Nancy Wynne Talks of the Horse Show—She Tells of the Annual Fair at St. Francis Convalescent House. Mr. and Mrs. Warburton, Jr., Are Congratulated

IT WAS not so inspiring early at the Horse Show yesterday, because the rain, or whatever it was, the night before, had not been conducive to bright, clear weather early in the day. Later, however, when the sun really came out, and the people began to come, and the band played, and the horses danced, and the debutantes appeared with their tea trays and tea wagons, serving tea on the grand stand and to the occupants of the boxes, the joy of horse shows began. Now take a breath. That was some sentence.

Nobody wore anything very exciting in the morning because the weather was so uncertain, but in the afternoon very pretty clothes were to be seen. THE Charles E. Coxes' invitations came out yesterday for the tea which they will give at Willabrooke Farm, Malvern, or Paoli, it is around there, somewhere near town, on Saturday, October 10, to introduce Jane, their daughter. They gave a large dance for her last July, you remember, and I understand there is to be a ball, too, later in the season. Jane is very sweet and a decided favorite. She spent the last two years at boarding school in Virginia. She is a cousin of Catherine Cox, who came out last year, and her brother, Egley Cox, 3d, married Mary Owens, of Georgia, a couple of years ago. Her mother was Miss Louise White. Mrs. Cox's sister, Miss Sarah White, married Mr. Alexander Brown, a brother of Mr. Charles Cox, and they live at Paoli. The tea on October 10 will be from 4 until 7 o'clock. One of those things, you know, and believe me, it is a good thing, for you do get confused out there with so many roads.

I SAW Mrs. Harry Wain Harrison on the street the other day. She had been mourning for the last couple of years, and while she looked very stunning in black, it was nice to see her in colors again. Her dress was very smart, of old rose tinted with gray. She has grown very thin and the frock was made on perfectly straight up and down lines, without a belt or waist line. It suited her exactly and was very becoming. Her hat was a small affair of old rose.

DID you hear that the Barclay Warburton, Jr., have a wee daughter? They have been living in Paris since last January and the baby was born there. You remember Mrs. Warburton, Jr., was Rosamond Lancaster. She and Buzzy were married at Philadelphia, and she recently returned from Paris, where they spent the month of August.

They did not tell about their marriage until the night of the charity ball, in which the young couple took part. That was the first week in December and then Buzzy being connected with business in Paris, they called the following week. In fact, that was the first week of their elopement. They did not want to have to wait till he went abroad and came back for her, and as they were very young they feared opposition and so the two young people just decided to consult anyone, but to get married, and they did. Rosamond is awfully pretty. I hope the wee daughter will look like her, though she would not make a mistake if she looked like her. Warburton, either, for Mrs. Warburton and her Aunt Brownie are both extremely smart looking.

DID you know that the annual Convalescent Fair for St. Francis House for Convalescents will be held in the year on October 8 and 9? It will be held on the grounds of the House as usual and will have all sorts of novelties. One of the features is the sale of old roses tinted with gray, which are very fashionable by the convalescent patients during the year. That home is a great thing. It was founded about eight years ago by a number of young women, among them Mrs. Charles Emory Smith, a sister of Mrs. James Francis Sullivan. Mrs. Smith has since entered a religious society in New York, but she had any active interest in the House after the first year of its foundation, but her niece, Frances Sullivan, was for several years president of the Junior Guild and has been actively interested in it.

It is a home for very convalescents, that is, no one who is real ill is taken there, only those persons who are dismissed from the hospital as cured but who are still too weak to take up their regular round of work at their homes. They are given two weeks of rest and light duties at the home and then gradually get back into their daily round of work.

I believe there is another convalescent home out on the Main Line, but there are no others, and the need is very great. This annual fair usually brings in quite a lot of money and interest in the home, and then the Junior Guild's play in January nets quite an amount to help along. But with all perfectly free things and the high cost of living there is great need of outside help. And besides the fair is fun. Me, I'm going.

NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. William R. Phillips, of Haverford, has issued invitations for a debutante luncheon in honor of Miss Virginia Benson Carter, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Calvert Carter, on Wednesday, October 13, at her home.

Among those who will receive at the luncheon which Mrs. Isaac Norris, of Fair Hill, Bryn Mawr, will give to present to society his daughter, Miss Mary Lloyd Norris, on Friday, September 13, at the Bellevue-Stratford, will be Miss Virginia Benson Carter, Miss Anita Strawbridge, Miss Jane Shaw Hepburn, Miss Henrietta MacDonald Wilson, Miss Jane Gordon Cox, Miss Anne Ashton and Miss Elizabeth Carron Miller. The receiving party will precede the dance.

The wedding of Miss Virginia Stockton Harris, granddaughter of Mrs. Robert Field Stockton, of Trenton, and niece of Mrs. James R. Hopkins, of Chestnut Hill, and Mr. John Dale Reynolds, of Pittsburgh, will take place at St. Paul's Church, Chestnut Hill, on Saturday, November 13, at 4 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Reynolds will attend in person as maid of honor. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins.

Miss Helen Vilmorin Michell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Michell, of Forth and Chestnut streets, who has been the guest for a week of the Messrs. Edward H. Talmage and their daughter, Miss Caroline Talmage, of New York, at their summer home at Bernardville, N. J., has joined her parents at Chelsea. Mr. and Mrs. Michell and their family will return to the city on Saturday.

Miss Beale is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Horace Binney Hare, of Wayne, during the week of the week of the Messrs. and Mrs. Benjamin Chew and their family, of Glenville, Radnor, returned last week from Narragansett Pier, R. I., where they spent the summer.

SHOPPING AT THE BETTER SHOPS PHILADELPHIA WOMEN ARE LEARNING THAT TO SHOP WITH PAULETTE IS TO OBTAIN MERCHANDISE OF UNQUESTIONED TASTE AND QUALITY AT PRICES INDICATING REASONABLE ECONOMY. Ah, my dears, you should see the supreme pelts to be found in the fur salon of the House of Wenger! They have been chosen with the utmost care by experts to insure their perfection. Despite this fact, however, I was surprised to learn that Mr. Wenger is selling furs at less than the New York wholesale prices today. He is able to do this because of his foresight in assembling his 1920 and 1921 furs far in advance. You who wish to be very exclusive will delight in having Mr. Wenger create for you an individual wrap. He is justly famous for his fur originations. Be sure, too, to visit Chertak Wenger's unusual millinery salon upon the first floor. Chertak has just returned from Paris and her salon is a sartorial feast. The House of Wenger is at 1229 Walnut street, just opposite the St. James, and has no connection with any other house by that name.

Upholstered furniture at its best is one of the most satisfying creations of this comfort-loving age, but you must be very sure that it is made in sanitary work shops. Those satisfactory decorators, Kayser & Allman, at 1322 Chestnut street, manufacture their own overstuffed pieces in a very modern, spotless workshop where only the best labor is employed and the finest hair and down obtainable are used. Long have I coveted one of their $215 davenport. You should see me sink into one the moment I enter the beautiful shop—talk about comfort! Nowhere in town have I found so excellent a davenport at such a price. The down is so arranged that it cannot pack, and the davenport is just the right neutral size for the small living room as well as the large. Simply stunning in its Kayser & Allman fireside chair which will accompany this davenport. The springs in Kayser & Allman furniture are tied eight ways, making it almost impossible for them to break or become displaced.

Why do so many women neglect their hair and complexions when they would bestow attractiveness, if not, indeed, real beauty? A man has "beauty" treatments at his barber's! Women should begin the care of the skin and hair immediately after the period of vacation neglect, taking care to patronize a reliable establishment. The shop of Denner & Denney, Inc., at 1515 Walnut street, is a veritable mecca for "frat" Philadelphians. It is delightfully spacious; absolutely sanitary. Treatments obtained there give undeniable results. Visit this better establishment where only proved and scientific methods are used—have the rejuvenating treatments explained in detail. Like myself, once having had a treatment you will immediately arrange for another. Treatments to restore the skin and facial and neck contours are $2 each, $15 for ten, and $35 for twenty-five treatments. Really miraculous scalp treatments are $1 each or twelve for $10. Hot oil shampoos, for which the shop has a reputation, are $2 each.

It's an excellent plan to select garments early in the season, for then you have a wider range of choice. It's the old story of the earliest of the early birds catches the fat of the worms. The shop of Theodore Siefert, that purveyor of reliability, at 428 Walnut street, is already rustling, as it were, with early birds of fashion selecting beautiful fur garments. I rustled there a bit myself and though, to be sure, I purchased only one of their stunning little storm marten neckpieces (of which they have an excellent ensemble), I examined with delight a stunning Hudson seal dolman trimmed with beaver at $950 and coveted a simply ravishing long military cape of marten with a deep collar fashion quite to the waistline, at only $510—a wrap for every hour in the day. I was particularly charmed with the youthful models in coats reasonably priced at from $575 to $950.
