Mayor of New York Refuses to Answer Charge He Saw Dry Act Violated

OF GUESTS

Mayor Hylan, of New York, has not yet seen fit to answer the charge made by J. C. Daschbach, of the PUBLIC LEDGER staff, that the chief executive LEDGER Stall. that the chief executive of the greatest American metropolis had been a guest on the evening of October 3 at a dinner in a Sheepshead bay inn, where "champagne corks popped holes in the Volstead act and the eighteerth amendment.

Yesterday the reporter called at Mayor
Hrian's office, and in his absence, left with his secretary a letter written in answer to the Mayor's complaint against Mr. Daschbach's former charge that the New York police were connected with the "whisky ring" in that city.

In part the letter read as follows:

"I now desire to submit to you the following, which, to the best of my knowledge and belief is true, and to request that you fulfill your promise to have Commissioner Enright take immediate action:

distriction:

"On Sunday night, October 3, 1920, closing festivities were held at Villepigne's Inn, Sheepehead bay.

"Witnesses to the orgy that then took place say that champagne, whisky, cocktails and all sorts of drinks of an intoricating nature, prohibited for beverage purposes by the Volstead act and a delicenth amendment, flowed in be eighteenth amendment, flowed in the greater torrents than they did be-tre prohibition was enacted.

Later Mr. Daschbach, with other reporters, tried to get a statement from the mayor, but his reply to their questions was to wave his arm to Edward Quinn, police lieutenant assigned to the mayor's office, and command loudly:

"Keep these fellows out of here."

W. Lee Smith, negro head waiter at the inn. was asked whether Frank L. Boyd, the new prohibition enforcement officer for the New York district, had been present.

"Lordy, I hope not," the negro ex-claimed fervently.

"But let me tell you something. The best people to get it from is the revenue agents. They are the biggest liquor sell-rest in New York and they have the best stuff, too. Sometimes the stuff the police have isn't so good."

Sincerely yours, "J. C. DASCHBACH, Reporter."

The letter, in Mayor Hylan's absence, was handed to his secretary and sonin-law, J. F. Sinnott.

Mayor—For Once—Speechless

Later Mr. Daschbach, with other reporters, tried to get a statement from the mayor, but his reply to their question at the inn, and only on his own witten order, became philosophic in discussing the general question of prohibition.

"You can't put a law into effect that way, nohow," he said. "Why, all sorts of hig officials have begged me for a drink.

"But let me tell you something. The best people to get it from its the revenue agents. They are the biggest liquor sell-rest in New York" had begged him for a drink, and when he wouldn't give it to them, had gone elsewhere to get it and then brought it to the inn to drink. TOWS SHIP INTO PORT The Hog Island-built steamship Satartia reached St. John's, New Brunswick, late yesterday with the disabled steamer Lake Furnas in tow. The crippled vessel was picked up five days ago about 250 miles off St. John's. The Satartia was launched April 12, 1919. Her rescue of the Lake Furnas makes the sixteenth to date by Hog Island-built ships.
