

MEALS FOR END OF WEEK SUGGESTED BY MRS. WILSON

Tasty, Appetizing Food Planned for Saturday, Sunday and Monday Evening—Friday Market Basket

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

THE October markets are at the harvest flood tide and show an abundance of the late fall and early winter products. Spinach, cabbage, celery, turnips, carrots, beets will remain the succulent corn, tomatoes and beans. Just about this season lettuce becomes scarce and, therefore, correspondingly high priced and the economic housewife is tempted to omit it from the menu.

The fall and winter diet requires an abundance of green uncooked foods for salads if we are to remain physically fit. A liberal diet of bread, meat and potatoes with pastries and heavy desserts will cause the blood stream to become overrich and therefore sluggish, and it is in this condition that we are apt to catch colds and other winter ills. So for safety's sake see that at least once a day a well-mixed salad of uncooked greens is served to the family in liberal portions. This salad need not be expensive and yet it must be appetizing if the family is to be kept in good health. Trust that you will find it worth the family budget when you start baking home-made bread, cakes, pies and pastries, and the family will also appreciate the home baking. If you have a cold cellar, now is the time to think about storing potatoes for winter days, and with this thought in mind keep the fact plain before you that many of the so-called farmers who visit the city with loads of potatoes are really not farmers at all, so if you purchase from these men you are purchasing the full weight—that is, sixty pounds to the bushel and 100 pounds is bag lots.

Every fall I receive many letters from women who purchase from a street merchant, only to find that they have been short-weighted. The ordinary peach or tomato basket holds one-half bushel, or thirty pounds, when filled with high quality fruit. It is rather than the so-called bushel measure. Potatoes should be covered with fine dry sand and placed in a cool and well-ventilated cellar far from the heater. This week we are planning a suggestive menu to include a Saturday evening dinner, three meals on Sunday and a Monday evening dinner.

SATURDAY DINNER

- Radishes Celery Cheese Canape Baked Pork with Cabbage, Brown Mash Potatoes Gravy Creamed Onions Lettuce Coffee Baked Apples

SUNDAY MORNING BREAKFAST

- Cereal and Cream Coffee French Toast Cereal and Cream Coffee

DINNER

- Cream Tomato Soup Celery Baked Shoulder of Pork Apple Sauce Brown Gravy Sweet Potatoes Spinach Lettuce Coffee Peach Tea

SUPPER

- Welsh Rabbit on Toast Potato Cake Sliced Tomatoes Apple Cake Tea

MONDAY DINNER

- Tomato Canape Olives Salted Peanuts Cold Cuts of Meat Potato Salad Sliced Tomatoes Brown Betty Coffee

The market basket will require two bunches of radishes, and two heads of lettuce.

Menu Contest Honor List

Mrs. H. P. Friend, 1304 Powell Street, Norristown, Pa.

- Roast Pork Apple Sauce Brown Gravy Mashed Potatoes Stewed or Sliced Tomatoes Bread Butter Coffee Grape Pie

SALES SLIP

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include One and one-half pounds pork, One-half pound sugar, One-egg, Potatoes, Tomatoes, Bread and butter, Grapes, Flour, Milk, Lard, Milk salt, etc.

Mrs. Anna Abram, 971 N. Marshall Street.

- Fried Fish with Fried Potatoes Green Peas String Beans Fruit Ice with Strawberries Bread

SALES SLIP

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include One and one-half pounds of frying fish, One-egg, Two tablespoons flour, Two tablespoons oil, One-pound potatoes, One quart of milk, Three tablespoons fat, Two tablespoons four, Salt and pepper, Two oranges, Two lemons, One box strawberries or raspberries, Two cups sugar, Bread.

Miss Betty MacDowell, 855 Glenbrook Avenue, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

- Mock Turtle Soup Baked Flounder Cream Potatoes Onions on Cook Tomatoes on Lettuce with Mayonnaise Dressing Bread and Butter Peach Holy Poly Coffee Cream Sugar

SALES SLIP

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include Mock turtle soup, Flounder, Potatoes, Cream sauce, Corn, Lettuce, Tomatoes, Mayonnaise, Butter, Peaches, Flour, Baking powder, Lard, One cup cream and sugar.

Perhaps next week you will be a winner of the

Prize Menu Contest

Three prizes are offered each week for the best menu for a dollar-and-a-half dinner for four people.

YOUR FULL NAME

must be given and correct address on the menu. Also the date of sending it. The food used must be staples and in season, and a sales-slip giving the cost of all materials must be included.

The prizes are: First, $2.50; second, $1.00; third, $1.00. Address all menus to

Mrs. Wilson's Menu Contest Evening Public Ledger Independence Square

One large bunch of celery.

- One quart of tomatoes, One-quarter peck of white potatoes, One-quarter peck of sweet potatoes, One quart of onions, One and one-half pound head of cabbage, One-half peck of apples, One pound of grapes, One quart of peaches, One-quarter peck of spinach, One-half peck of cheese, One small bottle of olives, One-half pound of peanuts for salting, Shoulder of fresh country pork, weighing about seven pounds.

Braised Pork and Cabbage

Have the butcher cut four slices from the butt and trim them in four and brown quickly in hot fat. Lift and lay on a plate. Then add the finely-shredded cabbage. Cover and then steam until tender. Add a cup of boiling water and the prepared meat. Cover closely and simmer for one hour. Season, dust with paprika and serve.

Select a plump shoulder of young country pork.

Shoulder may be boned and a stuffing put in place of the bones. Try this for filling: Put through the food chopper

Eight outside branches of celery.

Headful of parsley.

One and one-quarter cups of stale bread crumbs.

Turn in a bowl and add one teaspoon of salt. One-half teaspoon of pepper. One-half teaspoon of thyme. One-half teaspoon of sage. Mix and then fill into meat.

Potato Cakes

Place in a mixing bowl one and one-half cups of mashed potatoes.

One and one-half cups of flour, One teaspoon of salt, One level tablespoon of baking powder.

Two tablespoons of shortening, One egg.

Mix to a dough and then roll out one-half inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter and bake on a hot griddle for five minutes. Turn to brown on both sides.

Serve the brown betty with the following sauce: Place the skins of the apples in a saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and cook until the apple skins are very soft. Drain the liquid and then cool. Now add two cups of the liquid from the cooled apple parings, add three-quarters of a cup of sugar, four level tablespoons of cornstarch. Stir to dissolve the sugar and strain and bring to a boil. Cook three minutes and then add: One well-beaten egg, One teaspoon of vanilla extract. Beat hard and then serve.

Seasoning

One egg .05 Total $1.50

Mrs. T. Worrell, 5829 Pemberton Street.

Menu

- Sliced Cucumbers and Onions Salmon Cutlets Tomato Sauce Baked Potatoes String Beans Buttered Beets Lettuce and Mayonnaise Bread Apple Pie Coffee

SALES SLIP

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include One cucumber, One onion, One egg, One can salmon, Two tomatoes for sauce, Bread crumbs for cutlets, Lard for frying, One-eight cup potatoes, One-half cup string beans, One bunch beets, One head of lettuce, Mayonnaise, Five apples for pie, Flour and seasoning, Sugar, One loaf of bread, Butter, Coffee and cream.

Making More Money

"The Girl Who Loved Goats"

It all began when Josephine J. Jenks, of Morristown, N. J., was only eleven years old. Now, five years later, Jenks is one of the few "not the only" goat-shepherdes in the country. And she is doing it in a very profitable way.

The fact that Miss Jenks' flock has increased to thirty milk goats and some twenty kids, in addition to a number of horses, while goat milk is a highly esteemed article of commerce.

"Soon after daddy gave me an ordinary goat and I began to raise goats. I was much interested in the species as a whole," said Miss Jenks, recently, in talking about the summer of her hobby. "It wasn't long before I became what you might call a deep student of goat-raising and I had my own goat farm."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

"An ordinary milk goat will yield two quarts of milk a day, but the best of them will give from seven to eight quarts and, in addition, goats are less liable to contract disease than are cows. For stable accommodations a large packing case or piano box might be used, though I maintain that a goat that is good enough to supply milk is entitled to better quarters than this. The point, however, is that they need very little care, multiply comparatively rapidly, are valuable from a number of stand-points, and bring in a very tidy income. In addition to forming admirable pets it's a wonder to me that more persons are not interested in raising them. They are especially suitable for infants and invalids."

AN ATTRACTIVE BLOUSE

Photo by Old Masters, Central News.

There are all kinds of fascinating things to wear with suits and separate skirts this year. This one has sleeves and body of silk voile, with a dainty little edging of narrow lace. The slip-over effect is achieved with a material that resembles net in heavy silk, and there are tracings of silk braid all over it.

CARELESS HEARTS

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1920, by the Public Ledger Company

Two Women

Diana and Julian long thought divorce a simple way out of a marriage that bored them. But afterward they learned that they loved each other.

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"I had not been for the fact that the people who cared for them undertook to bring them together again, they might have gone through life conscious that they had made a tremendous mistake."

"