Nancy Wynne Talks of Today's Weddings—She Hears of the Stokes-Babbott Marriage in Long Island.

A Day Nursery Benefit

TWO weddings today and two very pretty ones at that! Dickie Newbold and Steve Colhoun were married in Jenkintown about noon, and Virginia Roberts and Percy Glendinning were married in Chestnut Hill at the same hour.

The families of both brides are in mourning, so the weddings were not large and the receptions were only for the immediate families, and very intimate. Dickie Newbold, who you remember, died last June; and Virginia Roberts's grandmother died in July or August.

THE bride, I think, Dickie had her sister, a maid of honor, and her sister, a maid of honor, and her sister, a maid of honor, and her sister, a maid of honor.

Perhaps the most charming part of Virginia Roberts's bridal procession was her flower girls. They were none other than her two sisters, Maria Bullitt, who is respectively six and four years of age, and they preceded their aunt and the bride. Small Dorothy had rather a dark hair as can be seen.

Virginia's first cousin, Ella Routh Appleton, was her maid of honor, and Marie Kenney, who by the way, engaged to Julian Bishop, of New York, was the maid of honor.

Both of Percy Glendinning's cousins, Mary and Ellen, were bridesmaids, and Virginia's sister, Edith, was another, as were Rebecca Thomson, Miss Jean Thayer and Theodora Lillie. So you will admit that pretty girls in had some pretty bridesmaids.

TALKING OF weddings, that must have been a very pretty one of the Stokes-Babbott wedding in Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stokes, of Moorestown, N. J., and a nephew of Stodgett Stokes, N. J., and a nephew of Stodgett Stokes, N. J., and a nephew of Stodgett Stokes, N. J.

The wedding took place at the Babbott's country home on Long Island and was witnessed by about fifty of the families and several hundred attended the reception afterwards. My friend, the bride, was there and told me that it was about as usual.

It was fashioned of Rose Point lace and white chiffon velvet. Now you know the difference of the lace and the skirt was velvet with a long train which came from the waist line.

That kind of gown is infinitely more beautiful than the old-fashioned, and the court train allowed by the regulations of the bride's family, I may be prejudiced, but the court train allowed by the regulations of the bride's family, I may be prejudiced, but the court train allowed by the regulations of the bride's family, I may be prejudiced.

SPEAKING OF Edwins, I saw her in Walnut street one day this week, and she was looking stunning in a one-piece blue serge frock which was embroidered in blue and held in at the waist with a narrow belt of the material.

THE Main Line women are much interested in a large entertainment that is to take place the last of this month for the benefit of the Sunnyside Day Nursery, 1211 Thompson street. A Halloween party has been planned which will offer many varieties for the children in the afternoon, and the evening will be given over to dancing for the debutantes and their sets.

How the Strike Against High Prices is Being Won
For a long time, remarks the New York Times, "high prices seemed like the weather, about which, as Mark Twain said, everybody talked but nothing was done." Then the buying public, reacting at last from the wave of extravagance that swept the country in war time, began a few months ago to rebel against the ever-diminishing purchasing power of the dollar. The result of this action is seen in the dramatic price cuttings in the wholesale market last month, which affected wheat, corn, oats, wool, cotton, automobiles, textiles, clothing, food-stuffs, metal, leather, and many other commodities. The wholesale prices of these commodities have declined on the average about 20% below the high prices of February, according to R. E. Edmundson, of the New York News Record, a commercial daily, who predicts that these cuts are "certain to be reflected in a reduced cost of living—removing the usual excuses for striking to get higher wages." Dispatches from various cities report that the progression of falling prices in the retail trade has already begun.
The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, October 9th, will be read with great satisfaction by the public. It gives a comprehensive review, drawn from all sources of information, of the conditions of trade in the United States, including the prospects for the country's getting back on a lower price level without affecting the hours or wages of labor.
