RUSSIA IN SERIOUS WAY, SAY ITALIANS Tokio, Oct. 7.—The Kenselkai party, which is opposed to the government, has voted not to publish resolutions passed

Standstill, Laborites Report

ment some time there.

The Russian people, it says, are completely lacking in experience in politics. The physical condition of the people in towns is at low ebb, owing to insufficient nourishment, while economic life is marked by destitution. The management of industries, which has been placed directly in the hands of workers, is declared to have been disastrous.

Productive organizations have become almost entirely inactive, and the whole country, with the exception of a few localities, has not succeeded in rousing itself from lassitude.

War, it is asserted, has occupied most of the energies of the Bolshevik government, but, judging from what little it tried to do toward the economic reconstruction of the country, it is extremely doubtful, the report says, whether Russia, abandoned as she is to her own resources, can recover herself sufficiently to re-establish tolerable conditionsh of life in that country.

The report, nevertheless, denies the Soviet regime is nearing its end, for, despite the gravity of economic couditions, certain gains of the revolution Soviet regime is nearing its end, for, despite the gravity of economic conditions, certain gains of the revolution have been consolidated.

"It is difficult." says the report, "to foresee the dissolution of the Bolshevik regime, because the Bolshevik, although they number only 600,000 in a population of 160,000,000, have seized all political and economic organizations. population of 160,000,000, have seized all political and economic organizations, and use the utmost means to suppress other parties, which are forbidden to use either propaganda or press. While the revolution tends toward the syndicalist system, in reality it is very different from the ideal program. The capitalist regime has been destroyed, but it has not been replaced by anything that meets even the most elebut it has not been replaced by any-thing that meets even the most ele-mentary needs of a civilized people."

Aviator Tests Fireproofing by Riding Flaming Machine at Night

New York, Oct. 7.—(By A. P.)— Experts of the army and navy avia-tion service today were preparing re-ports to the government on the flying demonstration of a flaming oil-soaked, fire-proofed airplane and its midnight landing device, witnessed by them last night at Mineola. American and Brit-ish experts who saw the spectacular demonstration by Paul Collins, a civil-ian flyer, said it marked one of the most

Before making his ascent to an altitude of 5000 feet Collins's machine was treated throughout with the fire-proof-ing "dope" and then completely saturated with gasoline. Collins himself donned a costume similarly treated. At his highest altitude he set fire to the gasoline and thrilled the countryside gasoline and thrilled the countryside by his flaming cometlike course. On his descent, at about 1000 feet, he also touched off two large flares of magnesium, on the tips of the wings, and by manipulating two large mirrors underneath the fuselage, he illuminated the whole landing field, enabling him to make a perfect "daylight" landing.

The fire-proofing, as well as the mechanical apparatus for operating the device, is the invention of Parker H. Bradley, of Nutley, N. J.

OPPING AT THE

PHILADELPHIA WOMEN ARE RAPIDLY FINDING THAT TO FOLLOW PAULETTE'S SHOPPING ADVICE IS AN ECONOMY OF TIME, MONEY AND ENERGY. BESIDES, ONE MAY ALWAYS DEPEND UPON PAULETTE'S SELECTIONS AS BEING OF UNQUESTIONABLE TASTE.

Have you ever visited that charming shop (if shop can be called) of Hemingway's? It is located at 1524 Locust street, and is more like a luxurious home than a shop. One wanders about over luxurious carpets and into rooms furnished with rare pieces. There is a room devoted solely to wraps, where I was completely ravished by a three-tier cape of silvery moleskin suddenly revealed to me from behind French paneled doors. A brown duvetyne wrap had simulated tucks of Hudson seal-ah, such beauties are these garments! Then Mr. Hemingway imports the most exclusive of Parisian hats, and he has lately secured some beaded bags that are exquisite works of art. There is a mourning room where women can select their black in quiet seclusion, and then there is a daylight room where it is possible to judge colors away from modifying artificial lights. With all its exclusive atmosphere, however, this beautiful shop has prices reasonably consistent with supreme quality.

It's quite exciting the way the Dewees shop at 1122 Chestnut street has expanded, taking in the entire building next door. It is just like going on a thrilling voyage of discovery when you first visit the rejuvenated double shop and hunt the old departments in their new quarters, often to find them glorified beyond recognition. The new departments installed are just those which the shop's patrons most wanted. The new perfume and toilet goods counter (just inside the door) in a shop of this better sort will be heartily patronized. Besides there is a new junior department and a misses' department which the younger sets and small women will joy in. The patronage of this well-known Philadelphia shop has been ncreasing so that more room was absolutely essential. Between you and me, very interesting prices are pre-dominating throughout this expanded shop at the present time—whether it is by way of introduction or not I could not say—but the fact remains.

It is highly important to go to an unquestionably reliable shop when one is purchasing furs. That is why I so gladly recommend you to Theodore Siefert's shop at 1426 Walnut street. Their ensemble this year is charming, from the $575 coat of youthful lines to the luxurious $2000 wraps of more mature cut. I caressed my way from one to the other in an ecstasy of delight. onderful indeed was a natural mink dolman at $3500! The skins are most dexterously matched and it is so gorgeously lined with colorful and gold brocade that one would almost be tempted to wear it inside out. But there are stunning less expensive furs at Siefert's, too, such as opossum, Hudson seal, muskrat, nearseal, etc., etc., both in wraps and small pieces. Speaking of gorgeous capes, however, you would adore a long Hudson seal model deeply collared in kolinsky—why not run in and take a peep at the collection? You'll find it more than worth your while.

There is an annual fall sale that I make it a point never to miss-that of Allen's notion and toilet articles. There is no need to tell you that the well-known shop is at 1214 Chestnut street. Let me quote you some of the interesting prices; seeing is believing! Best makes of 100-yard sewing silk in 300 shades, usually 20c a spool, are now 15c a spool, or $1.75 a dozen. Imported bay rum, 50c size now 35c plus 2c war tax. Dorin's compact face powder, 42c (including war tax) instead of 52c. Coty's heavenly L'Origan extract, 2-oz. size, never sold less than $9.25, can be had for $7.90 with a 32c tax. And these, my dears, are but a bagatelle compared with the many unusual bargains that will reign throughout the notion and toilet goods departments for the entire week. Personally, I intend to turn round and round in those departments of plummy bargains until I discover and stock my sewing and toilet tables with sufficient supplies to last me for some time to come. I'd advise you to follow my example.

Mercy! Horse Show time was here before I knew itthe days do reel by! The Horse Show brings to mind the smartest of tweed garments, for so many are worn at the grounds. Sterling's, at 1210 Walnut street, are always busy fashioning tweeds at this particular time. The Horse Show practically begins the wearing of tweeds for fall. And could you find more fascinating bargains than these Sterling specials-a riding habit in any of an infinite number of smartest tweeds, made to order in from three to five days, at the exceedingly small price of $75? And the new stunning Sterling cape suits in the various tweed mixtures, specially priced at $75? You won't have to wait even five days for a tweed tailored suit if you want to take advantage of a special Sterling ready-made model in imported Scotch tweed at $59.50, whose custom-made price is $100! I should like to have one for myself.

exaggerate not the tiniest bit when I tell you that at the House of Wenger are to be found pelts not to be surpassed by any from the earth's four corners. When it comes to selecting and designing in furs Mr. Wenger is an idealist and an artist before he is a merchant, so that a creation from his atelier, be it one of the smaller furs or one of his luxurious wraps, is as near perfection as one can expect of the sartorial world. Wenger prices, too, are fair and legitimate, the lowest, in fact, consistent with superlative quality. You must see the latest millinery creations of Chertak Wenger's. Daily, too, Chertak Wenger has millinery importations arriving or brings forth from her studio originations of her own. Her charming salon is unusually inviting at the present time. Mr. Wenger is connected with no other house by that name. His establishment is at 1229 Walnut street, directly opposite the St. James.

As you wander along Walnut street on your shopping tour your gaze is suddenly arrested and drawn downward by a flare of luscious color. To be sure, it's Lilla's, at 1305 Walnut street. So you look twice-Lilla's window isn't to be resisted, and then you just naturally gravitate down a wee flight of steps to a shop a bit below the street, and find any number of lovely, high-class feminine things at amazingly low prices. I could scarce believe the tickets upon some of the frocks, models to please the most critical. There is a $49.50 frock of soft heavy black satin, collarless, and elbow sleeved, whose skirt is spaced at intervals with black satin ribbon faced with Pekin blue. Another of pavy kitten's ear satin, also collarless, but vesteed with gold tissue, had simulated tucks of wide moire ribbon with cartridge loops. This frock has three-quarter sleeves. Ravishing! These are but two of many of Lilla's beautiful yet reasonably priced models. But see for yourself.
