 4000 Workers

The International Shoe Heel Corporation, of which A. K. Pomeroy, of this city, is president, and which is said to represent a capital of $1,000,000, has entered into a contract for the purchase at Halpine, two miles east of Rockville, Md., of 119½ acres of land for an aggregate price said to be approximately $80,000.

The transactions means, it has been announced, the establishment on the property of an early date of a shoe factory to employ 4000 persons.

In order to provide homes for the employees many of whom will be skilled workmen from northern factories, the company announces it will erect a large number of dwellings. Strong efforts were made to have the company locate the plant at Cumberland, Baltimore and elsewhere.

3 HURT AS ELEVATOR FALLS

Men Slightly Injured in Packing Plant Accident

Three men were hurt slightly today when a freight elevator fell from the fourth to the first floor in the packing plant of J. J. Felin, 4158 Germantown avenue. The accident occurred about 5:45 this morning.

The men were John Wosgasie, 2023 Rowan street; Jackson Oken, 1840 Brunner street; and Antonio Geaney, 1006 Juniata street. They were bruised about the legs. After treatment at St. Luke's Hospital they were sent home.

A breaking cable is said to have caused the elevator to drop.

POSTER BATTLE ON AT U. OF P. TODAY

Freshmen and Sophomores Will Have Annual Scrap on Campus This Afternoon

Penn's freshman class has a chance to show its mettle this afternoon at the poster fight, which will be held all over the campus between the hours of 5 and 6.

The poster fight is an institution at Penn. Each year the sophomores nail up posters with printed "rules" for the first-year men—rules which are enforced as vigorously as the sophi know how by their vigilance committee. On the occasion of the poster fight the freshmen tear the obnoxious posters down—if they are able.

One of these posters, known only to the sophomores and the marshals of the fight, means victory for the freshmen if it is torn from its place; victory for the sophomores if they can keep it intact until 6 o'clock. Getting this "winning poster" is a double problem for the freshmen. They have to find it first, then tear it down against the united opposition of the second-year class.

So as to make sure of this poster which will turn the tide of battle, the freshmen will assail every poster in sight, and the sophomores will defend every poster on the campus.

The rules provide that the posters on the outside of buildings must be visible and at a height of not more than six feet.

Neither freshmen nor sophomores may appear on the campus in battle array until exactly 5 o'clock. The first-year men will line up at 4:30 o'clock in the quadrangle, the sophomores at the same time in the triangle, and at 5 o'clock precisely the marshals will give them the word to go, and the fight will be on.
