

MANY SUFFERERS FLOCK TO HEALER

Father Hathaway, of Norristown, Opens Mission in St. John's Episcopal Church

SOME ARE DISAPPOINTED

At least 400 persons, including the blind, deaf, dumb and lame, flocked to St. John's Episcopal Church, Germantown avenue and Seymour streets, last night, to be healed by faith in the prayers of the Rev. Harry St. Clair Hathaway.

The Rev. Mr. Hathaway, rector of St. John's Church, Norristown, has opened the first healing mission in the history of the Pennsylvania diocese of the Episcopal Church.

Many of the sufferers were disappointed when the Rev. Mr. Hathaway did not heal them at once. Actual praying and the laying on of hands will be begun by the faith healer tomorrow night. Father Hathaway said he desired to weed out the careless, the experimenting and the curious, so that only those with the requisite faith remained.

In his lecture Father Hathaway, like James Moore Hixson, layman-healer of the Church of England, emphasized that whatever healing power he might exercise would not be his, but God's. Even as Mr. Hixson, he likened himself into a "pipe through which flows the water of life."

"The healer," he said, "is he who brings into the sufferer the virtue of God—the virtue of the life more abundant. To use a dangerous term in an entirely new way, he is God's medium. I can imagine even an unworthy individual being used for this divine purpose. There is almost nothing personal in it. Do, therefore, not look upon the channel of the healing grace as different from the rest of frail humanity. I need your prayers."

Father Hathaway declared that sickness, no more than sin, was the will of God. It was the work of the devil, he said. He quoted the twenty-six passages of the Bible referring to the healings of Christ and pointed out that in almost each one of them mention was made of "great multitudes" that were cured. In that connection, he emphasized that the Saviour charged His disciples to continue that work.

BIG TOE HELD WORTH $800

Camden Jury Awards That Sum to Boy Injured in Trolley Crash

A Camden Circuit Court jury has placed a value on a man's big toe. George H. Tomlinson, Jr., of 2016 Carman street, in a suit against the Public Service Railway Co., averred that the ligaments controlling the action of the toe were destroyed when he was injured, on May 22 last, in a collision between two trolley cars on the Clementon line.

The disputed toe was exhibited in court to show that its owner had no control over it. He was awarded $800, and a like sum was given to his father for loss of services.

JEALOUS OF VOICE, HE KILLS HIMSELF

Man Rushes to Kitchen and Uses Knife When Girl Gets Telephone Call

Angered when the girl upon whom he was calling received a telephone call from another man, Seymour Blau, twenty-six years old, 609 South Fifty-sixth street, stabbed himself with a butcher knife, the police say, inflicting a wound of which he died later.

The girl, Miss Ethel Auritsky, 252 South Sixtieth street, explained to the police later that there was no reason for Blau's insane jealousy, as the telephone call was from a male cousin of hers.

WOMAN HIT BY TRAIN DIES

Haste to Get Tickets Called Cause of Tragedy

Miss Annie Moran, fifty-five years old, 5516 Morton street, died in the Germantown Hospital yesterday from injuries received when she was struck by a train at the Chelton avenue station of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

Miss Moran was accompanied by Mrs. Charles J. McCarthy, 104 East Chelton avenue. The two were about to buy tickets. The safety gates were lowered. In a hurry to get the tickets and catch the train, Miss Moran slipped under the gates, according to witnesses. She ran across the track and was struck by the train, which hurled her against a fence at the side of the tracks. A fractured skull was the cause of the death.

$175 FOR AN IDEA!

READ THIS CAREFULLY

WE ARE OFFERING $175 FOR SUGGESTIONS CONCERNING ADVERTISING D. W. GRIFFITH'S "WAY DOWN EAST."

This production has received the greatest newspaper notices ever accorded any photoplay. Audiences applaud wildly, and sometimes shout themselves hoarse. Crowds flock everywhere the play is shown.

Nevertheless, it is necessary that every human being throughout the world be told about this.

You would not know about the great heroes battling at Troy, or in Greece, but for Homer telling you about it.

We must tell the people of the world—Italy, Scandinavia, from Japan to Australia, through every hamlet in these United States, about "Way Down East."

We find it most difficult to decide what to tell them.

They say such wonderful things about it; that is the trouble—TOO MANY WONDERFUL THINGS. We must select only two or three things to talk about in our advertising, as space in a newspaper is very expensive.

We try to tell by the APPLAUSE, but they applaud A LITTLE WHITE KITTEN going to sleep on the constable's front porch.

They always GASP and then applaud the tense HEART-STRAINING scene when Anna Moore accidentally meets the man who wrecked her life.

But they applaud JUST AS LOUDLY when the sleighing party goes jingling by in a gust of wholesome revelry.

The audiences here in Philadelphia applaud and sometimes stand up and cheer when the girl is snatched from death on the roaring ice floe, which, as one New York critic said, is "the greatest spectacle ever seen on sea or land."—(N. Y. Globe, Sept. 4.)

So, you see, we cannot judge BY APPLAUSE alone.

Just what, then, shall we tell them about?

Ministers and moralists have proclaimed it THE GREATEST MORAL LESSON ever published. It drives home the lesson that we must have the same kind of moral life FOR MEN as FOR WOMEN.

SHALL WE TELL THEM THIS?

Or is it the wonderful, uplifting unselfishness of a woman's soul told in the story of Anna Moore. Anna's betrayal by Sanderson, her upward ascent through the ONE GREAT LOVE with David, the farmer boy?

Or that sweetest and tenderest love story ever told, the warmest and deepest passions of which human lives are capable; the yearning of tremendous unsatisfied desires?

NOTE—Owing to cost, length of production and ironbound contracts, this production never can be shown at less than first-class theatre prices.

Because of POPULAR DEMAND, "Way Down East" will remain at the Chestnut Street Opera House for TWO ADDITIONAL WEEKS. To avoid disappointments, order your seats in advance, for all seats are reserved.

Or is it the COMEDY? The jingling sleigh bells, the rollicking barn dances, the Rabelaisian horseplay, the heart of the old New England scenes through the beautiful side of an old New Hampshire household?

Or shall we tell of its SUBLIME BEAUTY—paintings which the art critics say "are fit to be hung on the walls of any art gallery?"

Or is it the great BALLROOM SCENE, in which real society leaders, gowned in magnificent clothes from New York, Paris and the queen cities of the world, act their parts just as they live them in New York's exclusive homes?

Or those splashes of MAD LIFE in Sanderson's "apartments"—the lair of the old Polygamous ideal, where those beautiful women practiced the old lures and fascinations of the Babylonian tempters? (For this scene the stage beauties who never leave New York; the petted, pampered darlings of the great city, were secured. Those whom you have read about, the dashing girls of the Follies, the Roof Shows, the Beauty Palaces; the artists' models.)

So we have decided TO LEAVE IT TO YOU, THE PUBLIC, to decide.

What is the single feature of "WAY DOWN EAST" that STANDS OUT in your memory MOST FORCIBLY?

We will give One hundred and Seventy-five Dollars CASH for the three best suggestions for an advertisement pointing out the drawing value of Mr. Griffith's great production.

We want YOU to give not only YOUR OWN opinion, but what you believe is the UNIVERSAL opinion. This you can only get by consulting ALL CLASSES of people which go to make up LIFE.

The matter of expressing the idea is not important. The less you know about the theatre and advertising, the better your suggestion is apt to be.

In writing your opinion, use one side of the paper only. Do not write more than TWO HUNDRED WORDS. It is not an ARTICLE or ESSAY we want—just YOUR OPINION, your IDEA on advertising "WAY DOWN EAST."

The prizes will be distributed through the hands of Mr. Whittaker Ray, manager of the CHESTNUT STREET OPERA HOUSE. Send your suggestions to Mr. Ray.

Of course, you need no assurance of our sincerity. First prize, $100. Second prize, $50. Third prize, $25.

(Contest closes at midnight, Monday, November 1st)

"The Shortest Route to the Mail-Chute"

Deere & Webber, Minneapolis, say: "Generally speaking, we find that operators transcribing from The Dictaphone can get out 20 to 23 1/2% more letters in a day than when they were obliged to take shorthand notes and transcribe from the same."

Western Union Telegraph Company. J. H. Willaver, Vice-President in charge of Commercial Dept., says: "The Dictaphone is in extensive use in our various departments and is giving good satisfaction. After The Dictaphone was tried out experimentally in the first instance, a short experience showed it to be a time-and-money saver. Our use of The Dictaphone has grown steadily."

Albert Pick & Company, Chicago, Ill. Mr. Albert Pick, Jr., says: "We are using 55 Dictaphones in our Adjustment, Sales, and Purchasing Departments. The gratifying results that we have secured from these machines can be ascribed to the increased speed with which our correspondence is handled and to the convenience of being able to dictate at any time."

Hamilton Watch Company, Lancaster, Pa., says: "We believe that we were the first manufacturing concern in our city to use The Dictaphone. Our experience with The Dictaphone has been most satisfactory. It is a time-saver indeed."

There is but one Dictaphone, trade-marked "The Dictaphone," made and merchandised by the Columbia Graphophone Co.
