Nancy Wynne Speaks of the Coxe Tea This Afternoon. The Frazer-Glendinning Marriage an Event of the Day

tens this week to make one realize that the season is here and going strong, don't you think? Nancy McKean on Monday. Polly Gelscom on Tuesday, Mary Thayer on Thursday. Priscilla Davis yesterday and Jane Coxe today. While last night there was the Boyd party, which was in the way of a coming out, too.

The Coxe tea today is at Will's. brooke Farm, which is beyond Paoli to-ward Malvern. I know you turn off at Paoli station to the left and go up that slanting road and pass three or four oss-roads and there you are.

It's a perfect place and will be wonderful for the tea. But I tell you it takes great love of those giving these affairs to go way out in the country like that. It takes the whole afternoon, but if one has the time what a beautiful ride it is back there on the Main off from the leading thoroughfares, around back past the McFaddens, and Clarks, and Ellises, and Merchants, and Evanses, and Cassatts and Rosengar-tens and all those other wonderful places which are several miles back rom the railroad. I must say I do like from the railroad. I must say I do like those trips.

Next month the parties will be given in town and will continue on through the winter till the spring, when the debs of 1921-22 will begin to flutter their small wings and we'll be getting ready to introduce a whole lot of new ones. There are a number of unusually pretty girls for that season, too. They are around seventeen now, and just as sweet

To go back to the Coxe tea this aiternoon. In case you do not intend to go out by car Mr. and Mrs. Coxe have arranged to have the trains at Paoli met motors, so it is only a simple matter going to Broad Street Station for 3:40, 4:15 or 4:40 trains.

OPEAKING of passing the Herbert Oclarks' place reminds me. Did I tell you that Mrs. Clark and Conway and Eleanor are going to Europe next month and will stay over there in Paris for the winter? They have been up in Canada this summer camping in the open country, you know, and then home for a couple of months. Marys and her husband, George Harfor the winter. They expect to live on a sugar plantation, but I do not think they have gone yet. Mrs. Clark and the little girls will sail on Novemher 6 and the girls will go to school in Paris. A little later in the season Mr. Clark will also go over and stay the rest of the time with them.

OF COURSE the world and his wife will go out to Chestnut Hill at 4 o'clock today for Ellen Glendinning's weiding. It's to be an awfully pretty affair, for Ellen will make a darling little bride and Mary is to be her maid of honor, and she has the dearest face. And then the other girls in the bridal party are very pretty. Virginia Roberts Glendinning, who was married last Saturday, has returned from her wedding true to take yeart. She is her wedding trip to take part. She is a bridesmaid and Percy is an usher. Ellen's other bridesmaids are Mary Norris, Betty Welsh, Gertrude Cona-way, Pauline Bell, Marion Baird, Emmy Schwartz, Peggy Rosengarten. Isabel Frazer, who is Percy's sister, and Eleanor Thofanson. and Eleanor Thompson.

The ushers are John Whelen, Jimmie Altenus, Sam Carpenter, Paul Denckla, Wister, Randolph, Percy Glendinning, Robert Glendinning, Jr.,

TEAN is a very busy little person. In fact, she is so busy all day long that mother finds it usually wiser to have her within the range of the human eye. Now Jean has a wee rocking chair which once belonged to her great grandmother, and she is very fond of that wee chair and plays with it that wee chair and plays with it The other day mother had to go up-stairs and so she called Jean to come. teo. Jean arose reluctantly and then she called to mother: "Do I have to and Graham Dougherty.

"Yes, dear, why not?" "Well, this working chair is talkin' me." "Talking to you, Baby, what do you mean?" Oh, it's talkin', it thays Jean 'tay wif me, or take me upstairs.' NANCY WYNNE.
