

PENN SQUAD IN SHAPE FOR PANTHER GAME

McAnally Only Varsity Jersey Wearer on Injured List. Mike Whitehill, Joe Straus and Several Other Cripples Expect to See Action Saturday

Undismayed at the two straight reverses suffered in as many weeks, Coach John Heisman and his Pennsylvania football squad scored yesterday afternoon to prepare for Pitt and the three other games on the Red and Blue schedule. Contrary to the previous week, when Y. M. I. crowned Captain Hopper and his mates, the Penn players have cast aside the feeling of gloom and are intent on one thing—to retrieve the two defeats by scoring victories over the coming four opponents.

There is a general feeling on the campus that the team has an even chance for victory with Pitt, and this feeling is held by the players. The wonderful work of the Red and Blue backfield in the fourth period of last Saturday's contest has instilled into the players that they have an offensive that can gain ground even under the most adverse conditions.

This week the offense will be polished up considerably with a view to getting into the proper shape to drive against Pitt. Scouts who viewed the Panthers in action against Lafayette say that Penn played a much better game against the Eastons and that general improvement during the week will make the game an uncertainty.

The players are willing to admit yesterday that they made grievous mistakes in the State game and they are a unit in declaring that there will not be a repetition this Saturday. We learned a lot against State and will certainly profit by the mistakes we made," said one of the players yesterday as he romped around the field.

The same opinion is held by all the players who are convinced that they may upset the dogs on Saturday and hand Pitt its first defeat of the year.

Yesterday was more of a holiday than any previous Monday this season. Virtually the entire varsity squad had the afternoon off, some to take examinations they were unable to take on Thursday and Friday when they were sojourning at Whitmarsh, and others to have a day of rest.

The team, as a whole, came through Saturday's tilt without suffering any injuries. McAnally, the lad who scored the only Red and Blue touchdown, was the only member of the squad to suffer any severe injuries. He twisted his knee around with the aid of a cane, Billy Morris, the master rubber, expects to have him in shape before the week is out.

Joe Straus, whose injured ankle greatly handicapped him for the short time he was in Saturday's contest, was not on the field during the afternoon, but his teammates stated that they expected the Texan to get into the scrimmage drill by tomorrow. Carl Thomas and Bud Hopper, who have been suffering from injured elbows, reported that they were none the worse for the hard play of Saturday's game and that if anything they would be in better shape this Saturday.

Wagner, Thurman, Harvey, Whitehill, Miller and several of the other members of the team who have been suffering from minor injuries, all reported in great shape. Whitehill expects to scrimmage all this week unless injured again will start against the Panthers.

There was some talk on Franklin Field yesterday that the "Wray" would be made the regular quarterback for the Pitt game, but this could not be verified. Rumors of a general shakeup in the varsity eleven were also rampant, but there was no indication that such a move was contemplated by the coaches.

Seven of old Penn players were on the field yesterday afternoon and a unit in declaring that the game was one of the cleanest ever fought between the two rivals. Aside from scratches and a black eye, suffered by Chicken Farrell, there was no other indication that the players had come through such a hard game.

A mixed up varsity eleven with Bill Grave playing in place of the "Wray" who was excused early to take an examination, ran through an hour's light signal drill, after which Coach Heisman called it a day.

The coaches spent considerable time yesterday in teaching Carl Thomas, the best all-around player on the squad, some of the fine points of the punting game. The former Central High School lad showed considerable ability and has all the earmarks of developing into a high-class punter. Happy Day, the substitute lineman, was taken aside yesterday by Ernie Cozens and drilled into center play.

This afternoon and every afternoon until Friday the coaches will send the varsity through an hour's scrimmage drill with the scrubs, who will use Pitt plays. A long tackling drill is promised for every afternoon in addition to a short signal drill.

Pen Points

Practice was terminated at 8:15 yesterday, darkness setting in earlier than the coaches expected. The ball was brought into play for the punter.

George Warner, who played a brilliant game at last Saturday, came in for considerable comment yesterday among the scrubs. Warner, with just a week's practice, has mastered all the intricacies of the Heisman system and in addition has been playing a remarkable line game.

Penn undergraduates are reported to have lost heavily on Saturday's game. Refusing odds as high as three to one on the game, they bet that State could not score more than three touchdowns on their favorites.

Coach Jack Keogh, of the freshman eleven, started yesterday to drill his team for the most important game on the wearing schedule, Mercersburg at Mercersburg on Saturday. As yet the Academy boys have not scored a defeat and have piled up good-size scores on all opponents.

Coach Jack Keogh, of the freshman eleven, started yesterday to drill his team for the most important game on the wearing schedule, Mercersburg at Mercersburg on Saturday. As yet the Academy boys have not scored a defeat and have piled up good-size scores on all opponents.

Eddie McNichol, basketball coach, and his brother Danny, the captain of the quintet, along with Ralph Morgan and Manager Fred Miller, will go to Philadelphia today to aid in arranging the intercollegiate case schedule for the coming season.

The soccer team started yesterday afternoon to prepare for its first intercollegiate League match of the season against Yale at New Haven on Saturday next. With "Bink" Bingham back in the line-up the team is strengthened considerably. Bingham has been suffering from an injured knee.

Ash Paul, who before the war was a clever sprinter on the Penn freshman track team, reported to Coach Robertson for the season yesterday. Paul was a member of George Orton's track squad in 1918.

JERSEY SCHOOLS IN GRID BATTLE

Collingswood and Camden High Football Teams Will Clash This Afternoon

The Collingswood and the Camden High schools football teams will meet on the gridiron at Collingswood this afternoon in what should prove one of the most interesting contests of the New Jersey scholastic season.

Collingswood has been cleaning up everything in sight, and to date has scored 242 points against five opponents. Camden, too, has a fairly good record, having scored 115 points in three games. Two were staged in this city, one against the Germantown High School team, which Camden lost by 7 to 0, and the other against Northeast, which the Jersey boys won by 14 to 7.

Collingswood's victories were at the expense of Gloucester, Haddon Heights, Camden, and Haddonfield. Gloucester, Collingswood has a slight advantage over Camden in weight, the former team's average being 152 pounds, while Camden's average is two points lower.

In the backfield Collingswood averages about 157, while Camden's average is only 148, but on the line Camden has the advantage, with an average weight of 155 to Collingswood's 147.

Warren, the Collingswood fullback, weighs 208 pounds, but he is one of the fastest men on the team, and he has been responsible for a large number of the points made by his team.

HEAVY SCORING LIKELY IN PRINCETON-HARVARD GAME

Both Tigers and Crimson Have Developed Good Attacks. Roper's Backs Will Be Outweighed, but Are Faster

By SPICK HALL

TWO good offensive football machines will meet next Saturday afternoon in the Stadium at Cambridge when the horn toots opening the annual struggle between Harvard and Princeton. Not that either one is weak defensively, but both have this season developed several strings of fine backs. This should be a game in which the offense will win the usual number of touchdowns.

Last fall at Palmer Stadium the Orange and Black had the better of the argument, 10 to 3, until the last few minutes of play. Eddie Casey began running wild. The game ended in a 10-10.

The fine performances of both the Crimson's and Tigers backs are thus far means that both teams are likely to make two or more touchdowns. Harvard has a slight edge in the weight of her backfield men, but Princeton is the speedier.

Will Forget Past

On comparative scores Harvard has the advantage, but when the time for the game next Saturday comes, previous scores will be forgotten and doubtless will have given no real idea of what is going to happen. Last Saturday Princeton had a fierce struggle to lick West Virginia, 10 to 3. Timely forward passing put Princeton in a position to score the only touchdown of the game and also made it possible for Frank Murray to slip a field goal through.

While Princeton was having her hands full with the West Virginians, Harvard was smashing through the University of Virginia for a 24-0 victory. Harvard's great work in defeating Centre College, 21 to 14, has boosted the Crimson stock to a lofty point, in New England, but in this section Princeton is just as strong a favorite as ever.

Heavy

The centre game which resulted in a total of 45 points being scored by the two teams was a battle of attrition and the Cambridge boys were the victors. Princeton doesn't seem to have any great line-smasher equal to Horroon, but the Tiger backs are very swift, versatile and are far from weak on line plays. The Tigers have a great field general and fine running in Don Lourie. He is considered to be one of the best backs in the East.

It will be recalled that at this time last season Princeton had severely criticized on all sides for their poor defense. They were trimmed decisively by both Colgate and West Virginia and this did not help the Tigers any in the pregame comparisons before the Harvard and Yale contests. Nevertheless Roper's team, managed by the Harvard coach, has done well in the contests the tackling of the Princeton men was fierce and accurate.

This season in some of their games Princeton has shown a decided tendency to tackle high, but it would not be at all surprising to see them come back in this department and do just as well defensively as either Yale or Harvard.

UNION A. A. ALL-AMERICANS TO PLAY NEW YORK SHIP

Meet in Gridiron Game on Grounds of Phoenixville Team This Afternoon

Phoenixville, Nov. 2.—The Union A. A. All-American football eleven plays a mid-week game this afternoon, the opposition being the New York Shipbuilders, of Camden. The visitors have a well-balanced aggregation of gridirers and the game may prove anything but a set-up.

Some extra practice will be necessary for the important game scheduled Saturday with the Camden team. Manager Calvin Eyrich has ordered practice Wednesday and Thursday and is also considering getting the boys together on Friday night for the Saturday battle which also will be arranged with the condition that Union place a side bet of $3000. This shows the confidence of the Phoenixville club in the Saturday afternoon game. The line-up of this afternoon's game:

LA SALLE MAY PLAY GERMANTOWN HIGH

Schools Without Game This Week Plan to Meet on Gridiron

Germantown High and La Salle High are without games for Friday, and negotiations are under way now for these teams to meet on the Waterview grounds on Friday afternoon. Interest is keen in both the High School League and the Catholic League competitions, and when teams from these leagues clash a large crowd is always on hand.

Coach Fred Miller, of Germantown, instructed Manager Thornton to make every effort to arrange a good game for this week, as the Germantown tutor feared that interest in the practice would not be so keen with no week-end contest on the roster. With the North-east game only nine days off, Coach Miller will not risk his players getting into a slump.

The Franklin High-Penn Charter game will bring out a large crowd on Thursday, when these teams clash at Queen Lane. Franklin has a first-class aggregation. Penn Charter is strong as well as fast, and the Quakers will give a good account of themselves. It should be a game well worth the trip to the suburban field.

The High School League soccer teams will all be in action, South Philadelphia playing at Northeast, Germantown High at West Philadelphia and Franklin High at Central High.

Ogontz Girls Cancel Game

Swarthmore High's fair field hockey players are much peeved. The Ogontz School girls canceled the game scheduled for next Thursday afternoon, and to make matters worse Ogontz gave no reason for cancelling, say the Garnet players. "Guess they know what a good team we have out there," said one of the Swarthmore players.

Friends' Select's field hockey players will meet the Spingield girls' team in a game at the Philadelphia Cricket Club grounds tomorrow afternoon provided the weatherman was wrong in his guess.

The Friends' Central School girls are practicing two afternoons a week. Miss Marie Henze, coach, has experienced difficulty securing a field for the practice periods. Kingsessing Playground's playing fields, both for the boys and the girls, are much in demand. The Blue and Grey squad is large, from thirty-five to fifty candidates reporting for every practice. When the Friends' Central players are through the Temple University girls report.

The Perkiomen Prep School defeated the National Farm School eleven on Saturday, when the latter followed from the Pennsburg School kicked a goal from place in the last three minutes of play. The Perkiomen boys won by 14 to 7.

The Harrisburg Tech football eleven, after going through twenty-eight games with a maniac, met defeat at the hands of the Pitt eleven on Saturday at Harrisburg by a 20-7 score.

The Mercersburg Academy eleven won its fifth game in succession Saturday by defeating the Lehigh Fresh team, 23 to 0. The Cumberland Valley boys are improving with every contest and will probably make the season without a defeat.

The Williamson Trades School eleven traveled to Pennington on Saturday and came home a loser by eight points. Pennington won by 13 to 12.

The St. Joseph's Prep and the West Catholic High School, which are tied for the lead in the Catholic League, will stage a fast encounter at the Phillies' Ball Park Friday afternoon. The West Catholic boys appear to be the favorites, due to their victory over Catholic High on Saturday.

The football games between Friends' Central School and the Haverford School, which was originally scheduled for Friday afternoon at 11, will be played at Forty-fourth and Parkside avenue on Thursday.

The Interacademle League will have a very short season this year, because of the withdrawal of Friends' Central. Each of the three teams will play two games. The opening contest will be played on Friday afternoon, but it may be transferred to Thursday. Germantown Academy and Kingsessing Academy will be the contestants and the first-mentioned team is looked upon as an easy victor.

On November 12, Penn Charter plays Eggon Academy, and the following Friday will see the only real game expected of the three when the Germantown Academy and Penn Charter meet at Queen Lane, and this should be some fracas.

The Wrentham Military Institute defeated the Bordentown St. on Saturday by 13 to 0.

The La Salle Prep School has played three games so far this season and no defeat has been recorded in any of the three. The first contest was with the Haverford school eleven and the final score was 7-7. The next two games were Catholic School Prep versus Friends' Central, which was a 7-7 tie. The other two, West Catholic and St. Joseph's were the opposing teams.

The Trenton High School football team staged one of the best surprises of the season on Saturday by defeating the Atlantic City school at the shore. It was the first defeat in four starts, and put a "grimace" on the "big boys' faces for the South Jersey championship.

Penn Charter leads the local school eleven in scoring for the season, having scored 122 points. Reading High School is second with 120 points, while the Swarthmore High has counted with an average of 100. Central High is one point shy of this mark.

PITT GETTING SET FOR PENN TUSSLE

Glenn Warner Nervous About His Defense, and Panthers Get Hard Workout

Pittsburgh, Nov. 2.—The University of Pittsburgh football team is facing three games in its schedule that Coach Glenn Warner is very nervous about—Pennsylvania, W. and J. and Penn State. The first named comes on Saturday at Franklin Field, and inasmuch as the Panthers did not show very much of a defense against Jack Sutherland's Lafayette team last Saturday, the famous coach was not willing to give the Panthers much of a rest yesterday.

Warner does not worry much about the score of the Penn State-Pennsylvania game of last Saturday, and will drill his machine thoroughly between now and Thursday night, particularly when it appears as if he will be forced to use several second string men.

Tom Holleran, the plucky quarterback who was hurt in the Syracuse game and played only a few minutes against Georgia Tech which aggravated his torn shoulder ligaments, was on the side lines on Saturday, and Warner would not let him go in notwithstanding his pleadings when the Lafayette huskies carried the ball to Pitt's 5-yard line.

Holleran is not a prospect for next Saturday's game, nor is Harman or McLean. These three men did not do a uniform today. However, Warner is blessed with a plentiful supply of good reserve material, and as he expects to use Hewitt, Davies, McCracken and Anderson in the backfield, the student body isn't worried about the outcome at Franklin Field.

A light drill was worked today, and some signal instruction given by Warner, while the aerial game was practiced for an hour. Pitt did not use this style of play against Lafayette, but depended mostly on Hewitt's line smashing and Tom Davies' end runs.

It was fortunate that the former Kiskiminetus star got out of the mixup twice for long runs that scored touchdowns, or else Sutherland's proteges would have held the Panthers even.

Warner said today that tomorrow's workout would be severe and lengthy. His main hope is that he will get through the Pennsylvania game with his best men intact, ready for the struggle with Washington and Jefferson and State.
