

SCORES ANOINTED AT 'FAITH MISSION'

Men, Women and Children, Sick and Blind, Visit Germantown Church

FATHER HATHAWAY SPEAKS

One hundred and thirty-eight men, women and children, including the blind and the sick, the maimed and the halt, knelt before the altar of St. John's Episcopal Church, Germantown avenue and Seymour street, last night.

There were prayers on their lips and there was faith in their hearts as they awaited their turn to be spiritually healed by the Rev. H. St. Clair Hathaway, of Norristown.

More than 500 persons, mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers of the afflicted, crowded the church, and as Father Hathaway began the laying on of hands and the anointing each faithful one with oil, they stood and solemnly chanted: "Hail me, oh my Saviour, heal."

Miracle of Faith

Those who had come to the church to witness a miracle saw it in the faith and hope of the men, women and children, who sought to be healed, unshaken by years of helpless affliction.

The preliminary services had been held at the "faith mission" by Father Hathaway. At those meetings he made no attempt at healing, but prepared the afflicted for last night's service.

Six children with misshapen legs and arms were aided to the altar by their parents. Elderly women, blind for years, were led to the side of Father Hathaway. Their faith was as simple as that of the children. From their world of constant night they reached out and up, confident they would see again.

Father Hathaway laid his hands on their heads, and repeated a prayer. They were then anointed with oil by the Rev. F. M. Wetherill, rector of the church.

Hope Also Needed

Before the laying on of hands Father Hathaway addressed the afflicted and their families.

"We need not only faith," he told them, "but that spiritual supernatural hope which will lead us to look forward with certainty, feeling that that for which we pray must happen because God has promised it.

"I feel that it would be the work of the devil himself," he said, "if I would stand back when God has seemed to give me this power to help you. But remember, that the power is of God, who works through men. You would not hesitate to go to his appointed priests for the administering of the sacrament. This is a sacrament, also, so why should you hesitate to come to me?"

"Don't come with the idea of testing God, saying, 'If I am cured, the Lord be praised; but if I am not, then I don't think there is anything to it.' Do not tempt the Lord, but come with faith and go away thanking God and dedicating your whole future to a life of prayer and thanksgiving."

Services of instruction and healing will be conducted tonight and Friday night. Special services were also held at 10 o'clock this morning and will be continued at that hour tomorrow morning.

Father Hathaway will close his services Friday night, but the rector will continue the work of healing in connection with the Wednesday and Sunday services.

THIEVES STEAL TROUSERS

800 Pairs Valued at $4000 Taken From Factory

Four men in a motor truck broke into the factory of the A. Rice Manufacturing Co., at Hammonton, N. J., shortly after midnight yesterday morning and escaped with 800 pairs of trousers, valued at $4000.

Residents of the vicinity saw the men at work, but they went about their work so openly that the citizens concluded that they were employees of the plant preparing an early morning shipment and did not report them to the police.

"FRIENDS" TAKE CLOTHES

Lester, Pa., Man Robbed of Money and Suit After One Drink

Coming to Philadelphia in his best clothes to have the time of his life, Fred Galle, forty-five years old, of Lester, Pa., returned to his home yesterday in borrowed clothes and with just enough money to pay his fare home.

Galle arrived here and became friendly with two strangers. They invited him to have a drink, after which they all took a walk. He was found unconscious in a vacant lot at Ambler and Somerset streets early yesterday morning, dressed in his undergarments. His "friends" robbed him of his money, shoes, hat and suit.

THIS IS PENN'S BIRTHDAY

Founder of City Was Born 276 Years Ago

This is the 276th anniversary of the birth of William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania and Philadelphia.

He was thirty-eight years old when he established this city as the home of the little band of Quakers who accompanied him to America from England.

Appropriate exercises marked the anniversary in the Wanamaker store. The program included organ recitals, a concert by the Wanamaker Cadet Band, and presentation of colors at the Penn tablet at the Juniper street entrance of the store.

PUBLIC MAY USE ACADEMY FOYER

Large Hall on Second Floor Has Been Redecorated—Will Be Ready Next Month

ROOM IS SOUND-PROOF

The foyer of the Academy of Music is to be opened to the public Tuesday, November 16, for social and artistic affairs. The foyer is being altered under the direction of the Academy's manager. The foyer, which is not to be confused with the lobby in that building, occupies the entire Broad street frontage of the upper floor.

The foyer is as historic as the Academy auditorium itself. It has been the scene of many distinguished affairs recorded in Philadelphia's social history. The room, 82 feet long, 28 feet wide and 34 feet high, is as perfect in its acoustics as the main Academy auditorium itself, is equipped with a separate heating and ventilating system and has a seating capacity of 500. The management describes it as just such a room as Philadelphia has long needed wherein an audience may feel a sense of friendly and intimate comfort.

By the new vacuum process the Academy foyer has been made sound-proof so that the sounds of traffic on Broad street are entirely excluded, as are also the corridor noises from the Academy proper. The vacuum system makes it possible for two concerts to be given simultaneously in the Academy and in the foyer without one audience being aware of the other.

The foyer walls have been redecorated, the crystal chandeliers heightened and electrified and more than 500 alternately amber and pink lights installed, affecting a soft radiance of illumination. In the place of the present windows and doorways there have been installed fifteen Colonial mirror doors of Belgian glass sixteen feet high, the arrangement giving the effect of a vast crystal room.

A consultant decorator has selected two sets of chairs for the room, the one for assemblies and the other for dances and teas. The foyer has separate dressing rooms and two special entrances from the main ones on Broad street.

The foyer may be engaged for any morning, afternoon or evening for all affairs of a social, civic, musical or artistic nature which receive the approval of the management in its purpose to preserve the foyer for such occasions as shall represent the best in their particular field.

A nominal rental has been fixed for the use of the foyer, which may also be used in connection with large affairs in the auditorium of the Academy.

DANSEYS BID STATE TO FIND MURDERER

Parents of Little Billy Issue Statement Demanding His Death Be Avenged

PROSECUTION STILL HOPES

Mr. and Mrs. Hercules Dansey, parents of "Billy" Dansey, have called upon the state of New Jersey to find the murderers of their son and avenge his death.

Their first statement since "Billy," then three years old, disappeared from his home last October, was issued today, following the grand jury's refusal to return true bills against Charles White and Mrs. Edith Jones, who had been held as suspects.

"If the commonwealth of New Jersey can completely let the blood of our innocent baby, murderously spilled on New Jersey soil, dry up and be forgotten, the family bears no malice, but only unending sorrow at the ignominious insult cast at us through the failure of justice so far in the state where we make our home."

In the statement, Mr. and Mrs. Dansey tell how they moved to Hammonton, N. J., where the murder occurred, in the summer of 1919, in the hope that the climate there would benefit Mr. Dansey's health, and they could settle down and prosper. Then the statement continues:

"Before we had hardly got acquainted our terrible misfortune befell us. The body found in the Folsom swamp has positively, without the slightest doubt, been identified by the family as our child, Billy Dansey, and we believe, without question, he has been murdered. The family is sadly dismayed and discouraged over the failure, so far, to uncover the murderers of little Billy. Every new clue will be followed to the end, he said.

Mays Landing Court House yesterday was crowded with Hammonton neighbors of the accused, and news of their release from suspicion was the signal for an impromptu celebration.

White is the son of Councilman White, of Hammonton, and that town plans a big celebration in honor of the vindication. Between the time of their arrest, last December, and the acquittal the accused man and woman were out on $75,000 bail.

Mr. and Mrs. Dansey will move from Hammonton to their old home near Pittsburgh, Pa., taking with them the skeleton found in the woods. It will be buried near Pittsburgh.

R. Ellsworth Jones, a lawyer, cousin of Mrs. Dansey, whose home is in Baltimore, said they would leave New Jersey because it was an unsafe place in which to live.

WILLIAMS PROBATED TODAY

Two wills were admitted to probate and three inventories of personal property were filed today in City Hall. Relatives were the beneficiaries in the following wills: John B. Bowen, who died in Atlantic City on October 4, 1920, and John Hanarty, 154 North Fifty-seventh street, $15,725. The inventories were as follows: Ralph R. Hurst, $91,155.70; Anna B. Hurst, $8202.66; and Harry C. Harmon, $11,400.66.

Oil breaks down in motors—but how fast?

That is the one certain test of quality that any novice can make—right from the driver's seat, for the question is answered by how long the oil lasts.

Heat destroys the volatile units in oil, leaving useless carbon. Quality oils offer a greater resistance to heat—they break down slower, in consequence, and last longer.

The next time you fill up with oil note how many miles you get for your money—then make exactly the same test with Crew Levick Motor Oil. What you save in a year through Crew Levick Motor Oil will more than pay for all the Crew Levick Cup Grease and Special Gear Compound for the rest of the car.

Wherever you see the Crew Levick trade-mark you can buy these Crew Levick products.
