BRITISH COAL MEN READY FOR PARLEY

Premier in Receptive Frame of Mind, but Says Settlement Must Be Final

By the Associated Press

London, Oct. 20 .- Negotiations which might settle the strike of British miners the house. are believed to be assured. Government officials and labor leaders who outlined their positions before the opening session of Parliament have shown their desire to reach an understanding. Belief is general today that both sides are drawing up proposals.

Premier Lloyd George has definitely declared he is ready to enter into ne-gotiations, but he has laid emphasis on the fact that the government wants a final settlement of the differences Champion Colt to Be Feature at which brought about a cessation of work in British mines last Saturday.

He has stated plans for a tentative wage increase pending a complete adthat method of meeting the present sit-uation would threaten trouble later. Coal production, he holds, must be aug mented, and he may submit some pro posals which will deal with this phase of the situation.

VAN DYKE APPEALS TO FIRST VOTERS

an appeal addressed to all of those who will vote this year for the first time, the women as well as the first voters among the men. Dr. Van Dyke's statement says:

"There is one issue at stake in this election which rises above all partisan questions. You are fortunate, if you have it so, to be able to cast your first vote on such a transcendant issue. You can put aside the minor debates by which elections are so often confused.

"There are two candidates for the presidency of the United States. Fortunately they are both good men with an honorable record. On many points their policies agree, with only slight differences of accent and emphasis, all of which are likely to be modified when they come to practice. You may fairly say that one of the candidates is a prudent aggressive, while the other is a cautious conservative. This distinction, in an ordinary election, might determine your preference. You might say without reproach, Both of these candidates are trustworthy men on matters of trade and taxation and transters of trade and taxation and trans portation; neither of them is a wrecker; therefore, I shall simply vote the ticket of my father's (or my husband's) "But this is not an ordinary elec-

Governor Cox frankly favors going into the League of Na-tions with such action as will make it clear that the obligations assumed by the United States do not involve abdithe United States do not involve abdication or sovereignty or change in the constitution. Senator Harding, after many doubtful utterances, says forthight: "I do not want to clarify these obligations: I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection, that I am seeking." Surely this is plain enough. Why muddle the issue with far-fetched explanations?
