TOM BURKE GIVES

Irish Tenor Appears Before Good-Sized Audience. Which He Pleases

Tom Burke, the widely heralded Irish tenor, made his first appearance in Philadelphia at the Academy of Music last evening. There was a goodsized audience present and as a wh they gave him a cordial reception. Mr. Burke obtained his vocal educ Mr. Burke obtained his vocal educa-tion in Italy and is therefore a thor-oughly Italianized Irish singer. His voice is very high and of good quality. but he does not always use it in the manner to obtain the best results. He uses the full-chest tones almost constantly, with the consequence that most of his upper tones are forced and while very powerful, the quality is often

Mr. Burke sang first the prayer from "Otello" and after an encore gave a group of songs by Grieg, Dorel, the "Questa o Onella" from "Rigoletto" which he was obliged to repeat, and Hughes' arrangement of the Irish folk song "The Minstrel Boy." to the enthusiastic reception of which he sang "Mother Machree." His final appearance was a set of five Irish songs in which he scored another success.

What Mr. Burke's natural style of singing may have been is hard to say applause which their merits deserved. The accompaniment work of Frank St. Leger was unusually fine and in the best of taste throughout.

Mr. Burke sang first the prayer from singing may have been is hard to say, so thoroughly has he absorbed the Italian atmosphere. He is inclined to emphasize the quality of sentiment in his songs, going at times to extremes in this particular. In the Irish songs and before an audience sympathetic with them, this, while not great artistry, was by no means unpleasant. Mr. Burke is an interesting singer rather thap a great one as yet.

The principal was assisted by two very capable young women, Miss Hazel Moore, a good soprano, who sang with much taste, and Miss Helen Scholder, a young celliste, with a moderately good tone and an unusually well-trained telft hand. Both were accorded that applause which their merits deserved.
