

H. H. HOUSTON POST LEADS LEGION HERE

First Unit Organized in City Still Has Largest Membership, Approximately 900

SOME MAY LOSE CHARTERS

Henry H. Houston Post, of Germantown, the first American Legion post organized in Philadelphia, still leads in membership, with approximately 900 paid-up legionaries.

have only a score of members, although they have been organized a year. This indicates the organizers of these posts have not exerted themselves sufficiently to be given any further consideration, and the department commander will not likely permit these dormant posts to continue to exist.

A reunion of Base Hospital Unit No. 20 members has been planned for November 12 at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. About 125 out of an available 450 members have joined the association, which is headed by Dr. J. B. Carnett.

Legion representatives from posts of the second district will gather tonight at a dinner at the Lorraine Hotel, Broad street and Fairmount avenue, to consider advisability of providing a central headquarters for all posts in this district.

Injured Man Reports Hold-Up Peter Smith, fifty years old, 2441 Cumberland street, reported to the police of the Tenth and Buttonwood streets station this morning that he had been held up last night by two unidentified men at Seventh and Buttonwood streets.

Exide BATTERIES
Submarines in the Seven Seas
The majority of all submarines in the world are propelled under the sea by the current from Exide Batteries. For firing guns, auxiliary lighting, and a dozen other purposes the infallible power of the Exide is relied on by our navy and the navies of various foreign nations.
On land, as at sea, Exide Batteries are supplying dependable power for every industry where batteries are used.
Exides provide the current for telephone systems, the reserve power for central lighting stations, the motive power for street trucks, tractors and mine locomotives, the lights for farm homes and railroad trains, the power that starts and lights automobiles.
Into each Exide goes the experience gained in every field by the oldest and largest manufacturers of storage batteries in the world.
